25,200 TONS TO BE RETIRED

14 Other British Cruisers to Follow—Work on New Ships Stops.

New Cruisers Must Be Built or Gun-Power Increased to Meet Disparity.

Navy General Board Approval of the Preliminary Negotiations Heartens Supporters Here.

By RICHARD V. OULAHAN.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—In preparation for a treaty agreement with the United States for naval disarmament, the British Government already has begun to withdraw from active service some of the cruisers which it will be obliged to scrap prior to 1936 but which have not yet reached the age limit when, under the prospective terms of the treaty, they will be retired and their tonnage replaced in part only.

Five British light cruisers which have not reached the age limit have been ordered placed on the disposal-for-sale list.

They are the Yarmouth, 5,250 tons, whose age limit for retirement will not be reached until 1932; the Sydney and Melbourne, 5,400 tons each, age limit 1933; the Birmingham, 5,400 tons, age limit 1934, and the Conquest, 3,750 tons, age limit 1935. The total tonnage of these cruisers is 25,200.

Fourteen other British cruisers, all of them small, will reach the age limit of retirement by 1936. All of these will be retired in accordance with the projected terms of the disarmament treaty as they reach the age limit and will be replaced in part only.

Age Limit of Large Cruisers.

All the larger British cruisers are now and the oldest of these will not reach the age limit until 1938.

These vessels are the Dartmouth, 5,250 tons, due for retirement for age in 1931; the Lowestoft, 5,440 tons, age limit 1934; the Comus, Carysfort, Cleopatra, Calliope, Champion and Castor, each of 3,750 tons and each due for retirement for age in 1935; the Brisbane, 5,400 tons, age limit 1936; and the Cambrian, Canterbury, Constance, Centaur and Concord, each of 3,750 tons and due to be retired for age in 1936.

The total tonnage of these fourteen ships is 57,340.

Prime Minister MacDonald has announced that in the interest of bringing down the larger British cruiser tonnage to an approach to parity with the United States cruiser fleet, work on the construction of two 10,000-ton cruisers, the Surrey and the Northumberland, has been suspended.

With five cruisers of a total tonnage of 25,200 already ordered disposed of, fourteen cruisers of a total tonnage of 57,340 to reach the retirement age by 1936 and two cruisers of a total tonnage of 20,000 not to be finished, the grand total of British cruiser scrapping, retirement or non-construction up to 1936, the year that, according to the preliminary agreement between the United States and Britain, the two cruiser fleets will reach the fixed maximum, will be 102,840.

Some New Cruisers Planned.

It is the intention of the British Government, as made known in the preliminary exchanges, to replace part of this tonnage with new cruiser construction.

The tonnage figures given above are in what are known technically as normal tons, which means the weight of water displaced by the ships when they have fuel and reserve feed water on board. In tables published by the Navy Department yesterday and printed in THE NEW YORK TIMES today, figures for cruisers of Britain as well as the United States were given in standard or treaty tons, that is, the displacement of water when the ships in question are not loaded with fuel and reserve feed water. The total tonnage of British cruisers in commission, under construction and authorized, as given in standard tons in yesterday's table, is 401,791.

As figures of standard or treaty tonnage for individual British cruisers named above are not available today, there must be some divergence from strict accuracy in showing the amount of cruiser tonnage the British must sacrifice up to 1936 in order

MacDonald to Explain Status Of Accord for British Today

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 15.—Premier MacDonald will make a public statement tomorrow on the status of the negotiations with the American Government. There has been some complaint voiced in the British press because most of the information concerning the conversations has come from Washington, whereas the British authorities have been very chary of information.

It is expected that the Prime Minister's statement tomorrow will remove any future cause for such complaints. It is expected he will outline at some length the position to which the negotiations have brought the matter of limitation of the cruiser strength of the English and American fleets.

LONDON, Monday, Sept. 16 (AP).—The Daily News says Mr. MacDonald will hold an informal talk with newspaper men at Downing Street today on the naval negotiations. Such an interview between the Premier and press men would be an innovation in England.

END OF CAPITAL SHIP FORESEEN IN ACCORD

ENGLAND FAVORS THIS MOVE

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 15.—The day of the giant capital ship appears to be approaching its close. It is entirely possible that at the five-power naval conference which meets in London in December serious consideration will be given to the idea of abolishing battleships from the fleets of the world. This would mean that within a few years 10,000-ton cruisers carrying 8-inch guns would be the biggest warships afloat.

And why, it is asked, should any nation need a 35,000-ton floating fortress if no other nation has any such tool of destruction?

When this idea was put forward two months ago, Washington seemed cool to it, perhaps for the very good reason that it desired all efforts to be focused on the more immediate cruiser problem. But now comes the news from the American capital that it will propose in December an extension of the holiday in capital-ship construction to 1936 instead of 1931. The holiday was decided at the Washington conference in 1921.

Britain Probably Agreed.

This proposal gets a good reception here, and why should it not? It is quite likely the MacDonald Government has already assented. Such assent would involve nothing startling, for at the three-power naval conference at Geneva in 1927 First Lord of the Admiralty Bridgeman proposed "an extension of the accepted life of the existing capital ships from twenty to twenty-six years and a consequent waiver by the three powers of their full rights under the replacement tables agreed upon at Washington."

It would thus seem that the reported American proposal has a good chance of acceptance since Japan was favorable to it in 1927 and since neither Italy nor France is planning

Mill Manager Corroborates Story of Shooting—Prisoners Held in Bail for Grand Jury.

Special to The New York Times.

GASTONIA, N. C., Sept. 15.—Seven men were charged with the murder of Mrs. Ella May Wiggins here this afternoon, less than twenty-four hours after she had been shot to death by an anti-Communist mob as she fled in a truck, with twenty-two other textile strikers.

Six of the men charged with the crime are employes in the Loray Mill here. The seventh is the truck driver who drove the death car from Bessemer City, eight miles away, bringing the Red sympathizers to a scheduled Communist rally here, which never took place.

The men are held in $1,000 bail each for the October grand jury term. It is charged that they "did conspire, confederate and agree together to slay and did slay Ella May Wiggins," who was 35 years old and the mother of five children.

The charge means either second degree murder or manslaughter. J. A. Baugh Jr., resident manager of the Manville-Jenckes Company of Pawtucket, R. I., owners of the Loray mill, signed the bonds for his employes.

Mrs. Wiggins was to have been buried here this afternoon, but a call to the undertaking parlor where the body is held asked that the ministers and others be notified that the funeral had been postponed until Tuesday. It was said the textile union wanted time to arrange for a "mass funeral."

The Accused.

Those named in the murder charge were:

H. M. SOSSOMAN, described as a "mill boss."

WILL LUNCHFORD, mill foreman, said to have jumped out of an automobile while the shooting was going on and shouted, "That's enough shooting, boys."

TROY JONES, who recently "threatened to blow up union headquarters" and sued the National Textile Workers' Union for $100,000 for alienation of his wife's affections.

THEODORE SIMMS, a middle-aged office man at the mill.

F. C. MORROW, mill worker who drove the car which was in collision with the strikers' truck.

The inquiry today into Gastonia's second anti-Communist riot within a week was held before a jury of six men sworn in by Coroner J. F. Wallace. The examination of thirty witnesses was conducted by Solicitor John C. Carpenter, who was assisted by Judge N. A. T. Townsend, executive counsel and personal representative of Governor O. Max Gardner.

Major A. L. Bulwinkle, counsel for textile interests, represented the six mill employes among the accused, while R. E. Sigmon, attorney for the International Labor Defense, and H. L. Kiser, a Gastonia lawyer, represented Lingerfelt, the driver of the strikers' truck.

At the end of today's session Solicitor Carpenter announced the coroner's inquiry would be resumed here next Saturday morning.

Mountaineer Gives Graphic Account.

Eyewitness accounts of the raid on the strikers' truck five miles south of here yesterday afternoon were dramatic. Witness after witness told of fleeing strikers being hunted like jack-rabbits as they raced across a

Report That French Troops Will Occupy Zone Vacated by British Stirs Germany

By The Associated Press.

LONDON, Monday, Sept. 16.—A dispatch to The Daily Express today from Wiesbaden says that General Thwaites, commander of the British Rhineland occupation forces, has received an urgent request from War Minister Shaw for an important conference on the whole question of evacuation. He is due here later today and is expected to confer with Prime Minister MacDonald as well as with the Minister of War.

The Express correspondent intimates that a difficult situation has been created by the announcement that as the British troops leave their zone French troops will take their places. This was said to have caused intense anger in the Rhineland.

The dispatch added, "All kinds of diplomatic complications have to be sorted out."

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 15.—Crowds six and seven deep lined the approaches to Victoria Station tonight to greet the first troops returning to London from the Rhineland.

A burst of cheers rang out beneath the trainshed as sixty-six men of the Second Leicestershire and Second Dorsetshire Regiments stepped from the train and was echoed in the streets outside as the little detachment marched off. They looked businesslike in their steel helmets, but tired after the nineteen-hour train journey from Wiesbaden to Ostend.

"We are not too keen on coming back," he said. "We liked the Germans and they liked us. We lived well and had a good time in many ways—and some of us have left girls behind us."

The returning detachments are being sent to Catterick Camp in Yorkshire and the Portland encampment.

JUELICH, Germany, Sept. 15 (AP).—Two battalions of Belgian infantry will evacuate this town tomorrow. One battalion of Pioneers, including a detachment of military police, will remain until Oct. 28.

Juelich, with a population of 10,000 and with 4,000 foreign troops, had proportionately the largest occupation of the entire Rhineland. About 11 per cent of the living quarters were requisitioned here for the occupation forces. Evacuation of the entire Belgian occupied area in the second zone will be officially concluded on Nov. 30.

LUMBER BLOC LEADS NEW TARIFF REVOLT

HOUSE GROUP JOINING THEM

Concessions Are Predicted—Robinson for Expert Board Reporting to Congress.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—Another revolt in the Republican ranks over tariff schedules has developed, with three Northern Pacific Coast Senators threatening to vote against the bill unless it carries a duty on shingles and lumber. Senators McNary and Steiwer of Oregon and Jones of Washington, all stalwart Republicans, have asserted that sentiment in their communities will prevent their supporting the bill unless the lumber interests receive protection.

This group may be joined by three or four others, such as Senators Thomas of Idaho and Johnson of California, while they have been assured of accessions from groups in the East which are said to be willing to join their protest in order to maintain rates on industrials which are threatened by the fifteen insurgent Republicans composing the farm bloc.

Republican conservative leaders recognize that the lumber bloc must be brought to support the bill by compromises or the measure may be defeated if the fifteen in the farm bloc, led by Senators Borah and Capper, carry their fight to the extent of voting against the measure, as they now assert they will do unless radical changes are obtained.

Disaffection in the Republican party is now most apparent and conservative leaders are greatly concerned over developments. They admit that, with the lumber bloc and the farm group maintaining an inflexible opposition, the bill as framed would be doomed to defeat.

It is their opinion, however, that all the threats now being made will not be carried into effect and that they can, by certain concessions, break down the opposition sufficiently to assure the bill being passed in the Senate.

Leaders Admit View Is Ominous.

Privately the leaders say that the prospect is none too promising, and their present fear is that the farm bloc may be strong enough to cause some changes in the industrial schedules which will raise opposition in Eastern centres and intensify the already formidable opposition in the majority party.

The three Senators from Washington and Oregon are represented as fully determined to vote against the bill unless a duty is put on shingles.

They say that all of the Republican newspapers of their States are urging such a course and declaring that the bill has been drafted without regard to the cardinal principle of protecting all American industries that need it to overcome foreign competition.

The aroused Northwest has demanded of the House members from Washington and Oregon to vote against any conference report which does not carry a duty on lumber, and reports are to the effect that this will result, with Representative Hawley of Oregon, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, ready to lead the revolt in the House.

Leading Republican newspapers, including The Portland Oregonian, which has been regarded as a stalwart party journal, are filled with bitter denunciation of the bill. They assert that the Underwood bill enacted by the Democrats in 1913 carried a duty on shingles, and that the people of these two States would fare better under the present tariff than the proposed one. Some of the comment is pointed. It is asserted that American lumber interests with

GIRL KILLED ON RIDE; PARTY GUEST HUNTED

SECOND YOUTH ARRESTED

He Says He Saw Driver Running Away When Scream Aroused Him From Doze in Car.

A girl 22 years old, one of the guests at a Staten Island birthday party, died early yesterday morning when she was thrown or fell from an automobile under mysterious circumstances. A young man, also a guest at the party, was held on a charge of manslaughter, and the police are looking for another youth, known to them only as "Jimmy."

The girl was Dorothy Dyer, a telephone operator, one of the twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dyer of 108 Delafield Avenue, West New Brighton. She died of a fractured skull in St. Vincent's Hospital there shortly after 5 o'clock yesterday morning. Harold Cleary, 19 years old, who lives at 327 Hanover Avenue, Concord, S. I., is in Richmond County jail, held without bail for examination on the manslaughter charge.

Mystery Veils Ride.

The girl, the police say, was fatally injured in some manner still unexplained, on a motor ride which the girl, Cleary and the mysterious "Jimmy" took early in the morning.

The difficulty in finding the youth named "Jimmy" is due to the fact, the police say, that apparently he had "crashed" the party, coming uninvited with several other youths and mingling with the other guests. None of the forty guests or the hostess, Mrs. Mary Lunny of 108 Delafield Avenue, seems to have any inkling as to who he was or what his last name was.

It was "Jimmy," according to the story which Cleary told the police, who was driving the car with the girl beside him. Cleary himself, he said, was dozing in the back seat when the unexplained event occurred. Cleary awakened, he told police, when the girl screamed, to discover her stretched on the curb beside the stalled car. "Jimmy" was disappearing on foot rapidly down the street, Cleary said.

Miss Dyer seldom went out to parties without her twin sister Dorothea, but Saturday night was an exception. A friend, Madeleine Brennan of Port Richmond, who worked in the same telephone bureau, asked her to go with her to the celebration of Beatrice Lunny's sixteenth birthday. Miss Lunny is the daughter of Patrolman Frank Lunny, attached to Police Headquarters at St. George, S. I.

Stranger Drives Auto.

Cleary and Miss Dyer struck up a friendship, and about 3 o'clock in the morning she asked him, according to his story, to take her for a ride in his car. The car, he explained, was really his step-father's, and since he had no license he was afraid to drive it. The mysterious "Jimmy" volunteered, however, and the three started off.

In Rosebank they ran out of gasoline, and stopped at a filling station at 1,059 Bay Street. This halt was verified yesterday by William Luthard, on duty there, who said there were three persons in the car. Starting again, Cleary said, he climbed into the back seat and fell asleep, to be awakened by the girl's scream.

Cleary took Miss Dyer back to the Lunny home. Efforts were made to get a doctor, and finally the girl was taken to the hospital, where she died. The wound which caused the fracture of her skull was in the forehead.

Cleary said he had had several drinks during the evening. Detective Sergeants Graham and Becker are investigating the case.

Project's Sponsors See Network Touching All Sections Now in Need of Rapid Transit.

Plans for the second stage of the city's independent rapid transit program, calling for a 100-mile network covering four boroughs, at an estimated cost of $438,400,000 for construction alone, were made public yesterday by the Board of Transportation. They provide for additional new lines in Manhattan, Brooklyn, Queens and the Bronx and substantial additions to I. R. T. and B. M. T. lines now subject to recapture under contracts with the city.

The new system, comprising 294 track miles, will set up a network extending from the lower tip of Manhattan to the furthest reaches of the Bronx. Its lines will also penetrate to the Sheepshead Bay section and traverse the Rockaway Peninsula as well as adding transit facilities in other Brooklyn and Queens sections now without rapid transit facilities.

One of the outstanding features of the scheme will be the linking of the new system with the subway routes contained in the first stage of the city's program. This stage is already well advanced with $388,000,000 of construction and equipment work under contract.

Big Items Not in Cost Estimate.

The cost estimate does not include the expense involved in the acquisition of private property, the financing of construction by the issue of short-term city bonds, equipment costs and other substantial items. City transportation officials have estimated that the total cost of the program will reach the $800,000,000 mark before actual operation commences.

The plans, as published by the Board of Transportation, are subject to change, both as to routes and cost. They will be submitted to the Board of Estimate for approval after civic associations and other interested groups have had a chance to study them and offer suggestions or criticisms. In any event, it is believed that the first construction bids will not be sought for many months.

Although the outstanding feature of the new system will be a trunk-line subway under Second Avenue, connecting at the Harlem River with new arteries for service to the Bronx, only 11.87 miles of the new routes will be in Manhattan. The Bronx will receive 19.04 miles, Brooklyn 15.94 miles and Queens 52.37 miles.

The allocation of routes to the four boroughs, together with the route and track mileage and estimated costs for construction, are detailed in a table published elsewhere in these columns. The published map shows the entire new system and indicates its connections with existing I. R. T. and B. M. T. lines, as well as those now under construction by the city.

East Side Belt Line.

The plans provide for an east side belt line in Manhattan through Water and Pearl Streets, New Bowery, Chrystie Street and Second Avenue to the Harlem River; also for a new subway in Houston Street from Essex Street to Williamsburg, Brooklyn; a subway in Worth Street, East Broadway and Grand Street from Church Street to Williamsburg; and a subway in Fifty-seventh or Sixty-first Street from Second Avenue to Sixth Avenue and Fifty-third Street. The last-named route will provide a two-track link between the Sixth Avenue line contemplated in the first

Paraguayans Fire Bombs in Joy At News of Our Aid in Dispute

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 15.—Although Washington dispatches say that the United States offered only the good offices of Maj. Gen. Frank R. McCoy and not those of the government itself for a further study of the Bolivian-Paraguayan territorial dispute in Chaco, the Paraguayan public has interpreted the news as an offer of the good offices of the United States and has welcomed it with joy.

One newspaper in Asuncion fired bombs in announcing the bulletins, which caused general satisfaction to its readers, who believe the continued interest of the United States will prevent the threatened renewal of a critical situation between the two republics. The newspapers unanimously declare editorially that the matter has entered a satisfactory phase which is very likely to lead to the arbitration of the basic problem—that of a boundary line dividing Bolivian and Paraguayan sovereignty in Chaco.

SEABOARD MERGES IN EQUITABLE TODAY

LARGER CAPITAL PLANNED

Split-Up of Shares Also to Be Proposed—A. W. Loasby Made Chairman.

Formal consolidation of the Seaboard National Bank and the Equitable Trust Company will be effected today, completing the merger which was made possible by an exchange of one and one-half shares of Equitable stock for each share of Seaboard. The new institution, with resources in excess of $800,000,000, will retain the name and charter of the Equitable Trust Company of New York. Its combined capital, surplus and undivided profits will be $90,000,000, divided as follows: capital $46,500,000; surplus, $38,500,000, and undivided profits, about $5,000,000. Plans for an increase in the capitalization and a split up of the shares will be announced in the near future.

Loasby Made Chairman.

Arthur W. Loasby, who has been president of the Equitable, becomes chairman of the board and Chellis A. Austin, president of the Seaboard, becomes president of the Equitable. The main offices of the Seaboard were moved on Saturday from the building at 56 Broad Street, which has been sold to the Manufacturers' Trust Company, to the new Equitable building at 11 Broad Street, where ample accommodation has been provided for the physical facilities of the merged institution.

As a result of the merger the Equitable Trust Company will have eight offices in New York City. The Seaboard's midtown office, at 34 East Forty-fifth Street, is to be consolidated with the Equitable office at Forty-fifth Street and Madison Avenue. Four new offices will be opened within a few months in the metropolitan district.

The consolidated company will have offices also in Philadelphia, Baltimore, Atlanta, Chicago, Dallas, San Francisco, Pittsburgh, Boston and Washington. The Equitable has main-

INSISTS ON PUBLIC CONTROL

Morgan Foothold on the St. Lawrence Makes Step Imperative, He Says.

TO PRESS PROPOSAL AGAIN

Will Ask Legislature to Create State Agency, Holding Voters Have Approved It.

He Asserts Power Is Not Owned Privately—Lease, Not Merely a Permit, Is Needed.

Governor Roosevelt announced yesterday a firm stand against the private development of St. Lawrence River hydroelectric power by the huge power system backed by the Morgan interests. He insisted that the State must be the agency to utilize those water-power sites.

Avowing that the recent mergers of public utility and power companies made a policy of State development more imperative than ever, he asserted that he intended to take action to try to put through the Legislature again the State development power plan which that body ignored at its last session.

"It is the question," the Governor said, "of whether the site shall be developed by a private power company after the State has given them a long-term—virtually a perpetual—lease of the State property or whether the State itself shall create public trustees to build the dam on the State's property, put in a power house and sell the electricity in such manner as will guarantee to the private citizens who consume the power the lowest possible cost in their homes and industries."

Sees Situation Unchanged.

The Governor said that the situation created by the Morgan acquisition of the Frontier Corporation was exactly the same as when Governor Smith and the power interests clashed in 1926 on the same issue and the Governor won out. The Governor phrased his statement, made public at his home here, as follows:

"As between the two methods, I feel that public opinion in this State has expressed itself definitely on at least two occasions. In the 1926 election this question was the major issue of the campaign and again last Autumn it was an issue which was sharply drawn between the Republican candidate and myself."

In both those political battles the Democrats stood for public development, and their candidates were successful, and though Governor Roosevelt's plan for State development of St. Lawrence power never got out of committee in the last Legislature, he disclosed his intention of pushing it once again when he said:

"It goes almost without saying that I shall again ask the Legislature to create a body of public trustees to undertake the St. Lawrence development by and for the people of this State."

Public attention was focused again on the St. Lawrence water power issue within the past few days when the purchase by the Morgan interests of the Frontier Corporation was announced. This corporation owns the shores and islands along the Long Sault Rapids on the St. Lawrence, capable of developing 1,400,000 horsepower.

The Frontier Corporation was originally backed by the Mellon, du Pont and General Electric interests and sought to make arrangements to develop the site in 1926. It was then that Governor Smith took his stand that the development must be by the State.

Meanwhile the Morgan interests branched out in the power field and several months ago the creation of the Niagara-Hudson Power Corporation, through the merger of several up-State companies, was made known. Last Friday the purchase by the Niagara-Hudson of the Frontier Corporation became public.

Sees False Conception.

In declaring his position at this juncture and reiterating that the State and not private companies must develop the site, Governor Roosevelt went to some length to correct what he characterized as a false picture of the situation.

This incorrect picture, he said, had implied that the new company owned the entire St. Lawrence site and required only a permit from the State to begin actual development. This, said the Governor, was entirely incorrect. The company owned only certain parts of the river bank, he said, and the State owned the bed

Eleven New Chicago Twenty-Hour Trains Announced by Central and Pennsylvania

Fast train service on a scale never before attempted will be started between New York and Chicago on Sept. 29, when Daylight Time will end. The New York Central then will begin operating seven additional passenger trains, counting trains which will give service in both directions as two, between these points on the twenty-hour schedule which, if now maintains only with the Twentieth Century. The Pennsylvania will place four trains on the twenty-hour schedule now followed by its Broadway Limited. Railroad men said yesterday that the operation of so many trains at this speed over such a distance was unprecedented.

These train movements will provide at frequent intervals service which now is given only once daily by each of the roads.

The New York Central also will cut the time of other through trains. It will reduce that of the Iroquois to Chicago thirty minutes, making its air-rail service to the Pacific Coast the fastest on the continent, or forty-five and one-half hours instead of forty-six.

Fares and equipment on the new twenty-hour trains will be the same as on the Twentieth Century and the Broadway Limited.

The New York Central will start three new trains and increase the speed of one to provide the new service. One new train, the Advance Twentieth Century Limited, will leave New York at 2 P. M., forty-five minutes ahead of its namesake, and will leave Chicago at noon, forty minutes ahead of the present Twentieth Century. Another twenty-hour train will be the Commodore Vanderbilt, leaving New York at 4 P. M. and Chicago at 2 P. M. The time of the Wolverine, both to and from Chicago, will be reduced from twenty-one to twenty hours. This train will leave this city at 5 P. M. instead of 6:10. Another twenty-hour train, the Fast Mail, will operate eastbound only, leaving Chicago at 9:50 A. M.

The Pennsylvania will start a new train, the Golden Arrow, in both directions, leaving New York at 2 P. M. It will start a train known also as the Fast Mail, eastbound only, leaving Chicago at 8:50 A. M. The time of the Pennsylvania Limited, which has been in operation since 1881, will be reduced fifty minutes to twenty hours. That train will leave New York at 2 P. M. instead of 12:06 P. M. and the Broadway Limited at 3 P. M. instead of 1:05 P. M.

LONDON, Sept. 15.—A son was born today to Lady Diana Duff-Cooper who played the part of the nun in Max Reinhardt's production of "The Miracle" at the Century Theatre in New York. It is her first child.

Although it is almost unheard of for any except a royal baby to receive a tribute of an editorial in a London newspaper, The Daily News will say tomorrow: "The birth of a son to Lady Diana will be regarded with sympathetic interest by innumerable people. She has not chosen to be bound by the traditions of her birth and youth. She has made for herself a niche conspicuous and honorable, in the artistic world and has come to stand as representative of that modern social England which has the widest possible interests. She has caught the popular imagination by ranking first a happy marriage with its normal completion in the cradle. There are thousands whom she cannot possibly know who will wish her and her son the best of luck."

LONDON, Sept. 15 (AP).—Lady Diana Duff-Cooper, noted beauty and sister of the Duke of Rutland, is the wife of Alfred Duff-Cooper. Lady Diana is a woman of many accomplishments, being well known as a hostess, traveler, patroness of the arts and actress.

Viscount Castle Rosse once paid her the compliment of saying: "If I think Lady Diana is the only beautiful woman I ever met who was really unconscious of her loveliness."

of the river out to the Canadian boundary and therefore a lease and not a permit or a license was required to put up a dam. The legal status was exactly the same as in 1926, he said.

The Governor's Statement.

I feel that the record in regard to the constantly increasing size of the so-called Morgan power mergers in the East should be kept straight. For instance, the organization by the Mohawk-Hudson Company of the Frontier Power Corporation does not in any way change the legal status of the great St. Lawrence power question. It is merely a transfer of ownership from one friend to another.

It has been intimated that the new ownership may at some future date seek to revive the application for a license to develop the St. Lawrence power. This suggests a wholly false picture of the situation because it intimates that the Frontier Power Company owned the St. Lawrence site and required only a permit from the State of New York to begin actual development. The facts are wholly different. All that the Frontier Power Corporation owned were certain portions of the bank of the St. Lawrence River on the New York side. They did not and could not own any of the river bed or the water flowing over it. In other words, the actual bed of the river is owned, from the river bank out to the Canadian boundary, by the people of the State of New York. Therefore, if the new power merger were to seek development of a great power plant they would have to ask the State of New York, not for a license or permit, but for an actual lease of the land under water owned by the State, and a lease of the right to put up a dam on this State land and use the resulting impounded water.

The clear situation must not be confused by giving the idea that the Frontier Power Corporation or the new Mohawk-Hudson merger had or have the ownership of the St. Lawrence site. That ownership still vests in the people of the State of New York. The very simple question still remains the same after this new merger. It is the question of whether the site shall be developed by a private power company after the State has given it a long-term—virtually a perpetual—lease of the State property or whether the State itself shall create public trustees to build the dam on the State's property, put in a power house and sell the electricity in such manner as will guarantee to the private citizens who consume the power the lowest possible cost in their homes and industries.

As between the two methods I feel that public opinion in this State has expressed itself definitely on at least two occasions. In the 1926 election this question was the major issue of the campaign and again last Autumn it was an issue which was sharply drawn between the Republican candidate and myself.

Furthermore, it must be borne in mind that the St. Lawrence development has three other factors of great importance—the Federal Government's interest in navigation, the Canadian Dominion Government's interest in navigation and the interest of the Province of Ontario in its half of the potential power development. Development of the site itself by public trustees in this State and on the Canadian side is far more feasible than an attempted development by private corporations because of the various governmental agencies involved.

It goes almost without saying that I shall again ask the Legislature to create a body of public trustees to undertake the St. Lawrence development by and for the people of this State. The recent concentration of ownership of hydroelectric light and power companies into one private ownership covering about 80 per cent of the area of the whole State makes this policy of State development of the one remaining great source of electric supply more and more imperative.

Plan Urged by Governor.

The plan for development by a body of public trustees which the Governor mentioned in the statement was submitted to the Legislature on March 12 in a special message and a bill to carry out the suggestions was introduced.

This message, which the Governor himself read to the Legislature, related only to development of power on the St. Lawrence and did not mention other water power properties of the State. It recommended the building of a dam across the river, the construction of the plant, its operation and permanent physical possession by the State.

Transmission of the hydroelectric energy to the ultimate consumer over a system of privately owned lines was recommended with transmission under State auspices urged only as a last resort if private transmission should not work out acceptably. The plan called for the creation of a "board of trustees of the water power resources on the St. Lawrence" composed of five members as the corporate instrumentality of the State to carry the plan into effect. Governor Roosevelt, distrustful of regulation of rates to the consumer by the Public Service Commission as Governor Smith had suggested, provided in his plan for establishing rates by contract, executed between the proposed board of trustees and private companies transmitting the power in such a way as to insure reasonable rates.

Same Plan May Be Offered.

While the opening of the Legislature is still some months away and details may be changed, it is believed that the Governor will offer substantially the same plan again after the first of the new year. With another Republican majority against him, however, success in enacting the project is believed improbable.

In the face of this situation, it has been said, Governor Roosevelt is not without hope that some amicable agreement for power development may eventually be reached with the financial interests whereby the Governor and his party get a fair share of what they have stood for during recent years.

Mr. Roosevelt was reported to be in a position early in the year where the water power interests were inclined toward friendly dealings. Owen D. Young, chairman of the board of the General Electric Company and a prominent member of the Governor's own party, was said to have occupied a place as a friendly intermediary.

No details of such a proposed settlement ever came to light nor was it learned whether negotiations reached that point, but with the departure of Mr. Young for Europe for the reparations conference it was said that the move lagged.

When the Morgan interests entered the power field at first, it was reported that they were not averse to consideration of a compromise. The merger negotiations went on with the creation of the Niagara Hudson Company, with F. L. Carlisle & Co. in which H. Edmund Machold, former Republican State chairman and opponent of the Smith-Roosevelt water power policy, is a partner, taking part.

The creation of the new power group, it was said, was followed by a less willing attitude to compromise. It was reported that influential Republicans had influenced the group by urging that it hold out for what it thought it was entitled to in the hope that within a few years a State election would give the Republican party a Governor who would be more in sympathy with private water power development.

Governor Roosevelt, it is reported, is not ignoring entirely the possibility of an agreement, but with water power looming as an issue for the State campaign next year it is believed that at least one more State election must pass before there is any probability of an agreement.

NEW YORK SHIP FREED AFTER GOING AGROUND

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 15 (AP).—Messages received here tonight from the Panama Mail liner Guatemala, which went aground off Mazatlan in the Mexican Gulf today, stated the vessel had been floated and was proceeding to Los Angeles, apparently undamaged.

SAN PEDRO, Cal., Sept. 15 (AP).—The Panama Mail liner Guatemala grounded on a mud flat in Mazatlan, Mexico, harbor in a fog today, Captain A. C. Paulsen reported here by radio.

The vessel was manoeuvring to dock prior to sailing for this port, where she was due Tuesday, when the mishap occurred. Most of its seventy passengers were ashore at the time.

Captain Paulsen said he expected the vessel might be floated free by the next tide.

The Venezuela, sister ship of the Guatemala, was ordered to proceed to her assistance. The Venezuela left here early today for the Panama Canal and was due off Mazatlan Wednesday afternoon. A salvage steamer made ready to go to the assistance of the Guatemala, but in view of the late advices officials said it probably would not be sent.

The Guatemala is a single screw steel steamship of 4,860 gross tons, 300 feet long and 51 feet beam, and is owned by the Grace Line, 1 Hanover Square. She was built at Cramps Yard, Philadelphia, in 1918 as the Santa Ana and was operated for some time between New York and Valparaiso.

Captain A. C. Paulsen is the master of the Guatemala, which carries a crew of 100 men and had seventy passengers and a general cargo bound from New York to West Coast ports between Panama and San Francisco.

No information could be obtained last night here of the accident from any of the officials of the Panama Mail Line or the Grace Company, which owns the line.

SAO PAULO, Brazil, Sept. 15.—The British economic mission headed by Lord D'Abernon arrived in Rio de Janeiro today from Buenos Aires. The mission, composed of seven of the leading figures of English industry, is making an unofficial study on how to increase the exchange of commerce between Argentina, Uruguay and Brazil on one hand and England on the other. The party is scheduled to stay in Rio de Janeiro five days and then come to Sao Paulo, where it will make a study of the coffee situation. Bankers are of the opinion that the British are studying the possibility of making a large loan to Brazil.

GENEVA FEARS PARIS SEEKS TO STOP PACT

Report That France Wants the Arms and Naval Meetings Held at Same Time Rouses Alarm.

FRANCO-GERMAN AMITY SEEN

Plan for European Union Is Expected to Bring Stresemann and Briand Into Accord.

By CLARENCE K. STREIT.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, Sept. 15.—A report from Geneva contained in this morning's Petit Parisien that the Preparatory Disarmament Commission is likely to meet in December at the same time as the proposed five-power conference caused considerable surprise when the paper was received here late tonight.

The obvious assumption that it is a manoeuvre on the part of the French to block any five-power naval parley, at least one held outside of Geneva, gained support when it was learned from a source in a position to know that the French want the five-power conversations to go on at Geneva during the Preparatory Commission's next session, and they are not likely to participate otherwise. Least of all is France likely to attend the parley if it is held in London, where they feel the atmosphere to be unfavorable to them.

Moreover, they consider it unpolitic to accept London as the site of the conference in view of Labor's manifest intention to reopen the trained reserve question eventually, as shown by Lord Cecil's proposed resolution, and the attitude toward an entente cordiale that Philip Snowden, Chancellor of the Exchequer, showed at The Hague.

Intrigues Behind Scenes.

Wires are undoubtedly being pulled here to have the Preparatory Commission convoked at or near the time proposed for the five-power parley, and behind the scenes the manoeuvres here are coming to be very intricate. Thus the French tonight let it be understood that the Japanese were the source of the Parisien report.

The Japanese disarmament delegate, M. Sato, however, showed marked astonishment when shown the Paris paper, and declared that it was impossible for the preparatory commission to meet December, or simultaneously with the five-power parley. He agreed that the Disarmament Section secretaries are anxious to have the commission meet as soon as possible, but he pointed out that it is not a question for the Secretariat to decide. As a matter of fact, when the commission adjourned in May it was with the understanding that its president in London would reconvoke it when a naval settlement was assured.

It is reported that the British are making discreet diplomatic soundings here on the attitude of the French and Italians toward attending a five-power naval conference, though British circles say they understand such soundings are to be left for Washington to make in Paris and Rome.

Labor Acts Independently.

It would appear, however, that British action here is confined to finding a way to serve notice that the Labor Government does not consider itself bound by the policy of its predecessor, especially as regards trained reserves, without creating a situation which might influence the French and Italians not to attend a naval parley. This attempt will probably be made when the third Commission of the Assembly takes up the work of the Preparatory Disarmament Commission next week.

In other words, it depends on the form eventually given to Lord Cecil's proposed resolution or memorandum of recommendations to the Preparatory Commission whether the hostility already aroused by it in France will be mollified, so that Paris will be in a better frame of mind when invited to the naval conference.

It is thought that a satisfactory formula can be reached, since the main purpose of the Cecil resolution is to make clear that the Labor Government intends to enter an eventual general disarmament conference with free hands on all questions of land disarmament.

In fact, all powers, including Britain, already have it fairly clear that they intend to enter that conference with free hands. For that reason, even some British circles say the Cecil resolution is really unnecessary, or only useful in making assurance doubly sure as regards the Labor Government's intention eventually to reopen the trained reserve question.

While the terms of the expected Anglo-American naval agreement are awaited here, it is becoming more and more likely that the example of President Hoover and Premier MacDonald will be followed by Premier Briand of France and Foreign Minister Stresemann of Germany in regard to the proposed European federation.

The view is shared in certain high German and French circles that just as an Anglo-American accord must precede general naval reduction, so a Franco-German understanding must be reached before plans for the federation can pass beyond the present stage. It is understood here that preparations are being made to enable M. Briand and Dr. Stresemann to "get down to brass tacks" on the political and economic aspects of the projected European union in the near future—probably when they meet at the next session of the League Council.

The Germans stress especially the economic side of a European federation for they see the greatest advantages for them there. To them M. Briand's plan looms as an extension of their own dream of a Mittel-Europa, which they came so close to achieving at one time during the World War. They want the federation to assure to them, at least in the less developed parts of the Baltic coast, in East Central Europe and the Balkans, much the same dominating industrial and commercial position they sought in their Mittel-Europa scheme.

High Cards on Both Sides.

The French realize that any real European federation normally would result in making the country highly industrialized as Germany is the dominant economic centre. They also are aware that many countries of Mittel-Europa look with great anxiety at such a prospect. That makes the political capitalization of this feeling the chief card the French can play against Germany's economic aces in the formation of the proposed federation.

It is significant that M. Briand, after starting the idea as a purely economic affair, since has been stressing more and more the political side and he has been encouraged in this by such countries as Finland and Yugoslavia.

Just as the French are aware that Germany is strong enough on the economic side to block the federation, the Germans realize that the French, particularly with their system of alliances with Poland, Czechoslovakia, Rumania and Yugoslavia, are strong enough politically to block them. Hence, it is held that the French and Germans will have first to get together, make mutual concessions and reach an understanding on a common program for the federation or there will be a stalemate.

Assurance Seen in Agreement.

Both sides believe that if they can agree then some sort of federation is assured, for not only all client nations would each then have to follow suit, but such powers as Italy could not afford to stay outside and a continental union built around a Franco-German keystone would be so strong it would not be greatly affected if the United Kingdom stayed outside.

Those optimistic that M. Briand and Dr. Stresemann will be able to reach an agreement point to the fact that even on the economic side France and Germany supplement each other in many respects, as in one having iron and the other coal, and in the past few years thirty-two Franco-German cartels already have been formed with more in prospect. It is considered significant, also, that a number of British observers look askance at M. Briand's plan as representing a basically Franco-German rapprochement for that domination of the Continent against which England's traditional policy of keeping the European balance in its own hands has been aimed.

Moreover, it is held that the continuous and growing pressure which the United States, due to the combination of its debt policy, whereby most of the reparations go to strengthen it as the strongest financial power, and its resulting loans and investments in Europe, its increasingly high tariff, its mass production and increasing exports, its political aloofness not only toward Europe but the League, its progress in bringing Europe's greatest naval power down to parity with it (with resulting continental suspicions of a general accord leading to Anglo-American domination) and the example of prosperity its federal system sets—it is held that the pressure all this is exerting on all European states to get together at every session of the present assembly makes it most evident it will be a powerful factor, too, in bringing the French and Germans to agreement.

Miner, Pinned in Sitting Posture Twelve Hours, Vainly Battles to Save Mate Buried Alive

MAHANOY CITY, Pa., Sept. 15.—Buried alive in a sitting position for twelve hours, Edward Warning, a miner, spent the time while waiting for what seemed certain death for himself in a futile struggle to keep alive one of his mates, the foreman of a crew of six men, trapped by a cave-in here yesterday.

Rescuers after a frantic struggle finally reached the buried men. Warning and another worker, Edward Mokaitis, were still alive, but William Wolfgang and three others were dead.

Warning was working beside Wolfgang, the foreman, when the cave-in occurred as the men were setting tunnel supports in the south side of the Buck Mountain colliery workings of the Lehigh Valley Company.

A fallen timber held Warning down, but he was kept free of the clay by the "collar" of the timbers set. During the hours in which the rescuers were digging, Warning could reach Wolfgang, who was almost buried, with more earth sliding on him. Warning managed to keep the clay brushed away from the foreman's nose and mouth to permit him to breathe, but after hours of this struggle in their tomb Wolfgang died from internal injuries.

It was some time after Wolfgang died that the rescuers reached the buried men, but before that time they had heard the voice of the miner trying to encourage the man under the earth beside him.

Warning, who is 42, was in the Locust Mountain Hospital today on the road to recovery. Mokaitis, the other man rescued, was caught only by the tail end of the fall, suffering a dislocated shoulder and head injuries. He is at Ashland Hospital.

DEMANDS CIVIL TEST FOR MITCHELL AIDES

ASKS HOOVER TO ACT

Would End Executive Order Which Allows Appointments Without Competitive Examinations.

Protesting against the filling of "confidential" positions in the Department of Justice without competitive tests, the National Civil Service Reform League made public yesterday correspondence with the department urging it to ask President Hoover to rescind the Executive order that permits this practice.

George McAneny, president of the league, in a letter to Attorney General William D. Mitchell, said that a study of recent appointments "seems to indicate that the special exception clause has been invoked with a liberality that could not possibly have been within the purpose of the rule at the time of its adoption."

Citing a list of appointments between June, 1928, and June, 1929, Mr. McAneny said that many of them correspond in character "to many similar positions in other departments of the Government that have long been filled through open competition."

The league's correspondence with the Attorney General's office, as given out by Mr. McAneny, showed that on July 16, in reply to Mr. McAneny's first letter, Charles P. Sisson, Assistant Attorney General, wrote in part:

"It is believed that the reasons for making the rule referred to are as impelling today as when it was made, if not more so; and that it would not be in the interests of the best administration of the department to modify the rule."

After further correspondence, Mr. Sisson wrote Mr. McAneny that "consideration will be given to the views you have outlined."

The last correspondence was dated August 24.

In connection with the announcement yesterday, the league gave out the following list of appointments in the Attorney General's office, which it charged had been deemed "confidential" and had been filled without competitive examinations:

Attorney, Assistant U. S. Attorney, Assistant Pardon Attorney, Senior Administrative Assistant, Junior Administrative Assistant.
Classifier, Assistant Fingerprint Classifier, Clerk, Accounting Clerk, Audit Clerk, Clerk to Attorney, Clerical Assistant to Fingerprint Classifier, Confidential Clerk, Executive Clerk, Clerk-Stenographer, Clerk-Typist, File Clerk, Printing and Binding Clerk, Statistical Clerk, Under Clerk.

Fingerprint Apprentice.
Laborer.
Messenger Boy, Messenger, Relief Messenger.
Physician, Assistant Physician, Physician (Specialist), Resident Physician, Prison Inspector.
Searcher, Special Accountant, Special Agent, Special Employee, Stenographer, Stenographer and Secretary, Stenographer to Special Assistant Attorney General, Supervisor Personnel Files.

FULLER ASSAILS TARIFF BILL.

Ex-Governor Predicts Hoover Will Return Measure if Passed.

Special to The New York Times.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Sept. 15.—Former Governor Alvan T. Fuller of Massachusetts flatly opposed the tariff bill now before Congress and pleaded for political independence on the part of voters in an address in the Peoples Baptist Church here this evening. He also predicted that President Hoover will return the tariff bill and ask to have some of the "outrageous increases" modified. As to the President, Mr. Fuller said:

"I believe his great test is coming in connection with the impending tariff bill. He will be put to the supreme test when that bill comes to him, and then it is going to be his duty, I believe, to say:

"'Gentlemen, you take this tariff bill back and modify some of its outrageous increases. Make it a bill written purely in the interest of the rank and file of our people or I will veto it.'"

Continuing in a tribute to President Hoover, former Governor Fuller added:

"There are those who assert you must stand by the Republican ticket and others that you must stand by the Democratic ticket. Personally, I think a citizen should place his country's interest above politics or partisanship.

"I have seen great Democratic Presidents like Woodrow Wilson and great Republican Presidents like Theodore Roosevelt, and I am inclined to believe we have a great President in Washington today. And personally, I have always admired him because of the difficulty he had in deciding whether he was a Republican or a Democrat.

"If he will make a good President I do not care a rap about his party affiliations. I believe he is going to make a good President and face every problem manfully."

FINDS FLAW IN TARIFF BILL.

Merchants' Association Says Clause Affecting Losses Nullifies Itself.

The Merchants' Association has found in Section 563 of the pending tariff bill a clause which virtually nullifies the section, according to a letter sent to Francis Eble, Commissioner of Customs, in Washington, and made public here yesterday by the association.

Section 563, officials of the association point out, authorizes the Secretary of the Treasury to make abatement or refund of duties paid on goods lost or injured while in customs custody. Such losses, they assert, are considerable, since it is impossible for such a large organization as the customs service to guard entirely against thefts, fires and other forms of loss. However, the section reads that no refund shall be made "in any case after the expiration of twenty-four hours after the issuance of a permit for the removal of such merchandise from the custody of the officers of the customs."

"Merchandise is entered at the Custom House," the letter continues, "immediately after the vessel has made entry. Permit for delivery of the goods—in the case of consumption entry—is issued at the time such entry is made and estimated duties paid. It rarely occurs that all the merchandise can be removed from the dock within twenty-four hours."

With respect to merchandise entered for warehouse, the letter continues, the situation is worse. It is common and legitimate practice, it says, for importers to pay duty on a portion of the merchandise and immediately obtain a permit for its delivery, lodge it with the storekeeper in charge of the bonded warehouse and then withdraw the goods as they may elect, the withdrawals extending over a period up to three years.

greater holdings in Canada are responsible for placing lumber and shingles on the free list.

These two blocs, representing the lumber and farm interests, in the Republican party are strong enough if they remain solid to defeat the bill, together with the opposition from the Democrats. But this is not expected to eventuate, as there will be adjustments in rates which will win over sufficient support from the farm bloc and Eastern Democrats to get the bill through the Senate. Threats of revolt are always heard at about this stage of tariff making, but at present there seems to be more seriousness in the protests than in times past.

Robinson for New Tariff System.

Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic Senate leader, during the day denounced the present system of making a tariff, declaring it was "unscientific and leads to an orgy of chicanery, logrolling, political trading and coercion that in many cases amounts to actual blackmailing."

Mr. Robinson, in a statement issued through the Democratic National Committee, suggested that there should be a tariff commission of experts who could not be influenced by politics, who would report needed changes to Congress, upon which recommendations that body should act without delay, instead of waiting four or five years for general revision.

"It is beneath the dignity of the Congress," he said, "to proceed to the determination of an economic problem in the midst of a riot of lobbyists; obviously most of the witnesses so called are those with a direct interest in the increase of tariff schedules. The consumer, who must pay the cost, is unrepresented among the attorneys advocating or opposing tariff change. He is the 'forgotten man' in tariff making.

"When Congress has, for example, an engineering problem to decide, it asks for reports of technical men and exercises its discretion in the selection of the plan which promises most for efficiency, always keeping in mind the element of public economy.

"If it has to deal with a problem involving public health, it does so on the testimony of experts in sanitation and disease.

"Why should it not proceed in equally logical course when it comes to a determination of the rates to be imposed on imported products?

"An effort in this direction was the creation of the Tariff Commission thirteen years ago. With the enactment of the Fordney-McCumber act of 1922, the effect, if not the purpose, of the Tariff Commission was altered so as to make that body responsive to the President, who was given the privilege of raising or reducing particular schedules on the findings of the Tariff Commission to the extent of 50 per cent of the duties that had been determined by Congress.

"Flexible in One Direction."

"Unfortunately, the flexible tariff provision turned out to be, under recent administrations, flexible in one direction only.

"On one occasion, the board recommended a decrease in the rate on sugar, having found that the cost of production of foreign and domestic sugars did not justify the excessive protection. President Coolidge ignored this finding. Various duties have been increased, notably that on pig iron and glass, despite the fact that the Department of Commerce has reported both these industries as extremely prosperous under the previous duties. There has not been a single decrease as a result of the flexible tariff that was of any importance to the consumer.

"The only ones I recall just now are the lowering of the duties on live bob-white quail, presumably brought in for restocking game preserves, paint brush handles and relatively unimportant chemicals.

"Obviously, tariff rates that cost the people of the country more than they benefit the industry favored are over economy, conceding such rates to be justifiable in cases where the result obtained is the upbuilding of so-called infant industries, the growth of which will add to the public as well as to private wealth.

"In any event, tariff revision is a technical performance and the basis for it should be the studies and reports of men versed in such matters and not, as now, the product of manoeuvring for political advantage.

"What could be less intelligent than to pass a tariff bill by agreeing that the products of one State should be raised in exchange for support of the industries of another State, when either or both might have no better justification than that it would add to the profits of a few individuals, to the cost of the entire consuming public?

"If there is necessity for a tariff on a particular commodity, if the foreign competition on that commodity is so keen as to make it a hardship for the domestic producer to continue in business, it ought to be granted without recourse to the trading among Senators and Congressmen that marks tariff legislation.

Plan for a Commission.

"My idea of the proper method of approaching this problem is to make the Tariff Commission a body composed of the highest type of experts, men who cannot be influenced either by politics or the pressure of great corporations, whose verdicts would be regarded with as much respect and with no more suspicion of untoward influence than are the decisions of our Supreme Court.

"Obviously, Congress cannot delegate its taxing power to any commission. Many of the greatest lawyers and jurists of the land believe that the present provision of the law which permits the President to exercise authority in raising or lowering the duties without reference to Congress is close to the line of unconstitutionality.

"Hence, the body I have in mind could only be advisory; but an opinion by such an aggregation of scientists as should be named on the board could not be disregarded by any Senator or Representative without laying himself open to such questions as few of us would care to incur.

"The body should have jurisdiction over the entire fabric of the tariff. At the opening of every regular session, it should file its report and recommendations to Congress, specifying what rates are regarded too high or too low and giving us the facts and figures on which the opinion is based.

"The board should be as open to petition or representation from any industry as the Interstate Commerce Commission is to the representation of any railroad or group of railroads. The terms of its members should be independent of the life of any administration and their independence be guaranteed in every reasonable way.

"With such a body functioning, we could hope to be rid of the recurrent turmoil and scandal, such as has characterized not only the efforts to arrive at a tariff bill this year, but that marks the proceedings whenever efforts at revision are made.

"It would work hardship on nobody with a just cause and justice would be done to the public instead of favors granted private interests. Under this plan, there would be no incentive for men to make campaign contributions with the expectation of reaping enormous dividends from such investments in the shape of tariff favors.

"The body I have in mind would be as impregnable to selfish approach, as unmoved by political considerations, as the highest court in the land.

"I hope before this session is over a measure will be presented to Congress that will embody these ideas. In my estimation, nothing could be of greater consequence to the welfare of the country and the integrity of government as this."

Issue Up for Debate This Week.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15 (AP).—Party clashes over the advisability of continuing the seven-year-old policy permitting the President to readjust tariff rates after investigation by the Tariff Commission loom this week in the Senate. This policy was inaugurated with the incorporation of the flexible clause in the Fordney-McCumber act of 1922 and retained with wider authority in the bill now pending.

The provision opening the way for a reorganization of the Tariff Commission, which President Hoover recommended in his special session message, and the proposed abandonment of the system of basing ad valorem duties on foreign value in favor of the United States value method are to be chief points at issue, too, but most of the discussion is expected to revolve around the flexible provisions.

Tomorrow the third reading will be started for consideration of those highly controversial sections passed over last week and amendments which have been prepared by the minority.

Chairman Smoot of the Finance Committee believes action on the administrative and special provisions should be concluded in a week and consideration of the thousands of proposed rate changes begun by Sept. 23.

PARIS PRESS FEARS ANGLO-SAXON PACT

BRIAND TO HAVE HARD TIME

By E. J. PHILIP.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Sept. 15.—It is not going to be easy for any French Government when the time comes either to accept the invitation which will be issued to attend the forthcoming naval limitations conference or to take responsibility for whatever decisions there are to be made. For already practically the whole press has assumed an attitude of hostility toward the manner in which the problem is being tackled.

That hostility is due to two causes. First, the newspapers of the Right parties are as resentful of any possibility of success for the British Labor Government as that bulwark of conservatism, the British Morning Post. Secondly, prospects of an agreement between England and the United States, instead of being greeted as an enormous contribution to the peace of the world, are being pointed to as the menace of Anglo-Saxon domination.

There is not a single Paris newspaper which today, even in the name of peace, can find it possible to say anything complimentary of President Hoover and the British Premier for the progress that is being made. Almost all of them prefer silence.

Press Seems Alarmed.

Those which have anything to say seem almost alarmed at that progress, and comfort themselves, as does Temps, with the thought that any Anglo-American accord can only be a preliminary act, "since a general agreement on the limitation or reduction of naval forces can only result from a conference of the five powers."

"Japan, France and Italy," the Temps continues, "remain complete masters of their decisions and will be in no way bound by the principles on which London and Washington may end by agreeing. It is necessary to insist on this, for it would be inadmissible that the other naval powers should arrive at the conference and find themselves under the obligation either to admit or reject an Anglo-American formula of limitation for auxiliary craft, without having had the opportunity to present their point of view and defend their own interests."

Such a presentation of French or any other case will undoubtedly meet the full approval of London and Washington. Even the Temps, however, seems alarmed at the prospect of a kind of dual Anglo-Saxon world power, with one head in Washington and the other in London, resulting from Premier MacDonald's visit, and goes out of its way to warn the Prime Minister against being caught in a kind of American trap.

Le Temps Warns Against Trap.

"If in making this voyage to America Mr. MacDonald is seeking to conclude an accord in principle—subject to approval by a subsequent five-power conference—on the method of limitation of sea armaments, then it seems that, at the point which has been already reached in the preliminary conversations, this result may be considered as already virtually achieved. But if the British Prime Minister has in mind a larger conception of policy to be followed by the two countries—if he is considering the realization of an Anglo-American entente, capable of imposing directives from London and Washington in all domains, then Mr. MacDonald risks finding himself the victim of self-deception.

"Americans have no intention of binding themselves for the future to any power, and they have no conception of political cooperation in world affairs other than under the form of a complete subordination to the wishes of the United States. It has not yet been demonstrated that the British nation as a whole will submit to playing such a rôle."

"There is evidence of the same way of thinking in Figaro's leading article. "If for love of ephemeral success, and because of internal politics," the Figaro says, "Premier MacDonald compromises the essential force of the British Empire, he will expose himself to the terrible revenge of the whole people."

Leon Bailby, in L'Intransigeant, also presents to the French people a picture of France having to sign—with Italy and Japan—whatever England and the United States agree on. "We will be shown a paper, and probably we will be asked to sign without too much discussion," he writes.

In the face of such a press, it is going to be a very delicate task for any government—even for a government which is such a partisan of peace and agreement as M. Briand's—to enter the doors of that five-power conference. Amid the acclamation which Mr. MacDonald is receiving, these three other interested powers will have to be always remembered.

SHEARER'S METHODS AT NAVAL PARLEYS

ALWAYS READY WITH DATA

Worked Hard, Entertained Lavishly —Expressed Satisfaction When Conference Failed to Agree.

By WYTHE WILLIAMS.
Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 15.—William B. Shearer began business, literary and social activities at Geneva some time prior to the famous tri-power naval conference of 1927, which he is reputed to have helped to wreck. During the previous session of the Preparatory Disarmament Commission, when the United States first sent Hugh Gibson and a large group of Admirals and other officers to form its delegation, the debonair Mr. Shearer also installed himself on the shores of Lake Leman.

This was admittedly good policy for a lobbyist, for in that way he was able to get well acquainted, not only with the American delegates, who for the most part afterward were accredited to the tri-power conference, but even more important for his purposes, with the American newspaper correspondents officially stationed at Geneva and accredited to the League of Nations.

Mr. Shearer's activities were threefold: business, literary and social. The latter combined a touch of art, consisting principally of making oil paintings of ships in his leisure moments.

As for his business, Mr. Shearer never pretended to be other than a protagonist of a big American navy. Although he did not wear the badge of his employers openly, no correspondent in Geneva during the tri-power conference had the slightest doubt that he was in the pay of the sort of people against whom he has now instituted suit.

Was Silent as to His Funds.

In justice to Mr. Shearer, it should be stated that he never posed as a purely patriotic American who conceived it his duty to spend his personal fortune in Geneva in attaining his objective. But he was silent as to his sources of revenue, and to one journalistic inquirer on the subject he replied that it wasn't anybody's business.

As an author, Mr. Shearer, who was accompanied by his wife and daughter, kept the latter busy at a typewriter for hours every day preparing comprehensive aides-memoires which he supplied to the press every morning bright and early before the conference began.

The first day of the conference, when the proposals of the three powers were first submitted for public consideration, Mr. Shearer managed to obtain a seat in the famous Glass Room of the League Secretariat, where the meeting was held—itself no mean feat—where he was able to make copious notes of the session. Later, he invited the leading correspondents of the American press to his sumptuous apartment in the exclusive Champel quarter of Geneva, where in precise staccato tones he dictated clearly and thoroughly an opinion on the disadvantages for the United States if the British thesis were accepted.

Indefatigable on Data.

From then on, through seven long weeks, in addition to these daily reports of the previous session's proceedings, he prepared a tremendous amount of elaborate data, written and tabulated for public consumption, in which he vividly explained such matters as gun calibres and elevations, tonnage and, in fact, every technical intricate detail that came under the investigation of the conference.

Many of the correspondents suspected Mr. Shearer of being exactly what he was. Some felt that his game was to wreck the conference at any cost. A few, but not many, disliked him, although disliking such a genial person was difficult. But scarcely one of them felt able to refuse to look over the daily Shearer "handout." Even the British correspondents often consulted the tabled figures supplied by Mr. Shearer and were forced to admit they were correct.

The conference was a difficult matter to handle because often late sittings and private conversations between delegates were going on simultaneously in all quarters of the town and therefore Mr. Shearer's technical data often proved useful in the necessarily hasty preparation of cable dispatches.

In addition to all this, about once a week Mr. Shearer would appear with an elaborate brochure over his own signature giving his own views of the situation, hopeful that the correspondents would incorporate some or all of it into their cables. But this was all so violently and tactlessly anti-British that this form of Shearer propaganda fell completely flat.

Proved He Knew Subject.

What Mr. Shearer did prove by his literature—by the sheer ability which he showed on the subject of naval units and disarmament—was that his self-given title of "naval expert" was not altogether a misnomer.

As to his social activities, aided by Mrs. Shearer he made his apartment a real centre of life in Geneva throughout the conference. The delegations themselves did not entertain more sumptuously than he, although his parties were intimate rather than on the public order.

It should be stressed that although members of the press were often waylaid by Mr. and Mrs. Shearer at the International Club or elsewhere and invited home to a "real American dinner," yet during the run of the conference correspondents constituted a minority of his guests.

Mr. Shearer knew literally every one connected with every delegation, and although the British certainly never accepted any of his invitations, if indeed he gave them any, yet there were many other delegations which did.

To my personal knowledge, Mr. Shearer was on good terms with every member of the American delegation, with the exception of the two chief delegates, Ambassador Gibson and Rear Admiral Hilary P. Jones. But there were other Admirals on the American list as well as Captains and Commanders holding high technical positions in the American Navy, some of whom this correspondent has actually seen in his apartment.

British Protested Activities.

It was known to be a fact that the British protested his activities during the Geneva meeting. It was also a fact that many American correspondents who were seen with Mr. Shearer came under the shadow of the British delegation's displeasure. Both Hugh Gibson and Admiral Jones not only did not visit Mr. Shearer but refused to see him, but largely on the ground that as chiefs of the delegation this might not be a seemly thing for them to do.

A year after the Geneva meeting, Ambassador Gibson, at Brussels, speaking to a friend about Mr. Shearer, said:

"Whatever criticism may have been leveled against the press of America on his account, all I can say is that the information he handed out was correct."

The night that the tripower conference ended in failure, Mr. Shearer is openly exultant. His exultation continued the following day when one of the leading Geneva papers ran an article about him under the heading, "The Man Who Wrecked the Conference."

To most of those who saw him at work in Geneva, the news that Mr. Shearer has had to sue his employers for money he alleges was due him, will cause surprise. If, as he says, he was employed to help wreck the conference, the opinion at Geneva would be that he earned his money.

In 1927, First Lord of the Admiralty Bridgeman also proposed that new capital ships should have a tonnage limit under 30,000 instead of the 35,000 limit laid down by the Washington naval treaty and that the guns be limited to 13½ inches instead of 16 inches. If the English repeat these proposals they would doubtless expect American adherence in principle. It is entirely logical that this move toward decreasing the size of battleships should give momentum to the suggestion eventually to abolish them.

Both Premier MacDonald and President Hoover are aiming at economy in the cost of battle fleets. There does not appear at this time a large possibility for a great saving of the taxpayers' money in cruisers which are the most useful form of war vessel, especially for defensive purposes, and no nation proclaims any other purpose. Indeed, America will have to build a good many cruisers to achieve actual parity under the proposed plans.

But with capital ships it is a different proposition. Capital ships of from 20,000 to 35,000 tons, of which America has eighteen and the British twenty, counting their four battle cruisers, form about 40 per cent of the tonnage of both navies. England spends $500 a minute on her fleet and we spend more. About half that sum goes to capital ships, and if the interest on the value of the investment they represent is counted it is more than half. It is therefore evident that more money is to be saved in curtailing these $25,000,000 ships with their high upkeep cost than in curtailing $5,000,000 cruisers.

Those in favor of the abolition of capital ships argue that they are good for two purposes—to fight other capital ships and to shell land defenses. If no one else had capital ships their first purpose would cease to exist, and experts agree that capital ships are of doubtful value against modern coast defenses with new high-power guns and airplane observation. Gallipoli showed something about that.

It would be difficult to imagine a situation more favorable for doing away with capital ships than that which exists today. Nowhere in the world is any capital ship being built and no naval program in the world contains any provision for building one. Since the Washington naval conference only four have been put in commission, two by America and two by England. France's newest battleship is fourteen years old and Italy's newest capital ship is one year younger. Certainly neither France nor Italy would have any objection to doing away with a war machine in which they are hopelessly outclassed by England, America and Japan.

It thus is evident the three big naval powers have the situation entirely in their hands. By 1936 England will have two battleships and one battle cruiser less than twenty years old. The United States then will have three battleships within what is commonly called the age of usefulness. By 1940 every battleship in the world would be out of date if no new ones were built in the meantime. Our whole fleet of 10,000-ton cruisers could be replaced new for what it would cost to replace four or five capital ships.

No public statements have been made regarding the Anglo-American conversations about battleships, and up to a few days ago it was not officially admitted that they would be discussed in the approaching conference. But now it is definitely known that capital ships will be one of the items on the agenda of the five-power parley and it may be taken for granted that a proposal will be put forward to consider the possibility of postponing any plans to replace the aging battleships.

While the technicians will put the discussion on a different basis, there is bound to be a popular appeal in the question: What need has any nation for battleships if no other nation has them? Perhaps in this issue President Hoover will see a real chance for economy in naval expenditures.

BRITAIN TO START RETIRING CRUISERS

to reach constructive parity with the American cruiser fleet, but this divergence is comparatively slight, and deducting normal tons to be retired from the present British cruiser total in standard or treaty tons gives an approximate idea of what deductions from their cruiser strength the British must make in the next seven years.

Out of 62,000 Tons Needed.

The present total British cruiser tonnage in standard tons, as contained in the Navy Department figures of yesterday, is 401,791. To bring the British total down to the 339,000 tons which the British contend are necessary for their defensive and peace-time police needs it will be necessary to reduce this total of 401,791 by approximately 62,000 tons.

With the British to dispose of 102,540 tons of cruisers prior to 1936 through scrapping already ordered, decision not to continue the construction of two large cruisers, and the retirement of cruisers that normally will be due for retirement in the next seven years, the indications are that this retired tonnage will be replaced by about 40,000 new tonnage in cruisers in order to maintain the prospective treaty minimum of 335,000 tons of cruisers for that government to be achieved in 1936.

The situation of the United States Navy with respect to cruisers is somewhat different. With our cruiser tonnage far below that of Britain, the preliminary agreement contemplates that this government will complete its cruiser program up to about 300,000 tons. The exact figures have not been disclosed, but the indications are that the total will not be greater than 300,000 tons and probably somewhat less. Present unofficial supposition is that the preliminary agreement between the two governments contemplates fixing the ultimate American cruiser tonnage at about 295,000.

The disparity of approximately 40,000 or 45,000 tons of cruisers in favor of Britain as compared with the American cruiser fleet constitutes the most serious prospective peril to the disarmament treaty, which the British and American Governments, in negotiation with France, Italy and Japan, hope to conclude as a result of the formal disarmament conference to be begun in December, according to present plans.

Yardstick to Solve Problem.

As has been explained frequently, constructive parity between the two fleets is to be achieved by comparing American and British warships by the measurement of their efficiency as combatant ships and not merely by tonnage, as heretofore. This yardstick or equivalent valuation method will be applied in measuring the comparative strength of British and American cruisers through giving higher values to new ships than to old ships of the same tonnage and higher values for superiority in gun power.

In that way it is hoped to bring the British and American cruiser fleets to approximate parity in spite of the fact that the British cruisers, in which small vessels claimed to be valuable chiefly for police work will predominate, will be 40,000 or more tons greater in actual tonnage than American cruisers, in which the heaviest cruisers permitted by the Washington naval treaty of 1922 and armed with 8-inch guns, the heaviest calibre permitted by that treaty for cruisers, will predominate.

In the preliminary negotiations Britain has assented to the United States having a larger number of 10,000-ton cruisers armed with 8-inch guns than Britain. The British have agreed to limit their number of 10,000-ton cruisers to fifteen. It is believed that they assented in the final arrangement that the United States shall have nineteen cruisers of 10,000 tons, instead of eighteen as proposed in the British memorandum, which was the subject of a series of protracted conferences at the White House and the Navy Department last week, attended by President Hoover, the Secretaries of State and the Navy, members of the Naval General Board and others.

19 Cruisers Suggested.

Such an arrangement would give the United States 190,000 tons of 10,000-ton cruisers, as against 150,000 tons of 10,000-ton cruisers. In addition, the two governments decided to leave to the formal disarmament conference for adjustment the determination of whether the United States should be permitted to build three additional 10,000-ton cruisers or should be restricted to using an additional 40,000 tons in the construction of four or five smaller cruisers armed with 6-inch guns.

Granting that the preliminary agreement provides that the United States shall have nineteen cruisers of 10,000 tons each, an agreement in the formal conference to permit the United States to build three more cruisers of that size would bring the American tonnage in 10,000-ton cruisers to 220,000, as against 150,000 for Britain in the same class of ships.

While the preliminary negotiations were in progress there was a disposition on the part of some members of the Naval Affairs Committee of the Senate and the public to take the position that any treaty with Britain which would not enable the United States to complete its fifteen-cruiser program, authorized by the last Congress, would be entirely unsatisfactory to Congress.

Any such attitude in the Senate is important, as the prospective disarmament treaty must be submitted to that body for ratification. Since the completion of the preliminary exchanges, interested Senators have shown a disposition to be reticent as to opinions concerning the outcome. They take the position that they do not know the details of the preliminary arrangement and therefore are unable to pass judgment on it.

General Board Satisfied.

Certain Senators who have been foremost in contending that all the fifteen cruisers authorized by the last Congress must be built have made known to the administration that they will not assent to any treaty providing reductions in naval armament that does not have the approval of the Naval General Board. In this connection the understanding that the General Board is satisfied with the outcome of the preliminary negotiations is of the highest importance.

They allow more 10,000-ton cruisers for the United States than for Britain, and it appears to be certain that the General Board will give the fullest approval to any treaty arrangement if it provides that the 30,000 additional cruiser tons which the British have conceded to the United States shall be utilized in constructing three 10,000-ton cruisers, thus, according to prevailing understanding, providing for completing the fifteen cruiser program with the exception of one vessel.

It is gathered that the National Board is satisfied with the outcome of the preliminary exchanges for another reason. The contemplated treaty for which the preliminary agreement lays the foundation will provide for standardization and stabilization of naval strength and the maintenance of constructive parity between the American and British fleets. Through such an arrangement the navy will know where it stands in future.

The uncertainty as to future construction and consequent uncertainty as to the number and classification of personnel will provide a new deal which, it is claimed, will permit the navy to see ahead and carry out its plans for the maintenance of a balanced fleet.

Comparison of Gun Power.

An idea of how the excess of British cruiser tonnage may be overcome in attempting to reach parity in effectiveness between the two governments, through giving greater gun power to the largest American cruisers, is obtained by a comparison of the gun power of British and American ships of 10,000 tons.

Of the eight American 10,000-ton cruisers now actually under construction, some of which soon will be in commission, the Pensacola and the Salt Lake City will have main batteries of ten 8-inch guns each. Of the six other cruisers of their class, each will have nine 8-inch guns.

With the tendency to give nine guns of that calibre to future 10,000-ton cruisers of our navy, the nineteen cruisers which it is expected the United States will be enabled to build in accordance with the preliminary agreement with Britain, would embrace two with ten 8-inch guns each and seventeen with 153 8-inch guns in all, or a total of 173 guns of that calibre.

British 10,000-ton cruisers each carry eight 8-inch guns. With the British agreeing to limit their 10,000-ton cruisers to fifteen vessels, the 8-inch guns of these ships would aggregate 120. Thus, the United States fleet of nineteen 10,000-ton cruisers would have fifty-three more 8-inch guns than the British cruiser fleet of fifteen vessels.

Should it be arranged in the formal conference that the United States shall be permitted to utilize its 30,000 additional cruiser tons in three 10,000-ton ships, the aggregate of 8-inch guns on American cruisers would be an even 200, as against 120 for the British.

Mediterranean Fleet Important.

It is realized that difficulties will be encountered in the prospective formal naval conference with France and Italy (if they accept the invitation to participate) insisting that their special needs as to the Mediterranean must be considered. The danger in this respect is that Britain must also have regard for her home defenses and her trade routes through the Mediterranean, and the strength of France and Italy in auxiliary ships is a factor of importance to the British Government.

But France and Italy have been kept informed of the preliminary negotiations at every stage of their progress, and unofficial indications that they are disposed to enter the formal conference has considerable significance in the light of their knowledge of the understanding as to fundamental principles between Britain and the United States to govern them in the negotiations of a disarmament treaty to which France, Italy and Japan will be asked to subscribe.

The action of the Japanese Government in letting the other powers know that Japan will expect to be given a higher ratio in warship strength than 5 as compared with 5-5 for the United States and Britain may produce some worry with respect to cruiser tonnage, but in its general aspect there is no concern over it on the part of the two chief naval nations. Japan will ask that her ratio be increased from 3 to 3.5, or, to put it another way, from sixtenths of American or British naval strength to seven-tenths.

It is believed, however, that Japan's chief purpose in determining to ask for an increased ratio is founded on national pride and not on any intention to build up to the additional warship tonnage that would be permitted under the increase. Her object, it is conceived, is to have herself placed before the world as of higher standing as a naval power than the sixth-tenths proportion fixed by the Washington naval treaty for capital ships accorded her.

There appears to be no doubt that Japan is keen for a further curtailment of naval armament and is wholeheartedly in sympathy with President Hoover's desire that there shall be actual reduction of fleets and not mere limitations of building programs. While insistence by Japanese that her ratio of naval strength should be increased would appear to give a contrary impression, the belief prevails that she will not make any material additions to her fleet. For reasons of domestic economy she is anxious to reduce the heavy cost of naval shipbuilding and maintenance of a large fleet.

The first, beginning at Alexander Avenue at a connection with the tube carrying the new Second Avenue line from Manhattan, will be along Third and Melrose Avenues, diagonally to Boston Road to West Farms. The second will be along Morris Park Avenue and Wilson Avenue to Boston Post Road. From Third Avenue and 163d Street the third route will run under 163d Street to Hunts Point and Seneca Avenues, across the Bronx River to Lafayette Avenue to 177th Street and thence to Tremont Avenue. The fourth route will extend from Webster and Burke Avenues through Burke Avenue to Boston Road and along that highway to Baychester Avenue.

By recapture of four and a half miles of the existing White Plains Avenue line of the I. R. T., the Boston Road route is to be extended from 180th Street, West Farms, to 242d Street.

The plans for the new Brooklyn system call for a subway in Grand Street, South Fourth Street and Beaver Street from an East River tunnel from Houston Street, Manhattan, to the junction of Myrtle and Stuyvesant Avenues; a tunnel under the river from Grand Street, Manhattan, merging with the Brooklyn end of the Houston Street tunnel at Driggs Avenue and South Fourth Street; also a line in Stuyvesant Avenue from Myrtle Avenue to Utica Avenue, to Avenue S to a connection with the Nostrand Avenue extension of the existing line which will be run from the present terminus at Flatbush Avenue to Voorhies Avenue, Sheepshead Bay.

There will also be an extension of the new Fulton Street subway from Alabama Avenue under Liberty Avenue to a connection with the existing Liberty Avenue elevated line of the B. M. T. It is planned to recapture this line and to carry the new system to Springfield Boulevard, Queens, over a connection beginning at Lefferts Boulevard.

Queens Gets Most Mileage.

In Queens the new plans provide for about fifteen miles of extensions to existing routes, about thirty-five miles of new routes, and recapture of two and a half miles of existing lines.

A line in Myrtle Avenue from Stuyvesant Avenue will extend to Rockaway Peninsula, through Central Avenue, Cross Bay Boulevard and intermediate streets, and there will be a transverse line on the peninsula from Beach 149th Street to Mott Avenue, Far Rockaway. Among the extensions will be one carrying the existing Astoria elevated line along Ditmars Avenue, Astoria Avenue, 112th Street and Nassau Boulevard to Cross Island Boulevard. Another extension will provide two new branches for the Flushing subway from Main Street. One will be along Station Road to 221st Street, Little Neck, and the other along 149th Street to Whitestone and College Point. New lines will be provided along Conduit Boulevard and 120th Avenue from a connection with the Cross Bay Boulevard line to Springfield; another in Brinckerhoff Avenue; another in Fresh Pond Road, Sixty-fifth Street and Garfield Avenue, connecting the new Long Island City-Jamaica line in Broadway, Elmhurst, with Ridgewood, where it will tap the Rockaway line at Central Avenue and Fresh Pond Road.

The new east side subway under Second Avenue will have two tracks from Pine and Water Streets to New Chambers Street, four tracks from that point to the Sixth Avenue connection at Fifty-seventh or Sixty-first Street and six tracks from there to 125th Street. The line will be four-track from 125th Street to the connection with the White Plains elevated road at 180th Street.

Except in Manhattan the plans call for considerable elevated trackage, due to the nature of the land through which lines are routed and the fact that many of the localities are not sufficiently congested to call for underground lines. This factor has helped to keep down the construction cost estimates. Another factor is the existence of elevated lines with which the new system plans to make connections.

The route details for the new system, as published by the Board of Transportation, indicating connection points and trackage facilities, follow.

Main Manhattan-Bronx Line.

The new East Manhattan-Bronx trunk line will extend from Water Street at about Pine Street northerly to Fulton Street, thence diagonally to Pearl Street at about Ferry Street, continuing along Pearl Street and New Bowery to East Broadway, to the vicinity of Manhattan Bridge Plaza, to Chrystie Street, along Chrystie Street and Second Avenue to Harlem River, under the river to Alexander Avenue, along Alexander Avenue to Third Avenue at 149th Street, to Melrose Avenue to about 159th Street, curving northeasterly to the intersection of Elton, Washington and Brook Avenues, then to Boston Road at the junction of that thoroughfare with Third Avenue and 163d Street, along Boston Road to 177th Street, and emerging into an elevated structure in private property between Vyse Avenue and 177th Street then continuing northeasterly as an elevated through the existing storage yard to a connection at about 180th Street with the White Plains Avenue line which can be recaptured by the city from the present operator.

This line will have two tracks from Pine Street to New Chambers Street, four tracks from New Chambers Street to the Fifty-seventh or Sixty-first Street connection to the Sixth Avenue line, six tracks from there to 125th Street and four tracks from 125th Street to the connection with the White Plains Road elevated line at 180th Street and the Morris Park Avenue line.

The Morris Park Avenue-Wilson Avenue branch in the Bronx will extend in two tracks from a connection to White Plains Avenue line north of 180th Street station about opposite Garfield Street, Van Nest, and descending to subway and extending along Morris Park Avenue and Seminole Avenue to Wilson Avenue, continuing along Wilson Avenue to Boston Road.

163d St.-Lafayette Avenue Line.

The 163d Street-Lafayette Avenue branch for the East Bronx will tap off in two tracks from the East Manhattan-Bronx trunk line at the intersection of Washington and Brook Avenues and, curving easterly to 163rd Street, continue along 163d Street to Whitlock Avenue, easterly to Garrison Avenue and emerging as an elevated line at about Edgewater Road and Seneca Avenue and across the Bronx River, then to Lafayette Avenue and along Lafayette Avenue to and along East 177th Street to East Tremont Avenue. At the junction of the 163d Street, Whitlock Avenue and Hunts Point Road there will be a station of this line adjacent to the Hunts Point Road station of the Pelham Bay Park line of the Interborough system. The Pelham Bay Park line, unlike the White Plains Avenue line, is not separately recapturable under the terms of the lease between the city and the Interborough Rapid Transit Company.

East-West Bronx Line.

The East Bronx two-track extension of the Concourse line, which has been validated to Webster Avenue at 205th Street, will be continued from that point along Burke Avenue to Boston Road and along that thoroughfare to Baychester Avenue, and the Boston Road sections will be used jointly for the Concourse and East Manhattan-Bronx trunk line services, and transfer facilities to and from the White Plains Road line will be provided at the stations at White Plains and Burke Avenues, and through the recapture of the White Plains Road line, passengers to and from the Concourse-Eighth Avenue trunk line can transfer to and from the White Plains Road line, which has its northerly terminus within a short distance of the city line.

New Brooklyn Lines.

Extension of the new Fulton Street, Brooklyn, line to Queens is provided from Fulton Street and Eastern Parkway southeasterly crossing Herkimer Street at about Jardine Place to Liberty Avenue at about Wyona Avenue, continuing along Liberty Avenue and rising to an elevated structure at Crescent Street and connecting with the Liberty Avenue elevated (proposed to be recaptured) at about Grant Avenue, then from Lefferts Boulevard along Liberty Avenue to 103d Avenue, southerly between Inwood Street and Liverpool Street into Brinckerhoff Avenue, along Brinckerhoff Avenue and Hollis Avenue to Springfield Boulevard. This line will be carried on four tracks to Grant Avenue; three tracks to 160th Street and two tracks to Springfield Boulevard.

In addition to a connection to the proposed storage yard near the Hulban Yard of the Long Island Railroad this line will have a two-track connection to the Jamaica elevated line alongside 180th Street.

The Utica Avenue line in Brooklyn will start from a connection with the Houston Street, Manhattan, subway at Essex Street along Houston Street and under the East River to Grand Street in Williamsburg, southeasterly from Grand Street to South Fourth Street at about Driggs Avenue, continuing along South Fourth Street to Union Avenue in an easterly direction approximately parallel to Broadway to Beaver Street at Flushing Avenue, along Beaver Street to Arion Place, curving southerly to Stuyvesant Avenue at Broadway, along Stuyvesant Avenue to Bainbridge Street, which is two blocks north of Fulton Street, continuing southerly between Bainbridge Street and Atlantic Avenue into Utica Avenue, continuing as a subway along Utica Avenue to Avenue J, emerging as an elevated line at Avenue J, continuing as an elevated to Avenue N, curving southwesterly to Avenue S, to Nostrand Avenue, to Voorhies Avenue.

The Utica Avenue line will be two tracks from Houston Street under the East River to Driggs Avenue, Brooklyn; four tracks from Driggs Avenue to Avenue S; two tracks, with provision for future four tracks, along Avenue S and Nostrand Avenue to Voorhies Avenue.

It is proposed to extend the Nostrand Avenue subway in Brooklyn from the present terminal at Flatbush Avenue and build it along Nostrand Avenue as a two-track subway to Kings Highway, then as an elevated line to Avenue S, where there may be track connections or transfer to the Utica Avenue line.

To Serve Rockaway.

The projected line to the Rockaways, which embraces the Boroughs of Manhattan, Brooklyn and Queens, begins in Manhattan from a connection with the Church Street subway, now under construction near Worth Street, along Worth Street, East Broadway, Grand Street and the East River to Broadway, Brooklyn. From Broadway, Brooklyn, it will go to South Fourth Street, from where it follows the same route as the Utica Avenue line along South Fourth Street to Beaver Street and Bushwick Avenue; the portion of the system in common to carry the express tracks of the two lines and such tracks in addition as may be required for local service.

At Beaver Street, where the Utica Avenue line turns to the south, the Rockaway line continues along Beaver Street and Bushwick Avenue to Myrtle Avenue, along Myrtle Avenue to Central Avenue and along Central Avenue to about Seventy-third Place, along the southerly line of the Montauk Division of the Long Island Railroad to a point at or near Woodhaven Boulevard, turning southerly, crossing Forest Park to South Park Lane, continuing parallel to the Long Island Railroad along Ninety-eighth Street, Ninety-ninth Street, Hawtree Street and Jamaica Bay.

The line will cross Jamaica Bay and the islands, paralleling an existing fill the Cross Bay Boulevard to a point on the Rockaway Peninsula near Hammels Avenue and Beach Eighty-third Street, making connections at Rockaway Beach Boulevard with a two-track line passing up and down the Rockaway Peninsula, beginning at the west of Beach 149th Street, continuing easterly along Newport Avenue to Beach 116th Street, crossing to Rockaway Beach Boulevard at Beach 110th Street, continuing easterly along Rockaway Beach Boulevard to Far Rockaway to a point near Mott Avenue.

This line will have two tracks from Worth Street to South Fourth Street, where it will have two express tracks and such other tracks as may be required in conjunction with the Utica Avenue line to the point of divergence with the Utica Avenue line at Beaver Street, then four tracks to Howard Beach at or near 160th Avenue, then two tracks to and through the Rockaways. This line will be subway from Worth Street at its connection with Church Street, Manhattan, to Central Avenue near Seventy-third Place, Brooklyn, then along the surface to Woodhaven Boulevard or elevated or depressed, as may be required, then in open-cut crossing Forest Park on surface or elevated to and through the Rockaways as conditions demand.

Queens Cross Connections.

The Winfield spur in Queens, to serve Winfield, Maspeth, Melvina and Ridgewood, will be a two-track connection from the present Long Island City-Jamaica line, beginning at Broadway and Seventy-eighth Street and curving southerly between Seventy-eighth and Seventy-ninth Streets to Queens Boulevard, then along the Long Island Railroad right of way into Garfield Avenue to Sixty-seventh Street, curving easterly from Garfield Avenue to Sixty-fifth Place.

The line goes along Sixty-fifth Place to Fresh Pond Road, along Fresh Pond Road and Cypress Hills Avenue to a connection with the Rockaway rapid transit line in Central Avenue near Cypress Hills Avenue. The line will be in subway from Broadway to Forty-fifth Avenue, then elevated to Fresh Pond Road and then subway to Central Avenue connection. By this cross connecting line traffic to and from Brooklyn and the Rockaways will be enabled to reach Central Manhattan and the Easterly Bronx, as well as the Flushing, Bayside, Whitestone and College Point sections of Queens.

For Easterly Queens.

The 120th Street line in Queens will begin at a point of connection with the Rockaway line at or near the intersection of North Conduit Boulevard and Hawtree Street, continuing easterly, crossing intervening streets to 120th Avenue at Rockaway Boulevard, easterly through 120th Avenue to Springfield Boulevard, along Springfield Boulevard northeasterly to Foch Boulevard. This line will be elevated throughout and will have four tracks from the point of junction with the Rockaway line to Van Wyck Boulevard and thereafter two tracks.

The Van Wyck Boulevard line will be a two-track extension from connection to the Long Island City-Jamaica line at 137th Street and Eighty-seventh Avenue southerly to Van Wyck Boulevard, along Van Wyck Boulevard as subway to about 166th Avenue, then elevated along Van Wyck Boulevard to Rockaway Boulevard.

The proposed extensions to the existing rapid transit lines now in operation are as follows:

Extension of the Flushing subway to embrace the communities of Broadway, Murray Hill, Auburndale and Bayside by constructing the line from Main Street, Flushing, as a subway, along Roosevelt Avenue to 150th Street (Boerum Avenue), then curving easterly and rising to an elevated structure and extending along private property and the Long Island Railroad right of way to Station Road at Northern Boulevard; then along Station Road to 193d Street, curving northerly across Long Island Railroad right of way to Thirty-eighth Avenue, along Thirty-eighth Avenue to 221st Street. It will be a three-track subway to 147th Street, then two-track subway to 155th Street and a two-track elevated structure to 221st Street. Also a two-track branch extension to Whitestone and College Point beginning at 147th Street and Roosevelt Avenue, curving northerly into 149th Street and extending to Eleventh Avenue and through Eleventh Avenue to 122d Street, College Point. The line is to be in subway to Thirty-fifth Avenue, then elevated to the terminus.

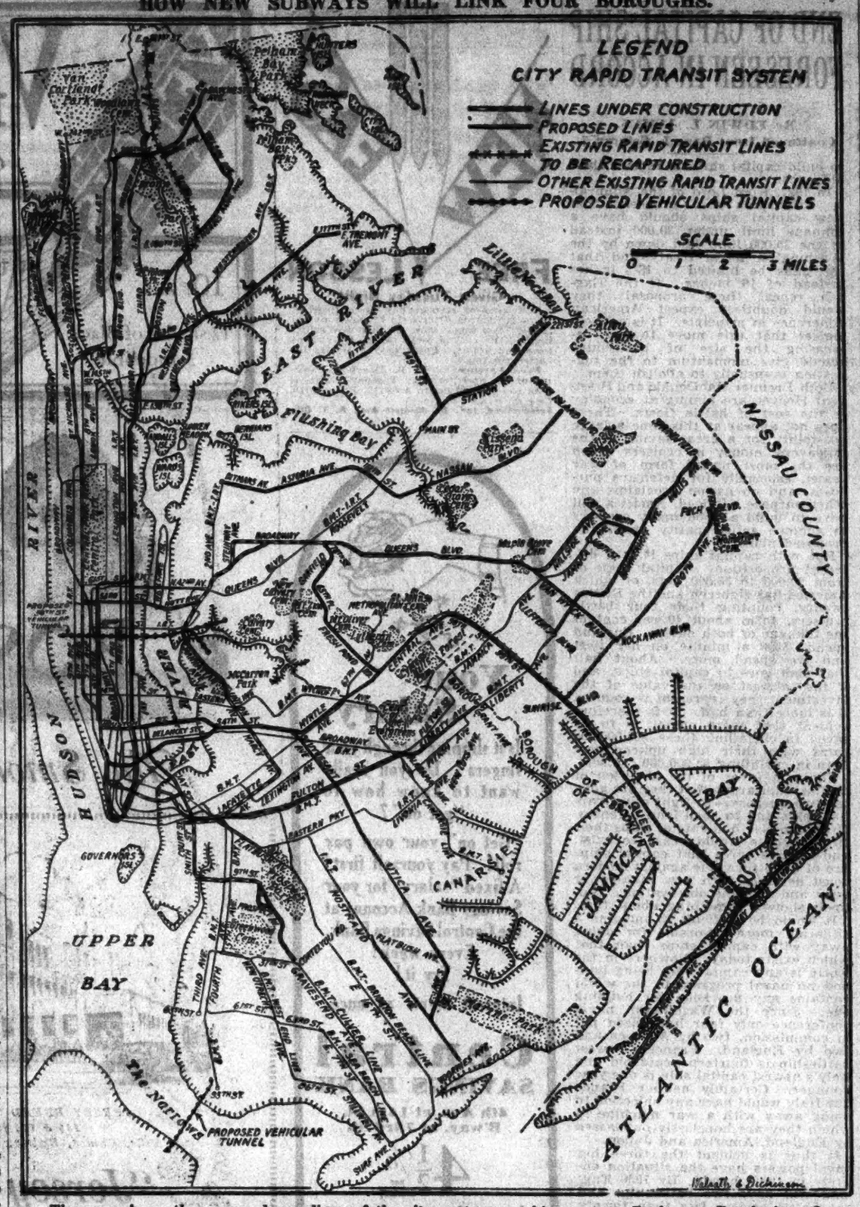
The Astoria elevated line in Queens is to be extended from a connection to existing elevated line at Twenty-third Avenue and Thirty-first Street, Astoria, then curving easterly as two-track elevated structure to Ditmars Avenue, along Ditmars Avenue to Seventieth Street, to Astoria Boulevard, and along Astoria Boulevard to Northern Boulevard, to 112th Street, and along 112th Street to Fiftieth Street, then diagonally across intervening streets, Flushing River to Nassau Boulevard at Gilroy Street, and along Nassau Boulevard to Cross Island Boulevard. This line will serve Steinway, North Beach, East Elmhurst and communities southeast of Flushing.

The Astoria extension is planned as two tracks from the point of connection with the existing elevated line at Twenty-third Avenue and Thirty-third Street to the point where it connects with Astoria Boulevard. The portion through Astoria Boulevard and along Nassau Boulevard to Parsons Boulevard is planned as a four-track line, then as a two-track line to Cross Island Boulevard. It is planned to be an elevated line throughout, except that it may be constructed as a depressed railroad along portions of Nassau Boulevard or along adjacent rights of way.

The map indicating the new transit routes also shows the proposed vehicular tunnels at Thirty-eighth Street, Manhattan, and the Staten Island Narrows. The Board of Estimate has approved preliminary plans for these tubes and the Board of Transportation is now drafting the final plans. It is expected that legislation will be introduced in Albany next year to give the board the power to construct the tunnels. It is probable that in working out the details of the vehicular tunnels the board will depart in some instances from the plans as now drawn, but the general scheme will be that already outlined.

In promulgating the new program the Board of Transportation declared that its completion will provide almost complete rapid transit service to all boroughs. It stressed the new service to Queens, declaring that only about forty-two of its 108 square miles will be left without service, that territory being mostly shorefront.

HOW NEW SUBWAYS WILL LINK FOUR BOROUGHS.



The map shows the proposed new lines of the city system reaching out to Rockaway Beach, into Queens and up into the Bronx, as well as the subways already under construction and the existing lines.

WOOL GROWERS GET $9,000,000 IN LOANS

Intermediate Credit Banks Aid Cooperatives in Facilitating Marketing.

AT A RATE OF 5½ PER CENT

Advances Made in Most Cases Up to 60 Per Cent of the Current Market Price.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—The Federal Intermediate Credit Banks have made commitments to cooperative wool growers' associations to lend to them approximately $9,000,000 for marketing their wool throughout the year, H. Paul Bestor, commissioner of the Federal Farm Loan Board, said today.

These eight wool marketing organizations are located mostly in the Middle West and on the Pacific Coast, including the State associations of Wyoming, Utah, Montana, Nevada, Colorado and North Dakota.

The commitments also include those made to cooperative growers with headquarters at Portland, Ore., which operate over a number of States in the Northwest. The wool handled by most of these cooperatives is sold through the National Wool Exchange, Inc., of Boston, which is owned by cooperatives and wool interests. Much of the wool owned by these cooperatives is stored in Boston.

"In most instances the Federal Intermediate Credit Banks have advanced cooperative wool growers' associations up to 60 per cent of the current market price," said Mr. Bestor.

"This money has been available to them at a low rate of interest, approximately 5½ per cent, and the loans are made for a sufficient length of time to permit the poolers of wool to market their products in the way they desire, rather than being forced to sell them on the rather heavy and somewhat weak market experienced by many wool growers a few months ago, when this year's clip first began to move into consumptive channels.

"Several cooperative wool marketing associations have made use of the Intermediate Credit Banks ever since they were established in 1923. More are making use of these banks this year than ever before."

BANTON'S AIDES READY FOR NEW MILK INQUIRY

Evidence concerning the operations of the New York Milk Chain Association, which was turned over to District Attorney Banton last week by Health Commissioner Wynne, will be studied in detail this week with a view to further action, according to Mr. Banton.

The District Attorney has assigned Assistant District Attorneys George N. Brothers and Albert B. Unger to question wholesale milk dealers and to examine the statements which the Health Department has collected since October, indicating that 200 wholesalers of loose milk paid at the rate of about $800,000 a year to the organization headed by Lawrence Fay, former night club proprietor.

It was understood yesterday that any criminal investigation would probably be in the secrecy of the grand jury room rather than before a committing magistrate.

In advance of any proceedings Mr. Fay denied on Saturday that the Milk Chain Association is a "racket." According to Mr. Fay, his association "does ont resort to strong-arm methods, malice or coercion, and does not compel the loose-milk dealers to join; and the money that it is claimed we collected has been greatly exaggerated."

In the same notice Mr. Fay served notice on all members of the association concerning his official policy, as follows: "The members of this association must understand that a combination to compel another dealer in the same goods to sell at prices fixed by the combination, or, upon their refusal so to do, to prevent such persons from purchasing their commodities, is contrary to the law and will not be sanctioned."

BRIDGE EXPERTS TO MEET.

Convention Today to Discuss Laws of "Contract."

The Teachers of Bridge, a national organization of instructors, will open their second annual convention today at the Lombardy Hotel, 111 East Fifty-sixth Street.

There they will debate the problems of the past year and strive especially to evolve clear construction for the intricate rules of contract bridge.

"We will endeavor to consolidate and make universal the practices and conventions which are now localized in various communities," said Wilbur C. Whitehead, who will open the convention. "The authorities will present their systems of procedure at the convention, and these will be taken up in open discussion and approved or rejected by the majority opinion of the teachers."

English Barmaid Preaches In Church Near Banbury Cross

By The Associated Press.

BANBURY, England, Sept. 15.—Miss Varney Hancock Cashmore, 26 years old, who earns her living weekdays dispensing beer and whisky as a barmaid at Marlborough Arms, almost in the shadow of the famous Banbury Cross, occupied the pulpit at the Banbury Unitarian Church today, taking the place of the vacationing minister.

After the services she described her experience as "most interesting." At the same time she confided that "it always has been my ambition to be a preacher."

CHASE MAKES APPEAL TO REPUBLICAN VOTERS

Says Governor, Mayor and Police Commissioner Are Responsible for Speakeasies.

Canon William Sheafe Chase, preaching yesterday morning in Christ Episcopal Church, Bedford Avenue, Brooklyn, said that Governor Roosevelt, Mayor Walker and Police Commissioner Whalen were responsible for the existence of speakeasies in New York.

Describing a speakeasy as a place where "one is not to talk aloud," Canon Chase said much of its revenue was derived from immorality, gambling and the harboring of criminals. Before beginning his sermon he reminded the congregation that Tuesday was primary day. He said the Democratic party's candidate for Mayor had no opposition and suggested that those enrolled as Republicans should vote for candidates who would uphold the laws of righteousness.

After asking "who are responsible for speakeasies?" Canon Chase said:

"The Governor of the State, the Mayor and Police Commissioner of the City of New York. Each of these has the power as well as the sworn and paid duty to prevent the collecting of $30,000,000 or more, commonly believed to be paid by the speakeasies through the police to those in control of Tammany.

"The men who collect and those who pay the graft of $30,000,000 or more for permission to violate the laws and ruin the souls and bodies of the boys and girls of our city.

"Those party managers who have control of the party organization and refuse to give the nomination to any officer who does not promise as Governor, Mayor, judge or Police Commissioner to permit speakeasies and the graft which they pay to continue undisturbed."

To this list Canon Chase added those citizens who did not believe the law could be enforced and those who would not exert themselves to elect officials who would enfocre the law.

PAPAL BRIEF HONORS WILLIAM F. MONTAVON

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—In recognition of his services as director of the legal department of the National Catholic Welfare Conference, William T. Montavon was this afternoon presented with a papal brief making him a Knight of the Order of St. Gregory the Great.

Almost from the inception of his association with the work of the welfare conference Mr. Montavon became actively engaged in its efforts to solve the religious difficulties in Mexico and had a large part in connection with its solution.

The honor was conferred at the Apostolic Legation by the Most Rev. Pietro Fumasoni-Bioni, Apostolic Delegate to the United States. The papal brief was read by the Rev. Dr. John J. Burke, general secretary of the National Catholic Welfare Conference. It stated that the honor was conferred at the request of the Apostolic Delegate.

The entire staff of the welfare conference was present at today's ceremony. A joint telegram was received from Archbishops Ruiz y Flores, the Apostolic Delegate to Mexico, and Pasqual Diaz, the Primate of Mexico, congratulating Mr. Montavon and speaking of his "assistance in the work of the National Catholic Welfare Conference on behalf of Mexico."

Mr. Montavon was born in Ohio in 1874. He attended St. Edward's College, Ontario, and St. Charles's College, Maryland; received his A. B. degree from Notre Dame University, took a post-graduate course at the Catholic University of America and studied in France.

After serving as superintendent of schools of Tayabas Province, Philippines, he became United States Commercial Attaché at Lima, Peru, and while serving in that capacity was first secretary of the Interallied Board on Enemy Trading in Peru.

He became identified with an American firm in Peru and negotiated an agreement with the Peruvian Government for an international arbitration of land titles. After similar work in Colombia he returned to the United States and joined the staff of the National Catholic Welfare Conference in 1925.

MISSES' SIZES

THIS is the frock that everyone "raved" about at the London Trades opening. It has the new line but retains just enough of the youthful sports feeling to insure its success with smart young things. The little round collar is of self material—two jaunty bows are the only trimming. Two-piece—the skirt is one of those subtly cut and pleated affairs for which London Trades is famous.

ORTHODOX RABBIS BALK AT AGENCY

FOR BIBLE NATIONALISM

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, Sept. 15—After agitated debates which necessitated the appointment of a special committee to consider the question in all its aspects the Agudath Israel World Congress of Orthodox Jews decided today it could not officially enter the Jewish Agency to share in the work of colonization of Palestine.

The decision, which was reached after strenuous efforts of the Zionists to persuade Agudath Israel to enter the agency and thereby present a united Jewish front to the world in the matter of Zionist work, was marked by an expression of sympathy with Zionism.

Recent events in Palestine led the congress to consider the question particularly seriously, as a feeling was current that the threat to Jewish colonization there should modify the attitude of non-participation which the organization had been expected to adopt.

An Agudath committee decided that, despite all sympathy for the reconstruction work in Palestine, it was impossible for orthodox Jewry officially to be associated with the secular Zionist work. Orthodox Jewry decided it must stand on Bible nationalism—that is, where the Jew has a Bible there he is at home. Various members strongly urged that the Bible promised the Jews a home which would not be given by any human agency under the protection of troops and that it was impossible for orthodox Jewry to work with despisers of Jewish holy books.

Rabbi Kahane of New York said before the congress, which he called one of the most important ever held in the history of Jewry, that "for the first 300 of the most famous rabbis, representing all shades of opinion, are attending such a gathering, enabling us to show the world that, despite all differences, orthodox Jews fundamentally are of one mind.

"One of our aims is the strict organization of orthodoxy, which has shown its strength and universality at this congress. We wish to create a permanent rabbinical council as the supreme authority of orthodox Jews. That would be something new, but it is essential to our religious life. If, as it is said, Jewry tends toward individualism, then the establishment of such a central body would be particularly valuable."

RABBIS TO MEET TONIGHT.

Conference Called in Fight Against "Mushroom Synagogues."

The Union of Orthodox Congregations of America, through its president, Rabbi Herbert S. Goldstein, has called a conference of all rabbis and of representatives of 700 orthodox congregations in New York and vicinity for this evening at the Institutional Synagogue, 37 West 116th Street, to protest against so-called "mushroom" synagogues. The announcement says:

"With the arrival of the Jewish high holy days each year hundreds of mushroom synagogues for the holidays spring up throughout Greater New York. These so-called synagogues, with the exception of those organized by large congregations to accommodate their members, are sponsored by private individuals for their own personal gain who pay little heed to the dignity and sanctity of services conducted there. In a great many instances these synagogues are housed in places absolutely unfit for divine worship, whereas many of the regular all-year-round synagogues, which look forward to the renting of seats for the holidays as their only course of income, remain partly empty."

RISE IN LUXURY TAXES URGED FOR GERMANY

Finance Minister Says Heavier Levies Should Be Laid on Alcohol and Tobacco.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Sept. 15—Addressing the Democratic Municipal League on the question of financial reforms, Dr. Hoepker-Aschoff, Prussian Minister of Finance, urged the imposition of heavier taxation on luxuries. England, he stated, levies 2,700,000,000 marks ($648,000,000) from its tax on alcohol, whereas Germany only collects 800,000,000 marks ($192,000,000), while the British levies on tobacco are 800,000,000 marks ($72,000,000) more than those obtained by Germany.

He predicted the adoption of the Young plan, which he stated afforded Germany an essential lessening of her financial burdens, compared to her payments under the Dawes plan. He opposed reduction of the levies now imposed on the Federal Railway system and declared an undertaking whose property value was 26,000,000,000 marks could carry an assessment of 860,000,000 marks, plus a transport tax of 300,000,000 marks, and that it also could afford to pay interest on 1,000,000,000 marks of preferred shares.

RARE CHINESE ART GIVEN TO MUSEUM

FIGURES 600 YEARS OLD

A rare group of figures in Chinese cloisonné enamel, rivaled by only two similar collections in this country, has been acquired by the Metropolitan Museum of Art, according to an announcement yesterday by Dr. Edward Robinson, director of the museum. The collection, consisting of 100 pieces, forms the only exhibition of Chinese cloisonné enamels at the museum. It is the gift of Edward G. Kennedy, art collector.

Among the delicately carved figures are several pieces which are nearly six centuries old, being attributed by art collectors as belonging to the Wan Li Period. Of the collection, two are bronzes and one porcelain; the remaining ninety-seven are pure examples of Chinese cloisonné enamel.

"Mr. Kennedy's kind gift marks an unusually notable acquisition for the museum and one of the most significant which we have made during the year," Dr. Robinson said. "Only two other groups in this country are as large, and no collection in the United States surpasses it in quality."

Priest's Figure in Group.

The bowl regarded as one of the best examples of Chinese craftsmanship in cloisonné enamel is among the collection. It has for its motif the "Source of Existence." This motif and the conventional crane motif regarded as an emblem of longevity and the eight symbols of Buddhism are worked out in the five colors which represent the five elements. Fire is represented by red; wood, by green; water, by black; earth, by yellow, and metal, by white. The richness of these colors, together with the significance of the design, make the bowl one of the rarest pieces in the collection.

A different example of Chinese craftsmanship is a large beaker-shaped vase, decorated with floriated ornament, scrolls and palmettes copied from archaic bronzes. On it, fish, frogs, crabs, herons and other aquatic creatures disport themselves among lotus plants in a turquoise sea.

Centuries ago, the Chinese learned the art of enamelling, it is believed, from Arab workmen who, in traveling across Asia, set up workshops in the large cities and there introduced the various Byzantine methods of work. Many of the pieces now on view at the museum reflect the Byzantine influence, according to students.

Summer Visitors Set Record.

A new record for Summer attendance at the museum was registered during the past few months, according to museum officials. From June 1 to Aug. 17 the attendance at the main building was 181,633 persons and at the Cloisters, 9,986. This represents an increase of about 20,000 over the attendance figures for last Summer. The visitors came from all parts of the country and from many sections of the world.

So popular have the lectures at the museum become that it is necessary to turn away many persons, according to H. W. Kent, secretary at the museum. He said that the lectures, begun as an experiment with a small group several years ago, now draw more than 500 people. A special course of lectures is to be given this season, for the benefit of school teachers. No fees will be charged to the teachers, who may receive academic credit for the courses.

A special group of courses is also to be given to demonstrate the relationship of the principles of design and color to the styling and coordination of various merchandise.

$9,000,000 CONTESTED BY RUSSIAN EMIGRES

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Sept. 15 (AP).—Old Russian treasure to the value of more than $9,000,000 was disclosed today to be resting in the safe of a Belgrade bank by the action of two groups of Russian emigrés who are seeking its possession. The treasure consists of diamonds, jewelry and securities which belonged to the St. Petersburg Mortgage Bank and were carried to the Crimea at the time of the revolution.

After the collapse of the White army, General Wrangel nominated a committee to guard the treasure, which was brought here and placed in a rented safe. Recently a group of Russian refugees sought liquidation of the remaining assets of the old bank to establish a new one abroad, but the surviving members of the committee have refused to deliver the treasure, asserting that they were never recognized by Grand Duke Nicholas.

WATER SHORTAGE RELIEVED

Special to The New York Times.

BEACON, Sept 15.—A shortage of water has been relieved in the Matteawan State Hospital for Criminal Insane in Beacon and the State Institution for Defective Delinquents in Napanoch, Dr. Raymond C. Kieb, Commissioner of Correction, announced today.

Restrictions upon bathing, which limited inmates and employes to one bath a week, have been removed.

"The situation, which was acute in both institutions," Dr. Kieb said, "has now been alleviated."

MUSSOLINI MOVES HIS OFFICE QUARTERS

SPURS VETERANS' GROUP

Tells Members Fascism and Combatants Will Be One Body and Soul "Tomorrow, in Day of Trial."

ROME, Sept. 15 (AP).—The offices of Benito Mussolini as Premier and Minister of the Interior will henceforth be in Venezia Palace in the same hall of the globe where he spoke to the assembly of the Fascist party yesterday.

Hitherto he has divided his time between the Viminale Palace, the seat of the Interior Department where he usually spent his mornings, and Chigi Palace, seat of the Foreign Office, where he could be found in the afternoon, visiting the other ministries whose leadership he has now relinquished. Most American visitors had been received in his big study at the Chigi Palace.

Today the Premier presided at the sixth national council of the war veterans' association. Tomorrow he will review their parade.

In his speech to the former service men, the Premier said, "I say to you that my presence here has a clear significance. It expresses all my profound sympathy and tells you that today Fascism and Combattentismo (the veterans' movement) are two bodies with a single head, but tomorrow, in the day of trial, Fascismo and Combattentismo will have one body and one soul."

Mussolini distributed diplomas to veterans who had contributed to reduction of the national debt and said to them jokingly: "I beg that you will believe I signed all these with my own fist." He was particularly cordial to a delegation from the Fascist Federation of Paris, saying he appreciated the devotion of "Black Shirts" living outside Italy.

MEXICO CITY HAILS RUBIO AS CANDIDATE

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 15.—Pascual Ortiz Rubio, the nominee of the Grand Revolutionary party for the Mexican Presidency, received a triumphal welcome here today on returning after a campaign tour of the country.

A noon, two hours after his scheduled time, he arrived with his special convoy and the candidate was deluged with confetti and flowers while thousands shouted, "Viva Rubio."

Immediately on arriving the party boarded motor trucks and, heading a procession of upward of 10,000, they were taken to Señor Ortiz Rubio's headquarters.

Along the way many more joined the procession, workmen's groups being prominent with their banners. At the headquarters speeches were the order of the day, and all the speakers were warmly applauded.

During the entire proceedings airplanes droned overhead and dropped political pamphlets. The demonstration throughout was characterized by great decorum.

Political opposition apparently was absent.

MEXICO CITY, Sept 15 (AP).—Two days of celebration of Mexican Independence, which began in 1810, got under way this morning. Tonight at the National Palace Provisional President Emilio Portes Gil in the presence of the highest officials of Mexico and members of the diplomatic corps struck the liberty bell and gave the "Grito," or shout of liberty.

Tomorrow the President will review 14,000 troops while thirty airplanes stage an exhibition over the city.

30,000 CATHOLICS MARCH IN LONDON

POPE SENDS HIS BLESSING

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 15.—Thirty thousand Catholic men marched silently through the streets of London to Westminster Cathedral today and later kneeled before Cardinal Bourne in one of the most impressive Roman Catholic demonstrations England has ever known. It was the culmination of a whole week given over to celebrating the 100th anniversary of the emancipation which restored political and civil rights to Roman Catholics in England.

A century and a half ago the same streets over which today's procession passed were the scene of a monster anti-Catholic demonstration which ended in rioting and the burning of many Catholic homes. Today dense crowds lined the curbs, watching the line of marchers who had come, like a pilgrim host, from all corners of England, especially from Catholic centres in Lancashire.

They walked four abreast, each marcher wearing a double cross tied with the papal colors. No bands, no banners, no singing—nothing for an hour and a half but thousands of pairs of feet.

Parish clergymen wore cassocks and surplices. Friars and monks wore the habits of their orders—there were the Carmelites, or white friars; Dominicans, or black friars; Franciscans in dark brown robes and Benedictines, Augustinians and Jesuits in black.

When all the marchers had crowded into the cathedral grounds, Cardinal Bourne gave the Pontifical benediction of the Blessed Sacrament.

Earlier in the day, a high mass had been celebrated before a congregation of 20,000 in the cathedral grounds. Cardinal Bourne wore the cappa magna and sat on a throne at the altar, which had been placed upon a high platform with a green and white canopy above. The entire Catholic hierachy of England and Wales—four Archbishops and nineteen Bishops—assisted at the service.

Message From Pope Read.

LONDON, Sept. 15 (AP).—After the mass, celebrated here in connection with the observance of a century of political emancipation of Roman Catholics in England, Cardinal Bourne read a message from Pope Pius XI, which said:

"The august Pontiff has most gratefully received expressions of filial homage and devotion which you addressed to him, the common father of all, on the occasion of the assembly gathered at Westminster to commemorate publicly the hundred years of your re-won religious freedom. He prays that day by day there may be fresh progress in the Catholic cause and bestows upon you all his fatherly blessing."

The message was signed by Cardinal Gasparri, Papal Secretary of State.

TARDIEU HAILS GAINS BY FRANCE SINCE WAR

Chides Defeatists Who Discredit Own Achievements—Assails Foes of International Accords.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Sept. 15.—France's recovery from the set-backs of the war was viewed with complete satisfaction, while pessimists who deny the real strength of her position were sharply rebuked today by André Tardieu, Minister of the Interior, in an address before an agricultural meeting at Delle.

"We are admired by foreigners for our accomplishments since the war," he declared. "Only the French discredit the results of their own efforts. The pessimism of the defeatists is a malady of our times. They falsely insist that we never reaped the fruits of victory which we are actually enjoying.

"There is a lot of talk about an invasion of Europe by financial and commercial imperialists from across the sea, but whenever a government chief strives for an international entente he is regarded as a dreamer or a visionary. The settlement of old quarrels is demanded, but every international accord that is negotiated is denounced as a surrender of French rights."

M. Tardieu's speech was an appeal to all parties to forget their political differences for the time being and work together for the good of the country. With good-humored frankness he cited examples of how both the Right and the Left had in the past few years committed notorious blunders under the influence of political passion.

"Let us try to recover our good sense, our good faith and our good humor," he pleaded, declaring he himself was now cured of the party spirit from which he had one time suffered.

Not even his good humor and wit, however, seem likely to prevent the Minister of the Interior from being accused tomorrow in the Left press of criticising party politics because of his desire to see established a kind of Fascist unity.

FOE OF AMERICA INSANE.

Jose Jolibois of Haiti Was Lecturing in Buenos Aires.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 15.—José Jolibois, president of the Haitian Patriotic League, who in a course of lectures on international law at Buenos Aires University has been filling Argentine law students with dislike and suspicion of the United States, has been sent to an insane asylum here after a mental breakdown.

Anti-American newspapers attribute his insanity to worry over the fate of his family under the American military administration in Haiti and paint a tearful picture of this latest martyr to the supposed South American struggle for freedom from American imperialism.

RUMANIAN PATRIARCH BELIEVED TO BE DYING

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Sept. 15 (AP).—Miron Cristea, patriarch of Rumania and regent, was believed tonight to have little chance of recovery from his serious illness. His physicians have found that he suffers from leucocythemis, a blood disease, with a probability also of cancer.

The patriarch has been living for the last several months in a country house amid the mountains and forests of Dragoslavele, which was presented to him by the population of the Muscel district.

He was born in 1867 in Topiltza, Transylvania, the son of a farmer. He became Bishop of Karansebesch in 1910. Archbishop in 1919 and in 1925 he was nominated as first patriarch of the Rumanian Orthodox Church. On the death of King Ferdinand he was chosen as a member of the Regency Council, on which he now serves with Prince Nicholas and former Chief Justice George Buzdugan.

The probability that the patriarch will be unable to again exercise cares of State has led to considerable speculation as to his successor on the regency. The party of Juliu Maniu was said to favor St. Ciceo Popp, speaker of the lower house. The name of Dowager Queen Marie has been mentioned but it is more generally suggested that if a member of the royal family is chosen it be the present exile Prince Carol, father of young King Michael.

30 BOMB INDICTMENTS DUE.

German Police Finish Gathering Evidence Against Suspects.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Sept. 15.—Sufficient evidence has been obtained, in the opinion of the police, against thirty of the two score suspects detained in connection with recent bombing plots to warrant indictments, and all of the incriminated men are to be brought to trial at once.

Investigations made by the police authorities in Berlin, Hamburg, Altona, Kiel, Hanover, Luebeck and various cities in Schleswig Holstein, now concluded, indicate that the ringleaders had their headquarters in Berlin, and the indicted men will, in all probability, be tried here.

Among the incriminating evidence uncovered is a series of letters from leading members of the German Nationalist party to some of the men now locked up. It is not improbable that the whole series of bomb outrages will have a sensational sequel in the Reichstag when that body reconvenes at the end of this month.

USE REAL GAS IN WAR GAME.

Finnish Air Pilots Execute Most Extensive Manoeuvres.

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Sept. 15 (AP).—Airplanes carrying out the largest scale manoeuvres in the history of this country, reborn after the World War, today used real wartime gas over the Carelian Isthmus between Viborg and the Russian frontier.

Measures were taken, however, to prevent the inhabitants from suffering any ill effects. The air squadrons "bombarded" Viborg and other strategical points. Their work was watched by President L. K. Relander and several members of his Cabinet.

Will Be Taken to America on the Leviathan Tuesday or the Homeric Sailing Wednesday.

NO PARIS SERVICE PLANNED

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Sept. 15.—James Marshall arrived in Paris this afternoon with the body of his distinguished father, Louis Marshall, who died in Zurich last Wednesday.

"I hope to get accommodations on either the Leviathan, leaving Cherbourg for New York on Tuesday, or the Homeric, which sails on Wednesday," Mr. Marshall said. "No funeral services in Paris are planned. Burial will be beside mother who died a few years ago, in the family vault at Salem Fields Cemetery."

Methodist Pastor Pays Tribute.

Arrangements for the funeral of Mr. Marshall in New York were still being held up yesterday pending the fixing of a definite date for the arrival of the body. Samuel Untermyer, his law partner, said that as soon as the date was established, funeral plans would proceed at once.

Meanwhile tributes continued for the noted Jewish leader. The Rev. Dr. Christian F. Reisner, in his sermon last night at the Chelsea Methodist Church, Fort Washington Avenue and 178th Street, lauded Mr. Marshall.

"Millions are mourning the decease of that gracious, gentle, fragant natured, brotherly helper of humanity and believer in the Father-God, Louis Marshall," said Dr. Reisner. "He honored me with his friendship and left in my heart a blessed influence which will never be lost. He has demonstrated anew that Jew, Roman Catholic and Protestant worship the same God, for none of them grows more beautiful souls. One of his chief benefactions was a Christian school, Syracuse University, whose Chancellor, a Methodist preacher, C. W. Flint, constantly drew spiritual strength by contact with him."

Dr. Joseph Katz, rabbi of the Montefiore Congregation, Hewitt and Macy Places, the Bronx, praised the career of Mr. Marshall in his sermon yesterday.

"Europeans would even have us look down upon our leaders as time servers, our captains of industry solely as money makers and our press and publishers as desecrators of ideals," he declared. "Is that so? Louis Marshall, a Jew of the Jews, died and the whole press of the United States arose as one man to respond to the Kaddish that his own co-religionists offered in his most honored memory and their paeans of praise even overwhelmed the lament of his own brethren. If Louis Marshall had left millions, would he have received such praise from the press and leaders of men? And I take the newspapers as a barometer of the nation's ideal temperament."

Rosalsky Praises Him Over Radio.

A tribute to Mr. Marshall delivered by Judge Otto A. Rosalsky of the Court of General Sessions, was broadcast over station WABC during the Sunday hour allotted to The Day, Jewish newspaper. Judge Rosalsky spoke of him as a lawyer, Jewish leader and personal friend.

"He was one of the acknowledged leaders of the American bar and in the presentation of a case I know of no lawyer who spoke more eloquently, more weightily and more earnestly than the man to whom this tribute is paid," he said. "His vigorous intellect, his tender heart and his understanding mind enabled him to perform a service on behalf of his people that earned for him the title of 'Leader of American Jewry.'"

Among the organizations which added their tributes to the dead leader were the Iota Theta law fraternity, the Jewish Colonization Association and the Varband One.

ZEPPELIN'S PIGEON LOST.

CASSEL, Prussia, Sept. 15 (AP).—The near-by village of Edingen instead of far-away Japan proved the goal of one of the carrier pigeons released from the Graf Zeppelin during the dirigible's flight around the world.

PEACOX MURDER TRIAL WILL START TODAY

Extra Deputies to Be on Duty at White Plains — Jury to Be Picked From 150 Talesmen.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Sept. 15. Counsel for the State and the defense said today they were ready for the trial here tomorrow morning of Earl Francis Peacox for the murder about April 23 of his wife.

The first day will be largely taken up with the selection of a jury from the special panel of nearly 150 talesmen. Thirty members of the panel live in Mount Vernon where the crime allegedly was committed.

Supreme Court Justice Arthur S. Tompkins will preside. District Attorney Frank H. Coyne will conduct personally the prosecution, and Sydney A. Syme of this city, the defense. The indictment is for first degree murder.

The court has ordered that no photographs be taken in the corridors or rooms of the court house. Extra deputies will police the building under the direction of Sheriff Thomas W. Underhill.

Peacox is charged with strangling his wife in his Mount Vernon apartment on the first anniversary of their marriage. He is also charged with burning the body several days after the murder. The body was found on April 27, under an apple tree in a field adjoining the Ardsley Road, town of Greenburgh. Following the identification of the woman, her husband is alleged to have confessed to the commission of the crime.

CANTOR DEDICATES N. V. A. SANITARIUM

Voices Hope That Health Will Empty $750,000 Institution on Peak Above Saranac.

SPECIAL TRAIN FOR EVENT

Mayor Walker Sends Greetings, and Messages to Vaudeville Actors Come From Lauder and Others.

Special to The New York Times.

SARANAC LAKE, N. Y., Sept. 15.—Representatives of many theatrical organizations were present this afternoon at the dedication ceremonies of the National Vaudeville Artists' newly erected sanitarium here.

At the entrance of the $750,000 building Eddie Cantor, president of the organization, unfurled its flag and said:

"And now, on behalf of the N. V. A., I dedicate this sanitarium to the members of our profession."

An inspection of the building was then made. The sanitarium is situated on an estate of forty acres and is located on top of a mountain peak which overlooks the surrounding country.

The institution is primarily intended for the treatment of tuberculosis cases. In addition, arrangements have been made for the care of those afflicted with other pulmonary diseases and malnutrition and those recuperating from major surgical operations.

Saranac Doctors to Aid.

The sanitarium, which is equipped with the latest scientific devices, will be operated under the direction of Dr. Edgar Mayer. He will be assisted by Dr. George Eliot Wilson. Members of the medical profession practicing in Saranac Lake, have offered to help in every possible way.

Just before a special train, made up of six cars containing various delegations, left Grand Central Station early this morning, Mayor Walker appeared to express his regrets on his not being able to accompany the group because of the illness of his wife.

The representatives of the theatrical organizations were met on their arrival here by William Morris, president of the Jewish Theatrical Guild. After a brief rest at the rustic retreat of Mr. Morris, the group had lunch at the Hotel Saranac and were transported to the sanitarium.

Cantor Explains Financing.

In his address after the dedication ceremonies, Mr. Cantor said:

"It's about time you heard from an actor. I hope the time will come when this place will be empty and an electric sign displayed advertising chicken and hot waffles for $1. We have evolved a scheme whereby a day's receipts from all vaudeville and picture theatres will be donated to this institution.

"Our members will have on their membership cards addresses of physicians in New York, Chicago and on the Coast so that they may avail themselves of expert medical advice. And in this way we hope to combat the inroads of tuberculosis. Nowadays, to go Shakespeare one better, it is not 'the play's the thing'; it is the player is the thing, and he is the backbone of the theatre.

"May God look down on these handicapped people and bring them a speedy recovery."

Other Speakers at Ceremony.

Others who spoke included Henry Chesterfield, secretary of the N. V. A.; Dr. Mayer, Dr. Morris, Pat Casey, treasurer of the N. V. A.; S. L. Rothafel (Roxy), Ben Kahane, counsel for the R-K-O, A. J. Balaban of the Paramount-Famous-Lasky Corporation and Joe Webber, who, as president of the Musicians' Union, represents 150,000 musicians.

Dr. Morris attributed the success of the movement to build the sanitarium to Sime Silverman, owner of the theatrical trade paper, Variety, for suggesting the project and to Pat Casey, Henry Chesterfield and Charles Bray for their untiring labors.

Mr. Casey read telegrams of congratulations from Harry Lauder, Walter Scott, Adolph Zukor, William Fox, Hiram S. Brown and David Sarnoff.

The Scottish comedian's telegram read:

TO HONOR OLD ENGLISH KING

M. Jackson Crispin of 375 Park Avenue, who recently returned from Europe, is the American member of an international committee which plans to honor the memory of William the Conqueror by the erection of a bronze tablet to be placed by French, English and Americans of Norman descent in the Castle of Falaise, where William was born. The tablet will commemorate the Battle of Hastings, fought on Oct. 14, 1066, from which the Norman William obtained his title of "the Conqueror."

Other members of the committee are Count d'Harcourt, Senator from Calvados; Mayor Thorpe of Hastings, England; Mayor Guilleteau of Falaise, the Marquis d'Eyragues, Professor Macary of the College of Falaise and Professor Prestout of the University of Caen.

The tablet will contain authenticated names of those who fought with William, including not only those which have been published but also others which can be proved authentic. The committee hopes to make it a conclusive record of William's companions in the historic battle. The tablet is to be unveiled next Summer, with a celebration reviving scenes and costumes of 900 years ago.

Mr. Crispin is a descendant of William Crispin I, Count of Vexin, who fought with William the Conqueror and whose name will appear on the tablet.

THIS same man used to be the despair of his mother when he was a youngster and he hasn't changed much since. He never remembers or doesn't care to get into old clothes before working on his car, or mending the furniture, or painting the back porch. It's all right to be careless if his suits are always as stout as the Sackville.

The Sackville isn't just a "show case" suit. It's a rugged suit and we are proud of its sturdy wearing qualities. It has meant that we've had to insist on fabrics that could stand the most rigorous friction tests; sewing and stitching that could resist the severest strains. These standards have produced what we believe to be a really remarkable suit for the price.

ARMY CHOOSES 268 AS FLYING CADETS

NINETEEN FROM CALIFORNIA

129 Officers, All From West Point Juns Class, Assigned to Brooks and Marsh Fields.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—Two hundred and sixty-eight students, among them officers of the regular army newly detailed to the Air Corps, civilian college graduates and enlisted men of the army, will start training Oct. 15 at the Air Corps's two primary aviation training schools at Brooks Field, Texas, and March Field, California, the War Department announced today.

One of the civilian students will be Christy Mathewson Jr., son of the former pitching ace of the New York Giants. The others come from all walks of life, attracted to the Air Corps by the glamour of flying and the material benefits to be gained from it.

Officers from various branches of the army detailed to the Air Corps number 129. Of these, eighty-one are assigned to Brooks Field and forty-eight to March Field. All assigned to March Field are members of the June graduating class at West Point, fifty-eight of the graduates being assigned to Brooks Field.

The others assigned to the two fields include 124 college graduates from civil life, forty-eight being assigned to Brooks Field and seventy-six to March Field; as well as fifteen enlisted men, twelve from Air Corps organizations and three from other branches of the service.

The list of eligible candidates for appointment from civil life numbered more than 600, among them being many college graduates. Lack of accommodations at the two schools made it necessary to limit the appointments. Candidates accepted for training under flying cadet status are required to have at least two years of college work to their credit. Otherwise they are subjected to a mental examination in order to qualify.

As on several previous occasions, California takes the lead in the number sent to the schools, with a total of nineteen candidates, Illinois being next in line with nine. Los Angeles leads the cities with six students, followed by San Francisco and Houston, Texas, with three each.

The course at the primary flying schools is of eight months' duration, followed by a four months' course at the advanced flying school at Kelly Field, Texas.

Cadets and enlisted men successfully completing the year's course are commissioned as Second Lieutenants in the Air Corps Reserve. In the past, many of the graduates of the advanced flying school have accepted a year's active duty under their status as reserve officers, while quite a number of them passed the examination for appointment in the air corps of the regular army.

LINDBERGHS FLY HERE.

Special to The New York Times.

ROOSEVELT FIELD, L. I., Sept. 15.—Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh landed here tonight after a flight from North Haven, Me., where they had been spending the week-end at the Summer home of Mrs. Lindbergh's father, Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow. The Colonel was piloting an Aeromarine-Klemm, dual-controlled, low-winged monoplane with two small cockpits, which it is rumored he has purchased for his wife's use.

Their landing was virtually unobserved by the 1,000 persons at the field, who were watching other planes in flight. They motored at once to New York.

Transandean Planes Worry Rail Officials; Consider Fare Cuts to Meet Air Competition

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 15.—The air lines recently established in South America with American-owned planes piloted by Americans promise to reduce South American rail fares as well as steamship fares between New York and South American ports in the near future.

Although the air service between Buenos Aires, Argentina, and Santiago, Chile, across the Andes Mountains is only ten days' old, it is already causing serious concern to Transandean Railway officials, who are seriously considering reducing their fares because of the airline competition.

The flight from Buenos Aires to Santiago in a plane carrying twelve passengers requires only ten and a half hours and costs only $20 more than the rail trip requiring thirty-seven hours. The airline is welcomed by business men who travel extensively between Argentina and Chile. The Transandean Railway is said to be the most expensive in the world.

Although the fares from the New York to Buenos Aires flight have not been announced, airline officials here say they will be low enough to attract considerable traffic from the steamships, which require three weeks for the trip.

Alexander Dye, American commercial attaché at Buenos Aires, whose pioneer work is largely responsible for the present New York-Buenos Aires airline, predicts that rate cutting between airlines and steamship companies will have become so keen within three years that the question in the prospective passenger's mind will be whether he shall travel fast and cheaply by airplane or pay a higher fare for a slower and more comfortable ocean voyage.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Sept. 15 (AP).—Eduardo Bradley, secretary of the Argentine Civil Aviation Club and entry in the Gordon Bennett balloon race to be held in St. Louis, expects to make the fastest passage between Argentina and the United States on record. He arrived here yesterday and was to continue to Miami, Fla., today.

Since leaving Santiago, Chile, on Sept. 8, he has traveled entirely by commercial air lines. He expects to reach Miami tomorrow afternoon.

SHEPHERD GETS HALF OF M'CLINTOCK ESTATE

By Settlement, Chicago Youth's Guardian Divides $1,000,000 With Fiancee and Cousins.

CHICAGO, Sept. 15 (AP).—The Chicago Tribune today said contesting claimants for the $1,000,000 estate of William Nelson McClintock, wealthy young Chicagoan who died under mysterious circumstances five years ago, had reached an agreement for settlement.

William Darling Shepherd, who was McClintock's guardian and who was acquitted of a charge of slaying his ward by administering typhoid germs, will receive half of the estate and the remainder will be divided among Miss Isabelle Pope, McClintock's fiancée, and two groups of cousins from Ottumwa, Iowa, and from California, the paper said.

Under the terms of McClintock's will, Mr. Shepherd received the entire estate with the exception of an $8,000 annuity for Miss Pope.

McClintock died late in 1924 after Miss Pope had made vain attempts to marry him on his deathbed. After his acquittal for responsibility for the death, Mr. Shepherd lost his plea to probate the will, but won on an appeal.

Early in 1927, the cousins filed suit to break the will, charging it was dictated by Mr. Shepherd. A few months later, Miss Pope filed suit for a widow's share, alleging Mr. Shepherd had contrived to prevent the wedding. In May of this year, Circuit Judge Philip L. Sullivan ruled that the cousins were legal heirs and Miss Pope entered into an agreement for settlement in the event either group was successful.

GIRL BANDIT'S HUSBAND DECLINES EXPERT AID

Rogers and Two Other Young Texas Lawyers Defend His Wife at Her Third Trial.

NEW BRAUNFELS, Texas, Sept. 15 (AP).—Tired-eyed and with hair graying from three years of incessant worry, Otis Rogers, aged 23, lawyer husband of Rebecca Bradley Rogers, on trial for the third time for bank robbery, this time has declined more experienced counsel and has staked her liberty on his own legal knowledge and that of the two college classmates.

The defense staff, which tomorrow will continue the presentation of alienists, in an effort to prove that Becky was insane when in December, 1926, she robbed the Buda (Texas) Farmers' National Bank—they claim with an empty gun—probably is the youngest to try a capital case in Texas. Leo Brester, aged 26, of Fort Worth and J. H. Schleyers, 28, of New Braunfels, friends of Otis and Rebecca when all were students at the University of Texas only a short time ago, are trying to shield the 24-year-old girl from a verdict of guilty which conceivably could bring the death penalty.

Rebecca, slight, sallow and seeming utterly bored, reclines in her chair with closed eyes or toys with her hat and gloves.

Not until Rebecca was arrested and charged with robbery by firearms did Rogers, thin, austere and melancholy in appearance, fully understand the meaning of pleading against the prosecution. He had barely begun the practice of law when it became necessary that he put the oratory which he formerly had used as a member of the campus debating society to test before a jury sitting in judgment on his wife.

Defense testimony that Mrs. Rogers is a victim of pellagra, in addition to dementia praecox, had not served to brighten the outlook of the husband, who contracted pneumonia and then tuberculosis in rushing throughout a wintry day and night from Amarillo to Austin when she was arrested.

The defendant was recognized as a brilliant student at the university and held several responsible positions while she studied at Austin. At the time of the bank robbery she was a stenographer in the office of Governor Dan Moody. She had acquired a Master of Arts degree in her school work.

"MYSTERY PLANE" TESTED.

Curvature of Wings of Alfaro Craft Is Changeable at Pilot's Will.

Special to The New York Times.

MITCHEL FIELD, L. I., Sept. 15.—The "mystery plane" which was flown here recently from Cleveland and is now undergoing secret tests was identified today as an Alfaro, a cabin monoplane, built by an aeronautical designer of that name in Cleveland. The plane, powered with a Warner-Scarab engine, has been subjected to many tests in the Guggenheim hangar at the field.

Lieutenant James Doolittle, army test pilot, has flown the craft several times since her arrival here. Among the radical departures from conventional design found in the plane is the variable camber of the wings, which enables the pilot to increase or decrease the lift of the wings by changing their curvature. It is expected that the plane will be entered in the Guggenheim safe aircraft competitions.

SAFETY BELT SAVES FLIER.

GLASTONBURY, Conn., Sept. 15 (AP).—A safety belt saved Clifford W. Simon, aged 32, a pilot, of Hockanum, Conn., from death today when his plane, stalling 700 feet above ground, crashed into meadows near the Connecticut River.

The plane dived nose first into the ground and only the belt kept the flier from being catapulted out of the cockpit. He suffered a broken nose, a black eye and injuries to his face and arms. Five other fliers risked their own lives to go to his rescue.

Simon was released from the cockpit by Horace Siapenell of Hartford and was taken to the Hartford Hospital in a plane piloted by Albert Burnham, also of that city.

CAUSE OF PLANE CRASH REMAINS A MYSTERY

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., Sept. 15 (AP).—While the charred bodies of the six victims of the airplane crash yesterday at Merriton, Ont., were being prepared for burial here today, Dr. D. V. Currey, coroner, made plans for an inquest to be held within the next three days.

Five of the victims were taking their first ride in a plane. The sixth, a World War pilot, had nearly 3,000 hours in the air to his credit. The victims, all of whom were identified late Saturday night and early today, are:

JOHN LESLIE BOND, aged 32, Toronto.
ALLAN JOHN BOND, 8 years old, his son.
Mrs. AGNES BENNETT, 36 years old, Hamilton.
JAMES A. McDONALD, 48 years old, St. Catharines, official photographer for the Welland Canal.

Probably it will never be known just what was responsible for the tragedy. All that remained of the plane today was a mass of scattered and charred wreckage. Nothing tangible could be found that might solve the mystery of the crash.

All the passengers in the plane had been at the Homer airport watching the stunts in connection with the opening. It was in the evening when Bradfield, pilot for Skyways, Ltd., of Toronto, is said to have reduced fares to attract passengers for short hops.

The plane took off and headed toward Thorold. Its motor at the take-off appeared to be functioning perfectly. It was only a few minutes later when the ship was seen to dip sharply, just skim the bank of the Welland Canal, plow into a field nose first, bound into the air and then burst into flames.

HALT TENNESEE PROJECTS.

Aluminum Company and Southern Railway Are Reported at Odds.

Special to The New York Times.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 15.—Conflict between the Aluminum Company of America and the Southern Railway, which has brought to a halt a large project initiated by each in this region, was reported here today.

The conflict involves the fact that the line for an extension of the Southern Railway from Alderwood to Franklin, N. C., would run through territory to be flooded by the building of a dam at Chilhowee, Tenn., across the Little Tennessee River by the Aluminum Company. Preparations by each company for construction work on its development are at a standstill.

About three miles of the Southern's trackage would be thrown under water by the building of the Chilhowee Dam. It is reported here that the railroad asked for $1,000,000 damages and that the Aluminum company pay the added cost of construction on the extension to Franklin resulting from the higher levels made necessary by flooded lower routes.

These demands, it is stated, were refused by the Aluminum Company. The latter in turn is said to be planning to shift its great transportation business out of Alcoa, in Blount County, to the Louisville & Nashville Railroad, old-time rival of the Southern, which would care for the added traffic by new yards at Mentor, on its line from Cincinnati to Atlanta.

Credit for Mayor Walker in aiding the cause of higher eduction in this city was claimed yesterday in a statement issued by the Committee for the Re-election of Walker-Berry-McKee, of which August Heckscher is chairman. The statement listed what the present city administration has done for the development of Hunter College and the College of the City of New York and declared that every detail had the direct, personal supervision of the Mayor.

The administration, the committee declared, had appropriated $3,900,000 for the first two units of a group of Gothic buildings for Hunter College on the site of the Jerome reservoir, and had begun the erection for the College of the City of New York of a sixteen-story $2,375,000 School of Business and Civic Administration at Twenty-third Street and Lexington Avenue and was completing a $20,000,000 engineering building on its Washington Heights campus. The administration also had begun the development of branches of both colleges in Brooklyn with the idea of creating a great college centre in that borough.

The development of the two municipal colleges was placed under the jurisdiction of the Board of Higher Education, which was created by the Legislature in 1926.

"The board found 4,500 acres of beautiful property, already owned by the city, on the Jerome reservoir site in the Bronx," the statement continued. "It asked that the land be assigned to it as the site for a new and thoroughly adequate home for Hunter College.

Traces Walker's Aid.

"Mayor Walker's response to the request was quick and effective. The board not only got the land but along with it an initial appropriation of $1,400,000 to start building. This was followed by another appropriation of $2,500,000, giving the Board of Higher Education $3,900,000 for the firm establishment of the greatest college for women ever undertaken by any municipality in the world."

The committee added that in 1926, when Mayor Walker took office, Hunter College had an enrolment of 3,985 day students and a teaching staff of 239, which has increased to an enrolment of 5,721 and a teaching staff of 465. Including evening, extension and Summer classes, the total enrolment of the college is now 22,710.

"Even more remarkable has been the progress of the College of the City of New York," the statement asserted. "Small idea has the average citizen of the onward march of this peculiarly New York institution. After the original construction on Washington Heights in 1903-7 and up to the time that the alert eye of Mayor Walker scanned its horizon absolutely nothing had been done and not a dollar had been spent to meet the ever-growing needs of the college."

The college, the statement added, started in 1904 with a day enrolment of 562. It now has 4,929 day students, 3,765 in the teacher course, 14,067 in the evening courses and 4,526 in the Summer session. The increase in the enrolment during Mayor Walker's administration has been 8,787.

Brooklyn Centre Sought.

The Board of Higher Education has asked the Board of Estimate to turn over to it the Mount Prospect reservoir site to establish a college centre in Brooklyn, and the statement asserted that the administration was "bending every energy" to provide this or some other suitable site and would start construction as soon as the site had been selected.

The Brooklyn branch of the college, now housed in rented quarters in the Willoughby Building, Willoughby and Bridge Streets, has 1,257 day students, and the Brooklyn branch of Hunter College, housed in the Chamber of Commerce Building at Court and Livingston Streets, has 1,205 day students. Late afternoon and evening classes bring the total enrolment in both Brooklyn branches to more than 6,000 students.

"This is the story of the interest shown by the Mayor in higher education in the city of his birth," the statement concluded. "It represents things accomplished after a Rip Van Winkle sleep in which the city has taken a twenty-year dose. And, in the doing of these things, Mayor Walker has given personal, direct supervision to every detail, ever adding his insistence for action to every movement for the upbuilding of the two great municipal institutions."

DENIES PAYING BRONX GRAFT

Samuel Derfner, president of the Rayan Building Company, Inc., of 122 East Twenty-fifth Street, who was a witness last Tuesday before the Bronx County grand jury investigating the alleged building "racketeering" in that borough, denied yesterday that he had said that his firm had paid $20,000 in graft after suffering losses of $23,000 in two fires, as reported in THE NEW YORK TIMES of Sept. 13.

"When I was up before the grand jury I did say that I had paid $20,000 more for the plastering job than it was actually worth and I also added that the fires had nothing to do with the plastering situation," said Mr. Derfner. "Up to the present we have not been able to get a line as to how the fire originated."

OPPOSES STATE DRY LAW.

Pastor Emeritus of Old South Church Endorses Repeal Movement.

BOSTON, Sept. 15 (AP)—Joseph Walker, former Republican speaker of the Massachusetts House of Representatives, today made public a letter from Rev. Dr. George A. Gordon, pastor emeritus of the Old South Church, commending Mr. Walker's movement for the repeal of the State prohibition enforcement act.

"It seems to me that the last and the only hope of society is in the education of the people," Dr. Gordon's letter read. "Until evil is seen as evil, no law, or combination of laws, can in any adequate way prevent men and women from producing it. Only universal insight and will trained in accordance with this insight can insure the valid kind of conduct in individuals and in the individuals that compose society."

THOMAS QUESTIONS LA GUARDIA ON FASCISM

Asks Whether He Is Adherent of Mussolini's Party—Calls Him a Political Chameleon.

Characterizing Representative F. H. La Guardia as a "political chameleon," Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for Mayor, questioned yesterday Mr. La Guardia's recent assertion that he had never made a deal with Tammany in his life and recalled that in 1918 Mr. La Guardia was elected to Congress by Democratic and Republican fusion against a Socialist candidate and appeared on the ballot as a Democrat and a Republican.

"The politest thing we can say about Mr. La Guardia's boast that he never made a deal with Tammany is that he suffers from an exceedingly bad memory," Mr. Thomas said. "If he did not make a deal in 1918, somebody made it for him and he was glad to accept the benefits of it. He could not possibly have been elected without Democratic support.

"Six years later he was denouncing the Democratic and Republican parties with equal vehemence. Having repudiated both parties and joined the La Follette movement, he was given the Socialist nomination which he sorely craved. When the La Follette movement broke up he became a Republican again. The Major thus enjoys the distinction of having run at some time or other on all three tickets with a legal place on the New York ballot. He also has been nominated or endorsed by some three or four other parties or groups, now dead. I can relieve Mr. Bennett's mind by assuring him that this record does not make Major La Guardia a Socialist. It makes him a chameleon or sort of political Vicar of Bray."

Mr. Thomas also called upon Mr. La Guardia to say whether or not he was a Fascist, since he had accepted without protest a Fascist salute from some of his supporters, although he has been regarded as an anti-Fascist. "The question is important, for Fascism seeks to become a world creed, a creed condemned by every shade of labor and progressive opinion," Mr. Thomas continued. "Moreover, Fascist and anti-Fascist quarrels have before now troubled the peace of New York and are likely to trouble it again. Mussolini has systematically bestowed honors and favors upon New York officials. Walker is his bosom friend. This makes it important to know where the Major stands."

URGES INVESTIGATION OF FOOD CORPORATIONS

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—Opposition to lifting the consent decree which prohibited the packers from handling and selling food products is offered by the National Cooperative Milk Producers in a statement made public tonight by Secretary of Agriculture Hyde.

The organization says it objects to any modification of the decree at this time, and believes there should be no action taken until an exhaustive investigation of the fundamental factors of the problem of distribution is made by the government.

The statement says further that, despite the report that concerns other than the defendants in the consent decree are following practices prevented by the decree, an investigation should be made to determine whether these practices are advantageous to the public; and if so, then the Clayton act, which prohibits them, should be changed; but if not, the concerns violating this act should be prosecuted.

"If," the statement continues, "the consent decree does result in the defendants being placed in a position of competitive disadvantage, then some action should be taken that would place rival business concerns of the same type upon a competitive level.

"The interests of all the people require that commercial activities that are prejudicial to the public interest should be restrained, and by the same token commercial activities that will promote public interests should be encouraged.

"It is a matter of common knowledge that since the entry of the consent decree, and particularly within the last five years, there have appeared a few gigantic business combinations that to a material extent are monopolizing the business of collecting, processing and distributing the public's food."

Cooperative marketing associations are vitally interested in having the legal status of these large combinations clearly defined, says the statement, and therefore welcome an investigation and legal determination.

We showed our new Berg Hats to several experts and asked them to guess the price. Not one of them said less than seven dollars...some went as high as ten!

And these, remember, were experts...men who spend their lives buying and selling hats. You, the ultimate consumer, who know nothing about Belgian bunnies, the "feel" of felt, or the secrets of a flange, would surely guess at least as high.

As a matter of fact, Berg Five Dollar Hats are not like any other hats of their class...they are something brilliantly, shiningly new.

The brains behind them are the same that are responsible for the most expensive line of hats sold in the world today... the Hodshon-Berg factory in which they are made is a masterpiece of modern efficiency...they are five dollar hats manufactured with a forty dollar technique.

We'll tell you more about them later. Meantime get one on your head, and let us know what you think.

FINDS OLD 'LINCHPIN' OF THE 1850 TRAIL

MADE JOURNEY FROM IOWA

Vehicle, Still Sturdy and Usable, Will Be Preserved in Eugene (Ore.) Museum.

Special to The New York Times.

EUGENE, Ore., Sept. 15.—A genuine "linch-pin" wagon, one that crossed the plains in 1850, has been found by Cal M. Young of Eugene, and the vehicle, which is still sturdy and ready for use, will be preserved as a relic of early Oregon days. Mr. Young, who was chairman of the pioneer parade at the recent Eugene Sunset Trail pioneer celebration, is the son of a Lane County pioneer and an authority on pioneer lore.

The wagon was found on the old Love place near Wilbur, and was given to Mr. Young by Rodney Easley.

The wagon was driven across the plains by Dr. Calvin C. Reed, who left Jones County, Iowa, in 1850. He settled near Wilbur and built the first grist mill in the North Umpqua region. One of his daughters, now Mrs. W. G. Hill, was born in the wagon train which came from Iowa, when it reached Mount Hood on Oct. 2, 1850.

The wagon now has an ordinary bed, which replaced the old "prairie schooner" of plains days. This wagon, or one of the others in the train that crossed in 1850, was fitted up with a boat for a bed, which was used in fording streams. Mr. Young plans to replace the present bed with a boat and will make over the vehicle so that it will appear as it did in pioneer days.

The wagon derives its name, "linchpin" from the fact that wheels are fastened to the axles by steel pins set outside the hub, in place of the more modern locknuts.

When displaying the wagon Mr. Young hooks up a team of oxen which he himself has broken to drive.

The wagon will be kept at the Young place, one of Oregon's pioneer farms, until a museum is erected in Eugene to house this and other pioneer-day relics.

SEVEN MEN ACCUSED IN GASTONIA KILLING

Every one in the truck at the time Mrs. Wiggins was slain gave his version of the raid. They ranged from youths to elderly men and one was a sullen-faced little girl of 17 who testified that she was married, but that "my husband is in the penitentiary for stealing."

The men arrested this afternoon were identified by several of the witnesses, but the majority appeared afraid to admit that they recognized any one at the scene of the shooting.

Charlie Shope, a weazened-face, blue-eyed little mountaineer, told the most connected story of the shooting. He took the stand in his shirt sleeves. There were blood stains on his shirt and trousers for "Miss Ella May," as he called the slain woman, had fallen into his arms, crying, "Lord-a-mercy, they done shot and killed me!"

"I heard it discussed at Bessemer City Friday night at a union meeting," testified Shope, "that there was a-going to be a big meeting Saturday at Gastonia. We all 'lowed we'd go down there this Saturday and we-all went.

"I 'lowed to hear one of the organizer fellows and I reckon the rest of the twenty-two folks in that truck went for the same reason."

Tells of Pursuit, Attack and Killing.

"Well, Mr. A. W. Williams—he's our organizer—had been a-telling us a lot about what might happen, but we warn't honing for trouble," he continued.

"They said if the law don't protect you, protect yourself, but I warn't prepared for fighting. Nobody in the truck had any guns.

"We got to Gastonia and the mob in automobiles turned us back. They hollered, 'Git going and we headed for Bessemer City. Then they came a-chasing us and pestering us with cussings.

"'You fellers are going to get shot up,' one of them hollered. To tell you the darned truth I never believed it then.

"Well, sir, we got 'bout five miles away and was a-hitting it up. Mrs. Wiggins and Mary Goldsmith was a-standing by me in the truck. About right then a Essex car came a-whizzing past us and stopped right in front.

"We couldn't stop, so hit it smack in the rear. Then, bang went a gun. Mrs. Wiggins shouted, 'Lord 'a' mercy, they done shot and killed me!' I caught her and Roy Carpenter helped me hold her up.

"I warn't much skeered till I looked out in the field and saw a gang of men with rifles and shotguns shooting every which-away. Some of the boys started running across the cotton patch and the men was a-gunning for them. I reckon there must ha' been forty or fifty shots fired.

"After we got Mrs. Wiggins in a house across the road I got going home."

Mill Official Backs Strikers' Story.

The only eye witness not directly involved to take the stand was G. R. Spencer, general manager of the American Mills at Bessemer City, which also had much strike trouble during the past five months.

Mr. Spencer testified he was passing at about the time the truck was halted by a collision, that he saw three or four men engaged in shooting pump guns at other men who were fleeing through a cotton patch.

Being himself a member of what the Communists call the "boss class," Mr. Spencer, in his testimony, went far to discount the testimony of the Loray employes who testified that there were no guns and that there was no shooting.

Witness Names Three As in Mob.

W. O. Bradley, a Gastonia Communist sympathizer, who "hopped the truck when the mob turned it back," gave the most damaging testimony. He knew the folks "in the mob" and did not appear afraid to name them.

"There was a feller named Jack Carver who drove up in a car with L. M. Sossoman of the Loray Mill," he testified. "They was there when the shooting was going on. Mr. Sossoman said, 'All right, now boys. Don't shoot no more.'

"Then I saw Morrow in a car with a shotgun. (Morrow was called into the courtroom and identified). I saw him again on the left side of the road in the field holding a gun."

Morrow took the stand and testified that he was accompanied by Simms, David and Jones in the automobile which was in collision with the truck. He denied that they were chasing the strikers and insisted that they were headed for Jenk's Lake, a fishing resort, for a week-end party.

Morrow and his companions testified that they did not have anything to do with the mob, did not hear any shots and did not know Mrs. Wiggins or any one else "had been hurt" until late Saturday night.

Charge Manoeuvre for Crash.

At the scene of the murder, according to the union witnesses, Morrow's car and other cars drove around in front of the truck and blocked it, causing a collision that wrecked Morrow's car and ran the truck off the road. Immediately the mob, riding in about fifteen cars, opened fire, the first shot killing Mrs. Wiggins.

George Lingerfelt, driver of the truck, was one of these witnesses. He is a shell-shocked and gassed war veteran, who is not a member of the union or of the International Labor Defense.

The unionists had asked to hire his truck, he said, and added: "I am in that business and thought I ought to give service." Lingerfelt said that Morrow, in his automobile, deliberately blocked his truck and caused the wreck. "Then they started shooting," he declared.

Solicitor Carpenter explained that Lingerfelt was held because he "was the driver of the other car" in the wreck preceding the shooting. Four doctors testified that Mrs. Wiggins died of a gunshot wound, not from the wreck, and there was no evidence to the effect that Lingerfelt had a gun.

Scene Shifts Today to Charlotte.

To-morrow the scene of the North Carolina textile workers' struggle moves back to Charlotte, where the courts are endeavoring to untangle the results of previous battles between the Communists, the police and the anti-Communist mobs, as well as to prepare for the retrial of the sixteen strike leaders and Communists on the charge of murdering Chief of Police Aderholt of Gastonia.

Several witnesses still are to be heard in the investigation of the activities of last Monday's mob which flogged Ben Wells, the British Communist organizer, and kidnapped two of his companions. The hearing is being conducted by Judge Thomas J. Shaw.

Eight men accused of a plot to overthrow the State government will go on trial tomorrow morning in the City Recorder's Court.

PICTURES A STRIKE "TERROR."

Engdahl Sees Endeavor to Intimidate Gastonia Trial's Witnesses.

J. Louis Engdahl, national secretary of the International Labor Defense, yesterday issued a statement on the Gastonia strike situation in which he said:

"The events of Gastonia, the brutal killing of the widow, Mrs. Ella May Wiggins; the absolute Fascist reign of terror, prove our contention that the mill owners, the police and authorities are working hand in hand to terrorize the workers and union organizers, to intimidate the witnesses for the defense in the trial of the sixteen strikers that reopens Sept. 30 in Charlotte, N. C.

"They also wish to destroy the foothold the National Textile Workers' Union has gained in the South; but despite this terrorization, this unparalleled rule of brutality, the union and the International Labor Defense will continue to help the Southern workers to get an increase in the wage scale, to obtain a reduction in the general sixty-hour week and for general better livable conditions."

Mob Victim Had Been in New York.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Sept. 16 (AP).—Following announcement of the plans of the International Labor Defense for a mass funeral Tuesday for Mrs. Ella May Wiggins, victim of a Gastonia mob, it was stated that the union headquarters in Bessemer City and the dead woman's home would be draped in black late today and that a sign was to be placed on the house reading:

"Ella May, slaughtered by the bosses' black hundred, martyr to the cause of organized labor."

Mrs. Wiggins was separated from her husband and had been going under her maiden name, Ella May. Under the name Ella May she was one of a party of strikers who went to New York and other cities in the North and East on a tour designed to raise funds for the strikers.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 15.—Investigation in an effort to find the sources of bogus tax receipts believed to have been manufactured for election purposes was under way here today. The receipts will enable floaters and repeaters to cast their ballots Tuesday for Mayoralty candidates in the most vigorously contested primary election ever known in this city.

Chief Murren of the county detectives and several of his staff, with Registration Commissioner James Kirk and Kirk's counsel, Thomas Kilgalin, warned registrars to watch for the receipts.

Otherwise, the final registration day passed quietly. A hundred sheriff's deputies were on guard at the registration booths and the police had been warned to be on the alert. About 118,000 voters have registered in the last two days.

HAS CLUE IN TEXAS SLAYING

Wife of Prosecutor Says She Knows Who Killed Him.

BORGER, Texas, Sept. 15 (AP).—Texas rangers investigating the slaying from ambush late last week of District Attorney John A. Holmes said tonight they expect to make an arrest as the result of a statement made by Mrs. Holmes that she believed she knew who killed her husband.

Investigators today veered from the theory of yesterday that a deathbed statement, made by Roy Harmon, who was fatally wounded in an alleged bank hold-up attempt, missing from the district attorney's office, might be connected with the killing of Holmes.

It was revealed today that Holmes was to have appeared Monday in court against fourteen Borger men and women arrested on liquor charges in a round-up made by rangers here in July.

Seized as a Gem Robber.

Charles H. Hall, 24 years old, was arrested yesterday and charged with stealing jewelry valued at $7,000 from the apartment of Mrs. Rose Weinberg at 221 West Eighty-second Street. The police said they recovered $1,000 worth of the stolen jewelry in his room. Moe Levy, 34, of 240 West 100th Street, also was arrested accused of conspiring to conceal part of the loot.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—A survey made by the United States Bureau of Education and made public today shows that there are fifteen separate and independent boards and foundations dispensing funds for the promotion of education in the United States in addition to the regular Federal and State school boards.

The General Education Board, from its foundation in 1902 to June 30, 1928, appropriated $17,487,062.74. Of this sum $12,462,000 represents appropriations from the principal and $5,025,062.74 from income.

The Rockefeller Foundation for 1927 disbursed from income and capital for medical education alone $4,097,343. The Laura Spelman Rockefeller Memorial during 1928 appropriated $38,082,058.34 for educational, scientific and charitable purposes and contingencies. On Jan. 3, 1929, the Laura Spelman Rockefeller Memorial was consolidated with the Rockefeller Foundation.

Outlay of Carnegie Endowments.

The Carnegie Corporation of New York authorized appropriations of $2,041,250 for the fiscal year for library service, adult education, the arts, educational studies, research, publications and general interests.

The Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching in the year ended June 30, 1927, appropriated $2,685,025.26 for retiring allowances and pensions in institutions and for individuals, for pension studies, administration and publications, and $1,501,349.35 for studies of legal and dental education, graduate instruction, other studies and college athletics.

BURNED OIL PLANT GUARDED

A fire guard remained on duty all yesterday at Linden, N. J., as a precaution against possible rekindling of the blaze which wiped out most of the Swan & Finch Company's oil plant there on Saturday night. A high wind off Staten Island Sound played on the ruins all day, but when they had almost ceased smoldering at sunset the guard was withdrawn.

The loss caused by the fire, which started when a flaming oil barge drifted against the Swan & Finch Company's piers, was estimated yesterday as $905,000 by officers of the Linden Fire Department. This included about $5,000 damage to the Standard Oil Company's docks, pumping stations and pipe lines. Slight damage was reported by the Grasselli Chemical Company, its pier having been fouled by the flaming barge.

WICHITA, Kan., Sept. 15 (AP).—Three persons were killed and a fourth was injured critically early today when their motor car plunged over an 18-foot embankment, seven miles south of Wichita.

Miss DOROTHY BALLARD, 17.

Remer, the driver, had released the steering wheel for a few seconds to assist Miss Barnett, his fiancée, to put on her coat, and the car left the roadway.

The four had attended a dance. Relatives said Miss Barnett and Remer had quarreled and that last night's meeting was their first since they had become reconciled.

VOIDS $25,000 VERDICT.

SALEM, N. Y., Sept. 15.—A verdict of $25,000 in favor of the plaintiff has been set aside by Justice John C. Crapser of Massena, in the case of Mrs. Etta M. Krause of Buskirk, administratrix of the estate of Rudolph G. Krause, against the Delaware and Hudson Company and the Boston & Maine Railroad. The decision nullifies the sealed verdict returned by a jury in the Supreme Court at Salem.

The verdict was set aside by the justice on a motion by Judge James McPhillips, attorney for the defendants, on the grounds that it was contrary to law and against the weight of evidence.

Mrs. Krause's action against the railroad companies was for damages of $75,000 for the death of her husband, who was killed April 10, 1928, when the automobile in which he was riding was struck by a train at the Buskirk railroad crossing.

Witnesses for the plaintiff testified that Krause was driving his automobile over the crossing at a speed of ten miles an hour when the accident occurred, that he looked to his left and right before crossing the tracks and that the engineer of the train gave no signal to warn motorists.

SALLES NEW FLEETWOODS

With the advent of these three superb lines of new Cadillacs, La Salles and Fleetwoods in a lower and wider price range, the doors automatically open to admit thousands of new owners to the Cadillac family.

In plain and easily verified terms of value, these resplendent new models make an irresistible investment appeal.

The market has never known cars as highly perfected or as complete in every major and minor detail. So, too, on a price comparison basis, the market has never offered so large a measure of in-built worth.

Carrying with them more strongly than ever the class distinction which has always made Cadillac so desirable, these three new groups reach out and take over by right of conquest in value-giving what can almost be called a universal quality market.

It is important to realize how this new distinction has been won. Cadillac has never built to price, realizing that such a policy leads inevitably to elimination from the high quality field. Rather, the highest quality has been sought first, while price-value has been reached through volume and superior resources. Uniqueness of quality-value has thus been achieved and is now more startling than it has ever been in Cadillac's history.

How true this is becomes evident as soon as you become personally familiar with these three new lines and then look about for purposes of comparison.

So sharp and striking is the advantage in favor of Cadillac, La Salle and Fleetwood in the performance, appearance and price alignment of this greatest of all Cadillac programs, that it amounts to the creation of a new Cadillac business and a new and vastly greater Cadillac public.

Cadillac, the world's quality standard, becomes also the price and value standard of the world by which all other car values must come to be judged.

Expressed in the fewest possible words with a full sense of their weight and importance, Cadillac promises in these three groups the greatest chassis value, the greatest body value, and the greatest gross and net monetary value known to the motor industry of the world today.

The first promise of greater chassis value can quickly be demonstrated by description, examination and part-and-quality comparison with the world's costliest cars.

It can be proved likewise by performance demonstration—revealing measures of power, speed and acceleration, transmission ease, braking certainty and riding luxury which even Cadillac-La Salle-Fleetwood have not attained before.

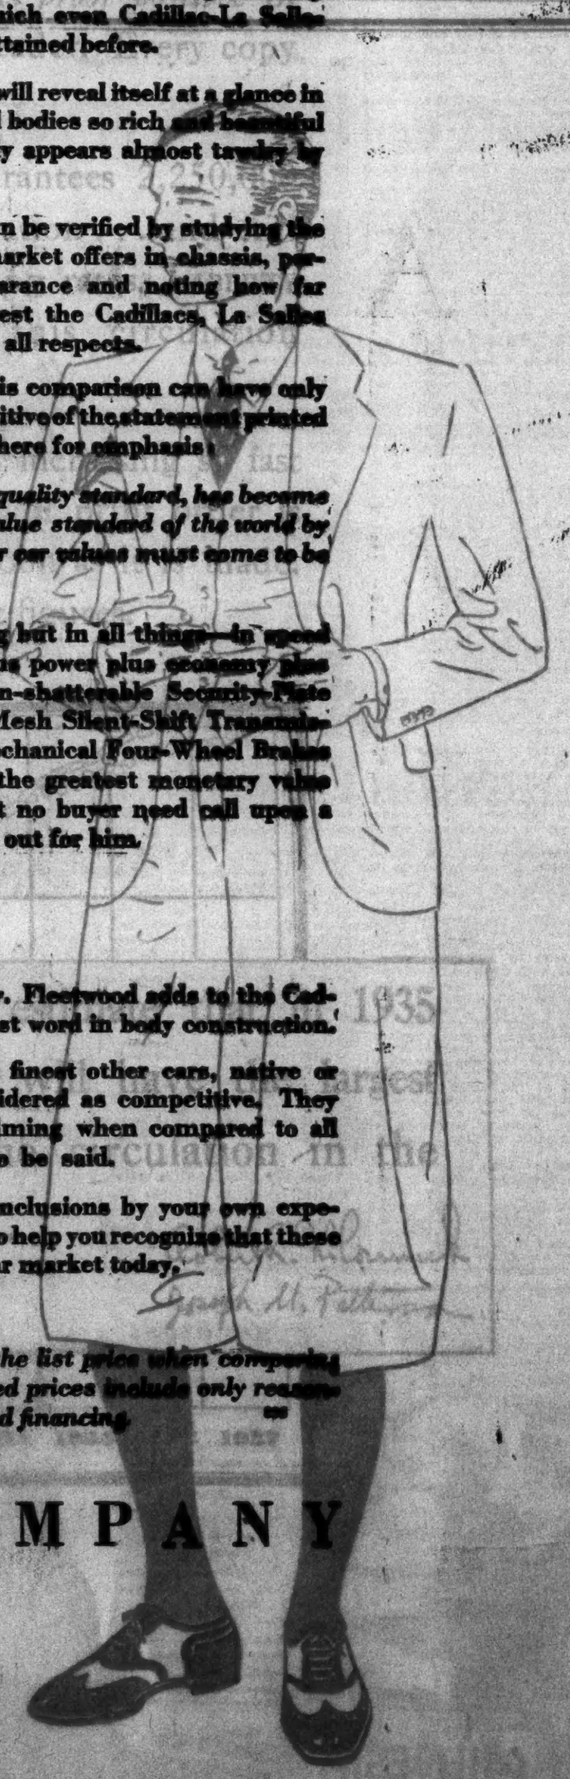
The second promise will reveal itself at a glance in Fisher and Fleetwood bodies so rich and beautiful that the average body appears almost tawdry by comparison.

The third promise can be verified by studying the very best that the market offers in chassis, performance and appearance and noting how far beyond this other best the Cadillacs, La Salles and Fleetwoods go in all respects.

A summing up of this comparison can have only one result—proof positive of the statement printed above and reprinted here for emphasis:

Cadillac, the world's quality standard, has become also the price and value standard of the world by which all other motor car values must come to be judged.

Not in any one thing but in all things—in speed plus acceleration plus power plus economy plus appearance plus non-shatterable Security-Plate Glass plus Syncro-Mesh Silent-Shift Transmission plus Safety-Mechanical Four-Wheel Brakes—so unmistakably the greatest monetary value of the industry that no buyer need call upon a salesman to point it out for him.



Year after year Cadillac has put back into Cadillac, La Salle and Fleetwood more and more of skilled engineering, smooth liquid performance and richness of body design and decoration. These steadily growing values any eye could measure, any owner experience.

Under this exclusive Cadillac policy of holding its great clientele by steadily giving more instead of less, Cadillac sales volume has also steadily increased. In this, the 28th year of its history, this Cadillac process of creating greater price-value by commanding volume through greater intrinsic value reaches its climax.

The fruit of 28 years of keeping faith is this—that the Cadillac clientele is extended now from a special market into a semi-universal quality market in price as well as in plain unmistakable superiority.

Both Cadillac and La Salle have larger engines, more power, more speed, even finer acceleration. La Salle has graduated from its original compact type into Cadillac size, richness and surpassing beauty. Fleetwood adds to the Cadillac chassis the crowning touch of the very last word in body construction.

The three groups reach up and surpass the finest other cars, native or foreign, which might even remotely be considered as competitive. They offer a contrast of value-giving so overwhelming when compared to all other cars that little or nothing remains to be said.

Make your own inspection and test these conclusions by your own experience. We repeat, you will need no salesman to help you recognize that these are the greatest values in the entire motor-car market today.

. . . Consider the delivered price as well as the list price when comparing automobile values. Cadillac-La Salle delivered prices include only reasonable charges for delivery and financing.

PERPETUAL TRUSTS FOR CHARITY UPHELD

COLLEGE DRIVES ASSAILED

Covering a variety of educational problems in the twenty-third annual report of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching, which was made public yesterday, Dr. Henry Smith Pritchett, president of the foundation, defends permanent charitable trusts against their critics but says it is possible that national or State governments will exercise a control over them.

"It may be true that $100,000,000 can be distributed more wisely and can serve a larger purpose if completely distributed in a limited period of time rather than if it be constituted a perpetual endowment for the benefit of many generations," Dr. Pritchett writes, expressing the argument of some modern philanthropists, "but there is no way of proving it."

Dr. Pritchett also condemns the constant public appeals for funds by struggling colleges, presenting data on professors' salaries and lauds the report of Controller Charles W. Berry's municipal pension commission as offering a plan to bring "order out of the pension chaos from which the city of New York is suffering."

$17,371,900 Paid in Pensions.

Dr. Pritchett also discloses that the Carnegie Foundation, during the twenty-three years of its activity, has paid out in retiring allowances to professors and in pensions to their widows $17,371,900, a sum which is more than $1,000,000 greater than its permanent endowment. Besides its general endowment, the organization has other resources which bring its funds to $31,594,000. The average retiring allowance has risen from $2,126 in 1920 to $2,287, and the annual expenditure of the foundation for teachers and their widows in associated institutions alone is $1,314,000.

Recognizing the criticism of the growing number of huge endowments, Dr. Pritchett writes:

"The charitable foundations constituted in the United States in the past two or three decades are not open to the objections made against older foundations in England. They have been established in nearly every case to meet definite needs and stated causes. They are invariably creatures of the law and incorporated under definite charters either by the Congress of the United States or by the Legislature of some State. They have universally adopted a policy of frank publicity with respect to the disposition of their funds.

"Finally they differ sharply from the older charitable foundations in the fact that the founders of such trusts have called to their governing boards men only of ability and character, whose concern in the administration of the trust is disinterested. In other words, those who have created the great charitable endowments in our country have taken all the precautions which experience could suggest to avoid the objections anticipated by the older economists and to meet such complaints as arose against the older charitable trusts of European countries. Their future usefulness and the attitude of the public toward them will depend on the wisdom, the sense of public needs and the disinterested spirit in which the noble purposes of their founders are translated into the service of each generation."

Government Control Possible.

He adds that it is "altogether probable that the charitable trusts in the United States will, as time goes on, come under a sharper public scrutiny and perhaps under the control of the national or of State governments."

From a study of ninety large and small American universities and colleges Dr. Pritchett presents figures to show that professors are paid much better in institutions which have enrolments of more than one thousand students each. In these the highest maximum salary of a full professor is $12,000, the lowest $3,000, the median $6,000 and the average $6,315. In the smaller colleges the highest maximum is $6,000, the lowest $1,800, the median $3,700 and the average $3,840.

"It is undoubtedly difficult," Dr. Pritchett writes, "out of a salary of $3,700 for a professor with a family to provide himself and them with more than the necessities of life, give to his children the education that he himself has received and purchase protection for his own old age and for his family in case of his death."

Suggesting that the colleges pay adequate salaries instead of seeking to carry an overloaded program, he asks relief for the public from constant solicitation of funds by college officers and their paid professional agencies. He writes:

"The solicitation of funds for colleges through appeals in the mail is certainly questionable when addressed to those who know nothing whatsoever of the work of the institution. To search the directory of a distant city and bombard its better-known citizens with urgent applications in behalf of an unknown college in a distant part of the country can add nothing to the reputation of an institution. When a generous-minded man in San Francisco receives a letter from the head of a small college on the Atlantic seaboard assuring him that its work is national in scope and therefore he should be glad to send at once $100 to its treasurer, he is not likely to be deeply impressed with the dignity and sincerity of higher education. When he feels unable to reply and in the course of two weeks gets a follow-up letter chiding him for his failure to support a great public cause, he is likely to entertain further doubt. The man in New York or Boston who has a similar experience is likewise puzzled as to what the standards of higher education may be.

"Thoughtful men acquainted with the present situation, while giving full credit to the faith and good intentions of those who conduct struggling colleges, realize that the endeavor to support large expectations by constant appeals to the general public will not be permanently a feasible policy."

Longevity of Retired Teachers.

An interesting observation in the report is that a study of the completed lives of 385 teachers who have been in receipt of retiring allowances shows that college professors, especially those who have lived in relatively small and quiet communities, tend to live much longer than the generality of men.

Outlining the municipal pension studies of the foundation, Dr. Pritchett endorses Controller Berry's proposals as "sound and practical," although they were attacked by many city employes. He says:

"The plan drafted by the Controller's committee possesses high value in two respects. First, it has served again to direct attention to a pension situation which in a comparatively short span of years will become intolerable; secondly, it has furnished to the pension commissions of other cities and to organizations concerned with the study of municipal retirement a document which in the future will take rank among the best plans for the retirement of municipal employes."

EMPLOYMENT GAIN SHOWN FOR AUGUST

General Increase of 1.1 Per Cent Reported, With Payroll Rise of 3.9 Per Cent Over July.

DECLINE IN RETAIL TRADE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—Employment increased 1.1 per cent in August as compared with July, while the payroll total advanced 3.9 per cent, the Department of Labor said today.

Industrial groups covered by the report showed a substantial gain in employment, these including manufacturing, mining, quarrying, public utilities, trade, hotels and canning. Retail trade failed to show a gain, employment in this group falling off fractionally.

The statement was based upon reports by 32,192 establishments having 5,103,131 employes during the month. Their combined payrolls in one week totaling $138,531,196.

Employment in manufacturing industries increased 0.4 per cent in August as compared with July, while payroll totals increased 4 per cent. August employment stood at a considerably higher level in 1929 than in any year since 1923, a year of great manufacturing activity, with one exception, August, 1926, when employment was on a par with 1929. Payroll totals in August, 1929, made a greater gain over July than in any year for which the bureau has records.

Decrease in Food Industries.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics' weighted index of employment in manufacturing industries for August, 1929, is 98.6, as compared with 98.2 for July, 1929, and 93.6 for August, 1928. The weighted index of payroll totals for August, 1929, is 102.1, as compared with 98.2 for July, 1929, and 94.2 for August, 1928.

The average for 1926 was 100.

The food group of industries as a whole showed slightly decreased employment in August. The textile group reported a slight increase, with woolen goods and women's clothing outstanding.

The iron and steel group fell off in employment, through a big drop in foundry and machine shop products and despite increases in the iron and steel industry and steam fittings and stoves.

Seasonal increases appeared in furniture, shoes, fertilizers, pottery, glass and wagons. The automobile industry showed a decline of 2.4 per cent in employment, but gained 18.2 per cent in payroll totals.

The prosperous condition of the machine tool industry is clearly shown by a drop in employment of only 1.5 per cent, in place of the usual August drop of from 5 to 11 per cent in previous years. Rayon employment was slightly up, while radio gained 18.6 per cent.

Gain in Manufacturing.

The level of employment in manufacturing industries in August, 1929, was 5.3 per cent higher than in August, 1928, and employes' earnings were 8.4 per cent greater.

The outstanding gains, in yearly comparison, were in machine tools, electrical machinery, and shipbuilding, and, in a less degree, petroleum refining, foundry and machine shop products, and agricultural implements.

The automobile industry in August, 1929, for the first time in twenty-one months showed a falling-off in employment, as compared with the same month of the preceding year.

The middle Atlantic geographic division showed the greatest gain in employment and the Pacific division the smallest gain.

Employment increases in August, 1929, as compared with July, were as follows: Anthracite mining, 9.5 per cent; bituminous mining, 1.7 per cent; metalliferous mining, 1.7 per cent; quarrying and non-metallic mining, 1.9 per cent; public utilities, 1.2 per cent; wholesale trade, 0.9 per cent; hotels, 1.5 per cent; canning, 45.7 per cent.

You'll be out-of-date within a year without an Eight

Why wait another year for an EIGHT?

Motor history repeats itself. You remember what happened to the Four in the medium and high priced fields.

The Six is now succumbing to a sweeping trend toward the Eight—the car of today and tomorrow. In 1923 only 10 per cent of all makes were Eights. This year 41 per cent are Eights.

Studebaker, foreseeing this trend, two years ago brought out an Eight to sell at moderate six cylinder cost.

Today Studebaker sells more Eights than any other automobile manufacturer—Eights that are champions through and through—that hold 11 world records and more American stock car records for speed and endurance than all other makes put together.

Extra gear shifting won't give a six-cylinder car the smoothness and flexibility of a Studebaker Straight Eight. Wealth of power, smoothness at all speeds, flashing acceleration—manifest and provable thrift—these qualities are found without compromise in a Studebaker Eight.

Today look over a smart new Studebaker Eight. Compare prices and features—and remember your new car will be worth more a year from now if you buy the car of tomorrow—a Studebaker Straight Eight!

WITH the current issue, LIBERTY'S print order is 2,350,000 copies. LIBERTY is now selling more magazines per issue through newsdealers than any other magazine in the world.

LIBERTY does not solicit subscriptions. It does solicit an interest through its editorial content that arouses a reading urge vital enough to propel the largest number of people to the newsdealers every week.

The Audit Bureau of Circulations distinguishes between "subscription" sale and "single" copy (newsdealer) sale because advertisers place a different valuation on each. Newsdealer sale is proof positive of an actively interested reader. Every copy is bought to be read.

For 1930 LIBERTY guarantees 2,250,000 average net paid circulation . . . and still no increase in advertising rates. LIBERTY has already reached this circulation figure.

LIBERTY'S circulation is increasing so fast that any announcement of print order is out of date almost as soon as it is made. Telephone for the latest figures.

CHRISTIANS APPEAL FOR PALESTINE FUND

FISH LAUDS ZIONIST WORK

An appeal to all Christians throughout the world to give substantial expression of their sympathy for the suffering Jews in the Holy Land by contributing at once to the Palestine Emergency Fund was contained in a resolution adopted last night at an assembly of Christians, both Catholic and Protestant, at the Madison Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church, Madison Avenue and Sixtieth Street, under the auspices of America's Good-Will Union.

"The human appeal, reinforced by the historic kinship between Judaism and Christianity and the fact that it is the Holy Land in which the suffering exists, makes it incumbent upon Christians to respond," said the resolution. The assembly affirmed its confidence in Great Britain and her purpose to carry out the Palestine mandate, and expressed the hope that some plan may be devised by which, through permanent progressive education in good-will, all elements of the population in Palestine may be brought together in mutual respect as "a model to all nations of good-will in action."

Among those taking part were Edward L. Hunt, founder of the Good Will Union; the Rev. Dr. Ralph W. Sockman, president of the New York Federation of Churches; the Rev. Samuel Cavert, a secretary of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America; Representative Hamilton Fish Jr., and Justice William T. Collins of the State Supreme Court. Rabbi Israel Goldstein of the Temple B'nai Jeshurun represented the Jewish community.

A few hours before this appeal was made, David A. Brown, chairman of the Palestine Emergency Fund, announced that $47,028 in amounts of $100 and more was added to the fund yesterday. This sent the total in the nineteen days of campaigning to $1,053,090.66.

The gathering at the Madison Avenue Methodist Church not only appealed for help in this emergency, but endorsed the work done by the Jewish people toward rebuilding Palestine as a homeland. The resolution referred to the approval which the Zionist movement already had received from the United States, and Representative Fish referred to it more at length in his address.

"For a long time I have been a convinced Zionist," said Mr. Fish, "but never more convinced or more firm in my belief than since the cold-blooded murder of more than 100 defenseless Jews in Palestine, which has aroused both Christian and Jew alike to protest and denounce this offense against civilization.

"The result of the massacre has not been to crush the Jews or the cause of Zionism in America, but to unite them and make them more determined to help the pioneers among their co-religionists in Palestine. The history of the Jewish race during the past 1,900 years demonstrates clearly that it has never been crushed by cruelty or contempt or by unequal laws or illegal oppression."

He termed the Arab uprising "not warfare, but murder, planned and organized."

Stating briefly that the sympathy of American Christians for the suffering Jews in Palestine has already been expressed in a practical manner by the appeal of the Federal Council of Churches for contributions to the emergency fund, Mr. Cavert turned his attention to the accomplishment of the Jews in Palestine.

"The recent history of Palestine is one of new roads, new schools, better water supplies, the planting of forests and the increased productivity of the soil," he said. "All this is a clear gain, in which not merely the Jewish minority in Palestine but also the Arab majority can surely share."

Speakers Praise Marshall.

Several speakers paid tribute to Louis Marshall, Jewish leader, who died on Wednesday in Zurich, Switzerland. They termed him "one of America's mightiest foes of intolerance."

A message was read from Newton D. Baker, former Secretary of War, in which he said that the memories of those who fell before the Arab uprising "deserve to be honored throughout the world."

Rabbi Goldstein, the only Jew taking part, expressed the appreciation of his people, saying that because of the attitude of the Christian world thus expressed, the Jews would be reassured. Tens of thousands of new immigrants will be moving into Palestine as soon as peace and order are re-established, he predicted.

Plans for increasing the relief fund, and especially for formulating some method of rehabilitation, were among the problems taken up at a meeting of the executive board of the Zionist Organization of America yesterday afternoon at the Hotel Pennsylvania. Members of the committee who were in the Holy Land during the Arab attack described conditions there.

WISE HOLDS BRITISH GUILTY ON RIOTS

LIPSKY DEMANDS ACTION

Ousting of Luke and Keith-Roach Is Urged—2,000 Unable to Find Places in Town Hall.

Responsibility for the killing of Jews in the Palestine riots was placed upon the "non-cooperative Palestine Government" and the dismissal of H. C. Luke, former Acting High Commissioner, and Edward Keith-Roach, District Commissioner of Jerusalem, was demanded by speakers at a mass meeting held in Town Hall yesterday afternoon under the auspices of the Zionist Organization of America.

Tributes were paid to Louis Marshall, whose death was termed most untimely in view of the future facing the enlarged Jewish agency. Coupled with the condemnation of the British officials in Palestine were attacks on the Grand Mufti of Jerusalem and other Arab leaders alleged to have instigated the massacres.

Two thousand men and women crowded into the hall, some having waited from 10:30 o'clock until nearly 2 before the doors were opened. Three thousand were turned away after the police ordered the doors closed.

The speakers were Dr. Stephen S. Wise, Louis Lipsky, president of the Zoinist Organization of America; Felix M. Warburg, Judge William M. Lewis of Philadelphia, Morris Rothenberg, vice president of the Zionist Organization of America, and Judge Bernard Rosenblatt. Herman Bernstein was chairman.

The audience applauded the reading of a cablegram from Gershon Agronsky, a representative in Palestine of the Zionist Organization of America, who denied reports that Consul General Paul Knabenshue had not been helpful in the recent crisis. Mr. Gershon declared that the American Consul General did everything in his power to protect the 2,000 American nationals in Palestine.

Dr. Wise stirred the audience to applause when he announced his unreserved pledge to assist Dr. Chaim Weizmann, president of the World Zionist Organization, whose policy he has criticized in the past.

Dr. Wise declared that there were no "disorders" in Palestine, but only "attacks and assaults," made possible, "alas, by a negative, neutral, non-cooperative attitude of the British Government, which has been twisted and tortured by the Palestine Government into sanction and acquiescence in anything that the wrongful leaders, and only some leaders, of the Arabs have chosen to do."

Those who offended were not the Jews but the Arabs, according to Dr. Wise, particularly "his unholiness the Mufti of Jerusalem and also the Palestine Government, which was charged with the responsibility for life and property of the Jewish people.

"There has been decimation by Arabs," declared Dr. Wise. "The answer to Arab decimation is Jewish immigration. There must be no investigation by the Palestine Government. There must be an investigation of the Palestine Government."

Denies British Pay for Mandate.

He pointed out that the Palestinian mandate, contrary to editorials in the Rothmere press, "has not cost Great Britain one shilling," as Jews were paying year by year instalments of the Turkish war debt.

"We have an answer," Dr. Wise asserted, "to make to The Daily Mail and to The Daily Express: 'You say to England, "Give up the mandate." We answer, "You, England, dare not give up the mandate."'

"England made a covenant with the Jewish people, England made a covenant with the League of Nations, England made a covenant with honor itself when she took upon herself the mandate for Palestine. To abandon the mandate now would be fatal to the prestige of Great Britain. I would say to England if I could: 'An Arab Palestine is a threat to Great Britain and a menace to the world; a Jewish Palestine is an asset to Great Britain and a blessing to the world.'"

Mr. Lipsky held that the British Government was indirectly responsible for the trouble in Palestine. It was time, he said, for Great Britain, if she wished to say that the mandate meant a national home for the Jews, to "tell it to the Arabs, not to us." The Balfour declaration and the mandate, placed in the hands of Acting High Commissioner Luke, had been "crumpled and thrown aside," he said.

Mr. Lipsky asserted that weeks before the recent occurrences the British administrators in Palestine had had ample warning that trouble was brewing but they failed to act, promising that they were "taking the necessary steps." The murders, he said, marked an attack upon the mandatory government.

Mr. Rothenberg spoke of the constructive work of the Jews in Palestine and said that while the Zionist Organization had complained repeatedly about the lack of cooperation from the Palestine Administration no clamor was made for fear of creating animosities.

"But in the face of what has occurred," he added, "no mere reiteration on the part of the British Government of its intention to pursue the Home land policy provided in the mandate, though gratifying, can be sufficiently reassuring. The point has been reached when unmistakable action in that direction must follow declarations of intention. Silence now would be treason to the innocent blood which was shed in Palestine.

"These men in Palestine who have been known for years to be out of sympathy with our work no longer belong there and ways should be found to remove them. Keith-Roach has no business in Palestine. Former Acting Commissioner Luke has no place in the Palestine Administration. At the present time they should step aside. If they are found guiltless by the Commission of Inquiry the Jewish people will be glad to acknowledge the fact. But in the meantime they must not be allowed to taint the atmosphere of the investigation."

150,000 IN CALCUTTA ASSAIL IMPERIALISM

Watch Arrival of Body of Indian Who Died in Prison After 61-Day Hunger Strike.

CALCUTTA, India, Sept. 15 (AP).—A crowd estimated at 150,000 assembled tonight in the streets and on house tops in the vicinity of Howrah Station to witness the arrival of the body of Jatindranath Das, Das, one of sixteen persons arrested in the Lahore conspiracy case, died in Lahore prison yesterday after maintaining a hunger strike for sixty-one days.

Cries of "Down with imperialism!" and "Long live the revolution!" greeted the arrival of the train. The coffin was taken to the Town Hall, where it will lie in state until tomorrow.

Mayor Sen Gupta in an address at the Town Hall extolled the career of Das and ridiculed the position of Indians under the present regime. He said that although he was Mayor he was not permitted to hold public meetings in Calcutta, but that the time had come when persons ought to disobey and court charges of sedition by holding meetings in every park and village in Bengal whether they were prosecuted or not. This, he said, would make the path to home rule.

AUSTRALIAN LABOR HOPEFUL

LONDON, Sept. 15 (Canadian Press).—It is believed the Labor party will increase its Parliamentary strength in the Australian general elections to be held Oct. 12, according to a cable from Sydney published here today. New South Wales particularly is expected to return more Labor members.

"Labor is at a disadvantage," the report says in part, "in not having made sufficient preparation for the election, which it did not expect so soon. But for that it is compensated by the growth of dissatisfaction against the government owing to its financial policy.

"As in the general elections of 1910, 1913, 1914 and 1926, New South Wales will again be the pivotal State, and there are several doubtful seats.

"Over the whole Commonwealth it appears quite likely Labor will advance from its present strength of 31 to at least 35, but this estimate is made before the candidates are announced and may have to be modified by the events of the next few weeks."

JEWISH AGENCY PUTS AIMS BEFORE BRITAIN

PALESTINE BEACHES LIVELY

LONDON, Sept. 15.—A demand that the Jews of Palestine be allowed to enroll as special constables for self-defense is embodied in one resolution of the joint conference of the administrative committee of the Jewish Agency and the General Council of the Zionist Congress, which has been meeting in London for a week.

The Palestine administration is held squarely liable for compensating victims of Arab attacks, while the British Government is asked to place a substantial sum for relief at the Jewish Agency's disposal.

The recommendations made by the conference is regarded as the final definitive demands of world Jewry for meeting the present situation in Palestine.

The administrative committee was created by Louis Marshall before his death recently in Zurich, and the Jewish Agency is the most important of Jewish bodies legally recognized as having a mandate to act for the Jews. The general council gives the recommendations the added endorsement of the world Zionist movement.

Important Jewish leaders from every country on the European continent and from the United States participated in making the decisions.

Efforts for Order Recognized.

"The conference recognizes that the British Government is making every effort to stamp out disorder, but it is clear that in the present unsettled situation it is difficult for effective protection to be available at every threatened point," says the resolution. "It is therefore essential that the Jews be enabled to take part in their own self-defense. The Jewish agency consequently strongly urges the establishment of a legal method of forming for Jewish self-defense with Jewish volunteers to be enrolled forthwith under suitable control as special constables.

"Secondly, it is urgently necessary that adequate provision be made by the Palestine administration for the relief of Jewish sufferers. The Jewish agency, therefore, requests that the Palestine administration be instructed to place forthwith at the disposal of the Jewish agency in Palestine a substantial sum for purposes of immediate relief.

"Thirdly, the Jewish Agency also requests that arrangements be made for ascertaining and assessing the losses sustained by Jewish victims of the disturbances and for the payment of compensation, for which the Palestine Administration is clearly liable.

"Fourthly, the Jewish Agency requests his Majesty's government to authorize the early allotment to the agency of a substantial number of immigration certificates for new Jewish immigrants, it being understood that the agency will have at its disposal the necessary resources for dealing with such immigrants. The exact number of certificates required will be communicated to the British Government at an early date.

Thorough Inquiry Sought.

"Fifthly, the Jewish Agency takes it for granted that the scope of investigation to be made by the commission of inquiry will include the conduct of the Palestine Administration in dealing with the disturbances and with the events leading up to them."

There is a sixth resolution, which urges for the future more active cooperation on the part of the mandatory power in the establishment of a Jewish national home and announces to the government that the conference will submit a comprehensive statement of its views as to the future of the Palestine Administration.

A tragic coincidence was that Louis Marshall, who was mostly responsible for the formation of the administrative committee, did not participate in the deliberations and took no part in framing the demands. The news of the New York attorney's death arrived in the midst of the conference, but the delegates continued their talks and now feel that they have expressed the dead leader's wishes in the resolutions they adopted.

Bathers Swarm on Beaches.

JERUSALEM, Sept. 15 (AP).—Normal conditions have so far returned to Jerusalem that the curfew hour has been advanced from 9 to 10:30 P. M.

Allenby Road to Tel Aviv was choked today with the usual weekend promenade like old times. Many baby carriages were evident in the promenade, which stretches from Nachlad Benjamin to the sea. Bathers swarmed on the beach.

Only in conversation were the sanguinary riots between Arabs and Jews of the past few weeks recalled. The Zionist executive here is forming an advisory committee for reconstruction work. Harry Sacher has taken charge of the legal work in connection with presentation of reparation claims in Jewish cases before the Parliamentary Commission of Inquiry.

Salt Works Ask Special Guard.

JERUSALEM, Sept. 15 (Jewish Telegraphic Agency).—The reorganization of the military protection brought to Palestine by the British authorities after the outbreak of the Arab riots has created uneasiness in certain localities.

The military authorities declared that the detachments will, from now on, be centralized at a few points, patrolling the country in mobile units instead of permanent patrols. Particular uneasiness was felt at Athlit, where the Arab workers at the harbor excavations are in possession of explosive materials. The administration of the Athlit Salt Works asked for special guards. The special guard stationed at Beth Alpha was removed.

A report received here from Cairo states that a group of 200 prominent Egyptian Arabs are preparing to come to Palestine for the purpose of bringing about a reconciliation between the Jews and the Arabs. Among the Egyptian Arabs there is reported to be a growing feeling of dissatisfaction with the Grand Mufti of Jerusalem, who is said to be held responsible by the Egyptian leaders for the Palestine troubles. Dissatisfaction is also expressed by the Egyptians with the alleged failure of the Grand Mufti to fully account for funds raised there for the purpose of repairing the Mosque of Omar.

Section of Weekly Seized.

A Hebrew supplement to the Palestine Weekly, an English publication, was confiscated by the authorities today. The supplement contained an open letter to the High Commissioner by Ittamar Ben Avi, a Hebrew nationalist and co-editor of the Doar Ha'yom, the Hebrew Jerusalem daily which was suspended by the government, complaining against its suppression. It was reported that the Palestine authorities contemplate action against the writer.

The first claim for compensation for loss of life in the Arab riots was filed here today when Mendel Frauman of Chicago arrived here to ask damages for the death of his son, Harry, a student at the Hebron Yeshiva, who was killed in the massacre. The son, who was born in Hamilton, Ontario, was a British subject.

The correspondent of the Jewish Telegraphic Agency here learns that the Grand Mufti of Palestine applied for a visa to Syria the day before the riots took place in Jerusalem. The application of the Mufti was refused by the French Consulate here, owing to the Mufti's participation in inciting Syrian Moslems against the French.

GOVERNMENT MODIFIES JERUSALEM CURFEW

By JOSEPH M. LEVY.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

JERUSALEM, Sept. 15.—The long-awaited order has been issued which, though not entirely abolishing the curfew law in force for more than three weeks, extends the hour in which people may circulate in the streets until 9 P. M., beginning on Monday. The curfew regulation has proved a great hardship to many, but it has been one of the most effective means of making the general population realize the seriousness of the situation.

Palestine Jewry was highly indignant when it was learned yesterday morning that the only morning Hebrew daily, the popular Doar Hayom, had been suppressed by the government. The indignation grew even stronger, however, when the circumstances under which the suppression took place were made known.

Public sentiment in this affair is well expressed in an open letter addressed to the High Commissioner, Sir John Chancellor, published as a supplement to the Palestine Weekly, the country's only English weekly, by Ittamar Benavi, its editor. This is the second letter within the last two weeks which Mr. Benavi has addressed to the High Commissioner, the first having dealt with the complete suppression of all publications in Palestine, which lasted more than ten days when the uprising first began.

The present letter is entitled, "The Height of Barbarism." It brings to light alleged illegal methods employed by the Deputy District Commissioner in closing down the press of the Doar Hayom and arresting the editor without previous notice or warning for a poem which had appeared a week before.

The letter says in part:

"I admit that according to Ottoman law, which still prevails in this country, the Deputy District Commissioner has the right to suppress any paper for a certain period, or even forever, if, in his opinion, an article or news published therein is liable to incite the population, but this may be done only after the Deputy Commissioner has given due notice of intention to suppress and the reason therefor, also the time when the suppression will be effective. Furthermore, we recognize the right to arrest the responsible editor in the meantime.

"But for the commissioner at midnight to break into the pressroom where the Doar Hayom is printed, accompanied by troops and police; for the commissioner to dare, without giving previous notice, to upset type already in the press for next morning's paper because of the crime committed by the paper of publishing a certain poem eight days previously; for the commissioner to dare to stamp his feet on the type as he threw it to the floor and to order one of the editors who was present to carry the confiscated copies already printed to a motor truck outside and, when the latter refused to assume the rôle of porter for the commissioner, to dare to strike him on the arm and later imprison him; for the commissioner to dare to close the entire press, which prints other publications having no connection with Doar Hayom; for the commissioner to dare suddenly to cut off the livelihood of some forty families who have been depending on this press for the last ten years, are atrocities such as are unparalleled in the annals of any country, even in Czarist Russia or Turkey under Abdul Hamid.

"I am not the editor of Doar Hayom and I do not even share all its views, but I feel compelled in this second letter to your Excellency to protest against this new insult and discrimination against the Hebrew press at the hands of incompetent officials, especially in view of the fact that the Arab paper Falastin of Jaffa, in an article just published calls for 'the blood of the Jews and the cutting off of their tongues'; nevertheless the paper continues to appear unmolested.

"If Commissioner Keith-Roach does not know how to deal with the press and its editors, how can he be expected to know how to administer the city? Does not this affair explain largely the reason for the recent bloodshed, showing that these Sunderland officials completely lost their heads?

"I trust this insult to the Doar Hayom, which I am sure was committed without your Excellency's knowledge, will be the last barbaric act by Palestine officials."

Editor Benhurin, who was arrested by Commissioner Keith-Roach, was released after spending a night in jail. He is bringing suit against the Deputy Commissioner for assault and false imprisonment.

By WILLIAM E. BRANDT.

Saturday's elimination of the Yankees from the pennant race beyond the uttermost mathematical doubt had a surprising sequel of a 40,000 attendance at yesterday's double-header with Cleveland. This surprising mobilization of baseball watchers had a pair of shut-outs to watch, each team taking its turn at the whitewash bucket.

Tom Zachary held the Indians to four hits in the first game, winning, 1 to 0. In the second game the Yanks swung vainly for nine innings at the vigorous service of Willis Hudlin and made only three singles, while losing, 10-0.

Zachary had to be nearly perfect to keep his season's record from defeat and register his eleventh straight victory. His victory was essentially a personal triumph, for he alone of all the Yanks has been able to master the Indian hazard consistently this year.

Zachary Only Winning Pitcher.

The Yanks, yesterday's first game included, have beaten Cleveland only six times this year, and four times Zachary was the winning pitcher. Yesterday's was his second shut-out victory over the Indians, and in the four games he has allowed a total of just four runs. The solitary Yankee tally, the only New York run all afternoon, was unearned.

Zachary's opponent, Kenneth Holloway, the former Detroiter, held the Yanks to six hits, but two of them came in connection with Luke Sewell's wild throw in the third. After Combs and Lary were retired, Ruth tore a single past Hodapp. Then the Cleveland catcher, in trying to catch the Babe off first base, threw the ball nearly to the end of the right-field foul line.

Ruth thundered from first to third, whereupon Bill Dickey chose an elegant moment to crack out his only hit in his last twenty-two trips to the home plate. Ruth ambled home with the most important run all day.

Only One Close Call.

Zachary was a great southpaw at all points. The closest Cleveland came to scoring was in the second. A single and a pass came with two out. Luke Sewell fired a liner toward centre field, but Zachary managed to block it with his glove, pouncing on the ball and retiring the side by a throw to first.

Ruth has been a non-producer in the home-run industry in his last six games. Yesterday's only four-bagger was a beautiful drive into the bleachers in right-centre by Joe Hauser, chief cloutar for the Athletics until he fractured his kneecap in 1925.

Lew Fonseca, Cleveland's leading hitter, was bruised by a Sam Jones pitch in Washington the other day and could not take his regular post, although he acted as a pinch hitter in the first game. In his absence first base was tended brilliantly by Hauser.

The box scores:

TIGERS WIN, 16 TO 2, THEN TIE SENATORS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15. (AP).—Detroit and Washington battled eight innings to a 3-3 tie in the second game of a double-header today after the Tigers had won the first contest, 16 to 2. Marberry and Uhle were in fine form in the no-decision game which was halted by darkness. The Senators rallied and took the lead after Detroit had opened with a two-run attack, but the Tigers evened the count in the last inning.

In the opener the Tigers hammered three Washington pitchers for sixteen hits, including Hargrave's home run.

GIANTS BREAK EVEN WITH THE CARDINALS

RECRUIT WINS NIGHTCAP

Lindsey, in First Major League Start, Checks McGrawmen, Whose Rally in 8th Falls Short.

By JOHN DREBINGER.
Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 15.—The spirited dash of the Giants to snatch second place from the Pirates remained in a state of arrested motion today, when the young men of John McGraw were forced to share the honors of a double-header with the Cardinals. Wherefore they are still three full games behind Pittsburgh.

A masterful pitching performance by William Walker gave the Giants the first game, 4 to 0, but in the second encounter they allowed themselves to be tripped up by a mere stripling, James Lindsey by name, a rookie from Houston, who beat the Giants in his major league début, 6 to 4, in the presence of 16,000 eye-witnesses.

The Giants manhandled Lindsey roughly near the end, scoring all four of their runs in the eighth, but by that time the game had been irretrievably lost and Lindsey had just enough left to complete the distance.

Ball Bounces Beyond Fullis.

The Giants, in fact, had contrived to lose the game as early as the third, by which time the Cards had scored all of their six runs and had driven Larry Benton from the mound. A single by Orsatti, doubles by Frisch and Hafey and a homer by Andy High that bounced over Fullis's head in centre field gave the Cards four in the first, and to this they added two in the third on a trio of doubles by Hafey, High and Roettger.

After that Dutch Henry and Jack Scott pitched shut-out ball, but not until the eighth were the Giants able to pry Lindsey loose from any runs. Lindstrom, Terry and Hogan singled and Roush, pinch hitting, doubled to produce a cluster of four, but it was as far as the Giants were able to go.

Coming on top of his fine performance against the Pirates last week, Walker's work against the Cardinals in the opener was splendid.

Walker Master Throughout.

Bill was master of the situation throughout, held the defunct champions to six scattered hits and allowed only one man to reach third, while only one other got as far as second. In addition to this, his comrades started him off with a most heartening four-run rally in the opening inning, and that just made it a breeze.

Opposed to Walker was another left-hander, Al Grabowski, a rookie, who likewise did some very fine pitching, but not until he had managed to extract from his system a very bad first frame. He started by passing Fullis. Leach followed by beating an infield hit to Frisch. Lindstrom struck out, but Terry bounced a two-bagger off Andy High's shinbone, Jackson whisked a single to right and Hogan banged a robust double to left to round out a quartet of tallies.

Those four runs proved to be three more than Walker needed to win.

GLENS FALLS GOLF WILL START TODAY

By LINCOLN A. WERDEN.
Special to The New York Times.

GLENS FALLS, N. Y., Sept. 15.—With 106 golfers scheduled to tee off here tomorrow in the first Glens Falls open, the event bids fair to take its place as one of the leading tournaments of the season.

Harry Cooper, who lost to Tommy Armour in a play-off for the national open title in 1927; Bobby Cruickshank, who led the qualifiers in the metropolitan P. G. A. championship recently; Jim Barnes, Walter Kozak, the young metropolitan professional titleholder; Johnny Golden, Joe Turnesa, W. H. (Wiffy) Cox, Tony Manero, Gene Sarazen, Bill Mehlhorn, Billy Burke and Tom Creavy are among the entries.

Among the principal amateurs who will be on hand are H. Law Weatherwax Jr., the Albany youngster, and Jack Ryerson of Cooperstown, N. Y.

Hagen Unable to Compete.

Walter Hagen, however, and Horton Smith informed the committee tonight that they would not be able to compete.

Most of the professionals are expected to arrive here from New York tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock and the committee has planned to meet the group, which includes Cruickshank, Barnes and Kozak at Fort Edward, and drive them to the Glens Falls Club, so that they will not be late in starting.

Over the picturesque hilly course, which puts a premium on accurate driving and has enough rough to trouble those who wander off the fairway, a number of the stars played for the first time today.

Lord's 64 a Target.

Golden was three under 4's for the fifteen holes he went with Pat Doyle. Golden was putting well on the greens, which were in excellent condition. Cox and Cooper reported approximately 73's and there was a great deal of speculation as to how close the players during the thirty-six holes tomorrow and the concluding thirty-six holes on Tuesday will come to Ben Lord's course record of 64.

Lord, the home club professional, hit a few practice shots himself tonight and will be in the field tomorrow. All of the professionals praised the course at the conclusion of their rounds, reporting a good test of golf. None of them failed to enjoy the magnificent view of the surrounding country provided on the thirteenth tee, with the Green Mountains of Vermont in the distance.

Dempsey to Give Title Belt At His Chicago Tournament

Jack Dempsey plans to donate the heavyweight championship belt the late Tex Rickard presented to him as titleholder in a heavyweight championship tournament the former champion proposes for Chicago, where he is now engaged as promoter at the Coliseum.

This was the announcement of Dempsey yesterday when he arrived in this city for a visit of three or four days. The ex-champion said he plans his tournament for the next outdoor season in Chicago, but would not confirm reports that he intends to return to the ring.

NEW YORK HAKOAH BEATS RANGERS, 5-2

L. GRENFELD LEADS ATTACK

The New York Hakoah eleven turned back the I. R. T. Rangers, 5 to 2, and the New York Giants defeated Bethlehem, 2 to 0, in an Eastern Soccer League double-header at Starlight Park yesterday. About 5,000 fans attended.

The Rangers were no match for Hakoah, which led from start to finish. Three brilliant goals in succession by Leo Grenfeld enabled Hakoah to aggregate a score of 4 to 1 at half time.

McGivney cut down the margin midway in the second period, but Neufeld regained that marker for Hakoah by scoring a beautiful goal ten minutes from the end.

The Giants and Bethlehem staged one of their real thrillers. The victory was in a large measure due to the fine defensive game played by John Brown and Ted Glover and the brilliant exhibition of Phil Slone, who completely bottled up the steelworkers famous and dangerous left wing of Rollo and Purgavie.

At ten minutes O'Brien turned the ball into the net for the opening goal. From then until the interval the play was fast and furious, but the Giants managed to hold their slim lead. Davie Brown broke away on the left in the second half and beat Beveridge with a lightning grounder to make the score 2 to 0.

NATIONALS DEFEAT BROOKLYN HAKOAH

The New York Nationals defeated the Brooklyn Hakoah eleven, 5 to 1, in an American League soccer game at Hawthorne Field, Brooklyn, before 2,000 fans yesterday. The contest followed another American League game played between the Brooklyn Wanderers and Philadelphia, which resulted in a scoreless tie.

By half time the Polo Grounders were leading by 3 to 1. The losers made a strong bid to come back in the second period but to no purpose, for the visitors not only kept their own defense intact but added two more goals to their tally sheet. In corners Hakoah led by 3 to 2 in the first half, but in the second each side had 3.

Leonard scored three goals for the Nationals while the other tallies were made by Gallagher and Donald. The lone point for Hakoah was registered by Schneider.

The encounter of the Wanderers and Philadelphia saw the honors distinctly with the defense all the way through.

Philadelphia employed two substitutes, Wardrop replacing Stewart at outside left at half time. Half Back Daly of the visiting team met with an injury in the second half and O'Neill took his place.

Smith of Brooklyn gave a magnificent exhibition of goal keeping when a shot from Miller struck the crossbar and there were two rebounds for the goalie to take care of.

Golfers of the metropolitan district long have known Eddie Driggs Jr. as a player capable of prodigious feats when in the mood, and yesterday the Cherry Valley star upheld his reputation when he lowered a course record for the second successive day.

Playing with Bill Noon of the Crescent A. C. against Andy Burkard and Willie Klein in a feature match on the Wheatley Hills links at East Williston, L. I., Driggs stroked the difficult layout in 70, thus reducing by one stroke the former amateur course record held jointly by Burkard and R. D. Wrigley Jr. It was something of a coincidence that Burkard, joint holder of the former record, should be present to see the mark shattered.

Driggs's 70 was two strokes under par for Wheatley Hills. He and Noon won the match by 3 and 2.

On Saturday Driggs went around his home course in a sensational 66, which broke par by seven strokes and lowered his own record for the course which he had set on July 5, 1925, with a 67.

A. ROARK STARS ON ATTACK

By ROBERT F. KELLEY.

PORT WASHINGTON, L. I., Sept. 15.—For the last of the weekly games at the Sands Point Club the interesting team of young collegians, Old Aiken, rode out for eight periods against a Roslyn four which, with the recent increase in Aiken handicap ratings, was lower ranked as a team but never was confronted with great difficulty in defeating the Green and Gold of the Yale and Harvard players, 9 goals to 6.

Old Aiken used its regular line-up, which on Wednesday will oppose Sands Point at Meadow Brook in the remaining semi-final of the Monty Waterbury Memorial Cup tournament: E. T. Gerry, J. P. Mills, Stewart Iglehart and J. C. Rathborne.

Old Aiken Threatens at Close.

The game started slowly, but progressed at galloping speed for a good part of the closing periods, as the youngsters sought to catch Roslyn. Old Aiken threatened in the closing period until Cheever Cowdin finished things off with the final score of the game.

The same Cowdin, riding aggressively through the opening periods, came close to serious injury in the fourth when he slammed into Mills on the boards. His pony stumbled and went down. Cowdin rolled clear of danger and remained in the game despite bruises.

The first period was pretty slow, the only score being made by Phipps. Gerry evened matters at the start of the second period, but Phipps got away to another and Roark, with a long blow that traveled almost seventy yards, made it 3 to 1. Roslyn continued to add to its lead in the third, when Cowdin and Phipps scored in rapid succession and Roark had another long goal that went even further than the first.

A long goal by Mills preceded Cowdin's fall in the fourth and was the only score of that session.

Roark Scores for Roslyn.

Old Aiken began fighting harder with the second half, and play increased in pace. Roark added another to the Roslyn score, but Gerry and Mills both came through before the period ended.

Old Aiken could not score in the next period, though, and the elder Hopping registered another score for the winners. In the seventh Old Aiken began the pursuit in earnest, riding hard and passing well, and Gerry and Mills both counted.

At the start of the eighth, the same pair came close to two goals in a row, which would have tied the score, but just missed, and then Cowdin finished off the game with his last goal.

Roark and Cowdin were the most aggressive of the winning side, with Hopping hitting nicely at times and Phipps turning in some fine stroking when he was out in the clear.

The line-up:

THRILLING MOMENT IN POLO GAME AT GOVERNORS ISLAND YESTERDAY.

1ST DIVISION WINS CLOSE POLO GAME

LOSERS RALLY IN VAIN

General Ely and General Drum Among 5,000 Spectators Who Witness the Struggle.

The First Division polo team repulsed a strong closing rally staged by the Governors Island team and emerged victorious in a second round game of the military polo championship of the Second Corps Area at Governors Island yesterday. The visiting team remained in the tournament by scoring a 6-to-5 triumph.

A crowd of 5,000 persons, one of the largest of the season, witnessed the game, which was bitterly contested from the start. Major Gen. Hanson E. Ely, commander of the Second Corps Area, was a spectator, as was Brig. Gen. Hugh A. Drum, commanding officer of the First Division.

The First Division combination was first to score when Captain Keith Wise sent the ball through the Governors Island goal thirty seconds after the opening whistle. Colonel Willis Merris evened the count soon after when he scored for the home aggregation.

Visitors Take Lead.

In the second session each team scored once, but the First Division players rode into the lead in the third period, when they scored twice as against Governors Island's once.

The visiting team spurted in the fourth period and added two more goals to its score, meanwhile holding the Governors Island attack effectively in check. The latter team rallied in the fifth and outplayed the First Division representatives.

Fail to Tie Score.

Major Herman closed the gap for the home aggregation in this session by scoring a long goal. The final period saw the Governors Island players continue to force their rivals back, but they fell one goal short of tying before the game ended.

The line-up:

LONG ISLAND FOUR BEATS FT. HAMILTON

ATTENDANCE MARK BROKEN

Previous attendance records were smashed when 7,000 persons gathered at the Fort Hamilton Army Reservation yesterday afternoon to witness the Central Park four of Long Island defeat the First Division Reserves of Fort Hamilton, 4 to 3.

The teams played on even terms throughout. Robinson, at No. 1 for the visitors, scored the first goal in the opening period and after a scoreless second period, each team registered once, which still left the Central Park representatives ahead, 2 to 1.

In the fourth frame Robinson scored one of the most sensational goals of the match when he took the ball away from Lieutenant Stanley Megargee of the First Division, as he was about to score and hit it the length of the field in five strokes to score. A few minutes later Lieutenant Megargee in turn took the ball the length of the field to register.

Neither side was able to score in the fifth period, and in the sixth the home team tried vainly to gain the edge, each side scoring once.

THISBE FINISHES SECOND

OYSTER BAY, L. I., Sept. 15.—In a light, variable westerly air, Johnston De Forest's Priscilla defeated three American eight-meter sloops and Caryl, the Scottish victor in the Seawanhaka races of last week, in an invitation event off Oyster Bay today.

The race was held by the Seawanhaka Corinthian Yacht Club over a triangular course of seven and one-half miles. The yachts, which took the starboard tack in toward the Bayville beach, caught a stronger breeze shifting to the southward.

C. Sherman Hoyt, helmsman of the Caryl, took the port tack toward the centre of the Sound, only to encounter a drop in the wind, and the Scottish boat finished fifth.

Thisbe Home Second.

The Thisbe finished second, followed by the Muffet and the Marin.

There was no little surprise in the fact that Caryl, which won the Seawanhaka Cup by taking the last three races of the series after losing the first two, finished at the end of the fleet, but those in the race who knew the conditions so well realized that the Scottish eight-meter was badly handicapped in the light airs.

While Caryl performed well in the moderate breezes of the cup series, she was at her best when the going was the heaviest, and today, with practically no wind, she merely rolled in the placid waters. Mr. Hoyt, a noted skipper, tried his best to get some favorable slants of wind but was unable to do so. He also played in no little bad luck, for he always seemed to arrive at the place the wind had been just when it died down to a calm.

Happy Victory for Priscilla.

The victory for Priscilla was quite satisfactory to her owner as she was one of the leading boats which took part in the elimination trials prior to the international series for the right to represent this country in the defense of the cup.

15 SLOOPS ARE BECALMED

By SHANNON CORMACK.

RYE, N. Y., Sept. 15.—The eighth race for the Royal Bermuda Yacht Club's Cup in the Sound Interclub class was called off at the time limit of 7 o'clock this evening after sixteen sloops had vainly attempted to sail a leeward and windward course laid out for them by the regatta committee of the American Yacht Club.

The sloops floundered about the Sound for more than four hours and at the end of that time some of them had not reached even the turning mark.

The course was from Parsonage Point to Oak Neck and return, a distance of about nine and one-half nautical miles, and when the yachts were sent off at 2:55 there was a faint indication of a breeze from the northwest. What little wind there was shifted round all points of the compass but at no time was there sufficient to give the boats little more than steerage way.

Bob Goeller's Bobbill led the fleet round the turning mark, being followed by Gobi, sailed by William W. Swan with Commodore Austin Strong of the Nantucket Yacht Club as a member of his crew; Donald Cowl's Ermar and Gordon Raymond's Daphne, with the rest of the fleet trailing.

All failed in the attempt to get back to the finish line before the time limit and far into the night inter-club sloops were seen being towed back to their respective clubs.

After the inter-clubs started, three Atlantic Coast sloops raced over a four-mile course from Parsonage Point to Scotch Caps and return. The race was won by P. R. Mallory's Whoopee with R. H. Ardy's Dawnie II second and J. Starbuck's Janitra third.

VENICE, Sept. 15 (AP).—Major H. O. D. Segrave piloted his Miss England to victory in the final of the Count Volpi Trophy motorboat race today. Miss America V, Segrave's only rival, withdrew after the second lap. Miss England covered the six laps of thirty kilometers in 16 minutes 2 2-5 seconds.

Phil Wood and Orlin Johnson of Detroit, who were seriously injured when the champion speedboat, Miss America VII, was wrecked during the races yesterday, spent a fairly comfortable day, their physicians announced after examination this morning. A radioscopic examination of Wood, who was piloting the speed boat, did not disclose any internal injuries.

The two Americans were tossed high in the air when Miss America VII, traveling at 85 miles an hour, struck a wave created by Major Segrave's Miss England. Miss America VII was a complete wreck.

McCAULIFF LOSES IN UPSET

Seeded Player Defeated by Nannes, 4-6, 6-2, 7-5—Adelstein and Kuhn Also Advance.

ELMSFORD, N. Y., Sept. 15.—Herbert L. Bowman, first seeded player in the Hudson Valley tennis championship tourney, won his way into the fourth round today on the courts of the Fairview Country Club. Bowman, who did not play yesterday, was forced to meet three opponents in order to catch up with the rest of the field. Casper Nannes, Sidney Adelstein, the 1927 champion, and Ernest Kuhn also gained their fourth-round brackets.

In his first-round match in the morning Bowman struck unlooked-for opposition from Jack Morrison. Bowman led at 5-1 and 40-15, only to have Morrison rush into a 6-5 lead. Bowman pulled out the set and won the match at 8—6, 6—3.

Bowman's second-round opponent won only one game, and then he immediately took the court with A. Baisley Sheridan, a fellow New York A. C. clubmate, for his third match of the day. A two-hour struggle resulted, with Bowman finally winning at 11—9, 6—3.

Casper Nannes, former Rutgers University star, scored the first upset of the tournament by putting out one of the seeded players, Gene McCauliff, in a three-set match. The score was 4—6, 6—2, 7—5. After winning the first set, McCauliff let down and then could not regain his stride in time to avert defeat.

WILLS LOSES BOUT IN FIRST ON FOUL

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 15.—Harry Wills lost his ten-round bout today against Andres Castano, heavyweight champion of Mexico, through flooring the winner with a left hook to the jaw after the bell had sounded at the end of the first round.

There was quite an ugly scene at the big stadium when the decision was given against Wills, for all who saw the accident were convinced he had not heard the bell and, further, that Castanos was not so badly damaged as to prevent him from offering to continue the bout. When the crowd saw the match was over and there was no prospect of a continuance, Castanos was led from the ring to the accompaniment of a hail of cushions and numerous other, fortunately, light missiles, and police had to escort him to his dressing room. Wills publicly ridiculed the idea that his action was anything but accidental and he challenged Castanos to another fight. Opinion was general that another meeting will materialise between them.

Wills in Good Shape.

The preliminaries of the program, which were witnessed by close to 30,000 fans, were good and everything seemed set for a good fight between Wills and Castanos. Wills, the first to enter the ring, looked in excellent shape. Earlier in the afternoon he was chary about his chances, in view of the fact that his opponent was unknown to him. Castanos appeared overweight when he entered the ring.

The three minutes of fighting which was witnessed were largely made up of clinching. Wills, from the start, showed infinitely better ringwork. No damaging blow was struck by either man, however, until the fatal bell rang at the end of the first round. Entering the ring, Wills weighed 220 pounds, three more than his opponent.

Stribling in Next Bout.

Continuing the policy of educating Mexican fans to high-class fights, today's promoter announced that the winner of the star bout would meet Young Stribling here in the near future. It was also announced that Bert Colima, Mexican welterweight champion, would meet Joe Dundee, former world's champion, next month.

Today's gathering was a record for Mexican fistic shows. Wills's financial share was 25 per cent of the gross receipts and Castanos's 15.

Fink Loses on Foul.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 15 (AP).—Frankie Fink of the United States, sacrificed his Mexican featherweight championship by coming in overweight and then lost to Marciel Zavala of Mexico, on a foul in the sixth round of their ten-round bout today.

David Velasco, defending his Mexican welterweight championship, held Hilario Martinez of Spain to a draw in a furious ten-rounder. Ringside critics, however, believed Martinez had won easily. They gave the Spaniard seven rounds, Velasco two and called one even. Martinez floored his rival twice for no count.

CAPABLANCA DRAWS; HOLDS CHESS LEAD

RUBINSTEIN ALSO VICTOR

Can Tie for First Place if He Triumphs Today and Capablanca Loses His Match.

BUDAPEST, Sept. 15.—At the conclusion of the twelfth and semi-final round of the international chess masters tournament today, José R. Capablanca of Cuba still stood at the head of the list with totals of 9½—2½ to his credit, or one point better than the score of Rubinstein of Poland, who can only tie for first place in the event that he wins tomorrow and Capablanca loses. A draw in the final round with Dr. Vajda will assure first place to the Cuban.

Today Capablanca played a drawn game with Sir George Thomas of England, this being decided in the early session. Rubinstein, on the other hand, defeated Monticelli of Italy, thereby reducing Capablanca's lead by half a point. Dr. Tartakower of France, third in the race, was held to a draw by Colle of Belgium. Sir George Thomas is tied for fourth place with Dr. Vajda of Hungary, who today drew with Canal of Peru.

Przeplorka of Poland, by brilliant play, won from Professor Prokes of Czechoslovakia, and Steiner of Hungary worsted his fellow-countryman, Havasi. The game between Bosch of Czechoslovakia and Brinckmann of Germany was adjourned.

CAMPOLO BOUT POSTPONED.

A second postponement of the proposed Victorio Campolo-Phil Scott heavyweight bout, scheduled for Wednesday night at Ebbets Field, was announced yesterday by Promoter Humbert Fugazy. Fugazy said yesterday he now proposes to stage the match on Sept. 23 if the State Athletic Commission approves this plan and an amicable adjustment can be effected with the Dexter Park Arena, Brooklyn, which has signed Sid Terris to battle Al Bryant that night, the club's weekly date.

The promoter's explanation of this second postponement was that Campolo requested additional time in which to train.

Mead Pittsburgh Matchmaker.

Eddie Mead, manager of Joe Lynch when the retired west sider held the world's bantamweight championship, has been engaged as matchmaker at the Motor Square Gardens, Pittsburgh. He plans to inaugurate his career there with a card of ring battles Sept. 30, the principal attraction being a ten-round encounter between Armando Sheckles, the Belgian lightweight, and Tony Herrera, Chicagoan.

ALEKHINE UNFOLDS 5TH-GAME STRATEGY

This is the fourth of a series of articles for The New York Times by Dr. Alexandre Alekhine, world's chess champion, on the match in which he is defending his title against E. D. Bogoljubow of Russia.

By DR. ALEXANDRE ALEKHINE,
World's Chess Champion.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WIESBADEN, Sept. 15.—After having suffered defeat in the fourth game of my match with E. D. Bogoljubow, it was, of course, highly important that the fifth game should not terminate similarly, for while the loss of a single game can be ascribed by the victim more or less to circumstances, two successive defeats are likely to have a detrimental psychological effect in that a player may lose his self-confidence—a circumstance which might have a decisive bearing on the final outcome of the world's match.

Despite these considerations, I decided to adopt, in the fifth game's opening, the same active variation of the accepted queen's gambit that I had played in the third game in preference to choosing some placid opening which insured a draw.

Has a Definite Plan.

In this I was not influenced by the fact that the third game was won for me on the fifty-third move through the king taking the knight's pawn instead of bishop to rook five, but I wanted to effect a reinforcement in position which would only allow the black to obtain a simplification of position under highly unfavorable circumstances.

This departure—bishop to knight five on the seventh move—netted me an advantage in so far as my opponent, in the belief that he had safely negotiated the hidden reefs in the opening stages and arrived at an exchange of queens on the sixteenth move, found himself confronted by a difficult end-game problem in that he not only had to find a way of releasing his queen's bishop, whose isolation was the immediate purpose of my opening variation, but he was also compelled to find usable squares for his knight.

Solves the Problem.

As matters went, Bogoljubow succeeded in solving the problem fairly well, and despite a slight inferiority in his position he might have obtained a draw had he played pawn to queen's knight three on his twenty-third move, which meant the exchange of his only well-placed piece. The move he elected to make permitted me to form an accurately calculated combination which termin

Some 24,000 fans saw Chapman pass Georgetti at six miles to take the lead and stay there until the finish. Paced by Jimmy Hunter, Chapman went on to lap Georgetti and every one else in the race.

At the very start of the race Georgetti set sail at high speed and soon passed Chapman, but, a few minutes later, the 31-year-old Chapman came back to easily go around the present titleholder.

Spencer went to the front with two laps to go and stayed out there until a few lengths from the tape, when Walker shot by him to win by inches.

The attempt to smash the world's record of 40:28 3-5 for this distance, set by Freddie Spencer last August, proved fruitless, Walker's time being 50:48 3-5. Norman Hill, Willie Grimm, Harry Horan, Paul Croley, Reggie McNamara, Leroy Garrison and George Dempsey finished behind in order.

Sports of the Times

By JOHN KIERAN.

THE ball players seem to feel that Earnshaw is Connie Mack's best bet against the Cubs. He's a right-hander and all the Cub regulars except Butch Grimm swing from that side of the plate. The general impression is that the Cubs are rough on left-handers. They are. But there are left-handers and left-handers. Messrs. Grove and Walberg are not the ordinary type.

There is the further point that the Cubs didn't get where they are by whacking left-handers all over the lots. There aren't that many southpaw pitchers available as victims. McCarthy's men had to hammer a number of right-handers from time to time and they did it with avidity, not to speak of enthusiasm.

Early in the season Jack Hendricks of the Reds said impressively: "I don't know who'll win the pennant, but I know who won't, and that's the Cubs. Too much right-handed side-arm pitching in this league for them." Well, Jack was as far wrong about the Cubs as he was about the Reds. Right-handers hampered the Cubs early in the season, but when McCarthy got his catching situation straightened out and Rogers Hornsby tuned up his bludgeon, the Cubs didn't worry about any pitching except their own.

Fast Ball Flingers.

It's odd to find so much disagreement among the players on the subject of the speed of the Philadelphia pitchers. Some will tell you that Robert Mose Grove has as much steam as the eminent Rube Waddell, though few of them ever saw Rube Waddell. They simply take it for granted that no human could buss a ball in there any faster than Robert Mose does on occasions.

Others say that Rube Walberg can rip them over the plate and around the corners as fast as Grove and keep at it longer. Still others vote for George Earnshaw. These boys are fast, no doubt, but Guy Bush of the Cubs can get a ball up to the plate in less than half an hour and Perce Lay Malone was never publicly rebuked by an umpire for delaying the game with slow balls.

Waite Hoyt of the Yankees was once rated among the leading fast ball pitchers, but the ululating undertaker slipped from top form this season. Big Ed Morris of the Red Sox is entitled to a license as a fast ball pitcher and George Pipgras took out his first papers in that class two years ago.

Larry Benton is a fast ball pitcher whose speed didn't do him much good this year. It merely got the ball to the bat just that much faster. Dazzy Vance has had a sour season, too, but when fast ball pitchers are being nominated nobody can shove the old Dazzler out of the picture entirely.

Casual inquiry in big league dugouts led to the discovery that nobody could recall a similar big league outfield off-hand. There may have been another such outfield, but somebody will have to rack his memory to furnish the details or go digging in the records.

A Disappearing Tribe.

It was Ray Schalk who was watching batting practice at the Polo Grounds before the Giants went West and who remarked:

"You don't see any more turn-over hitters. Wonder what's become of them. The style must be going out."

Maybe so. The fate of nations doesn't hang on the matter of turn-over hitters, but it is odd, as Schalk remarked, that there are so few of them around these days. The Giants once had two famous turn-over hitters in Frank Frisch and Dave Bancroft. They still have Carl Hubbell, who turns over but doesn't hit. The Yanks have one real turn-over hitter in Mark Koenig, one fancy turn-over hitter in Herb Pennock and one experimental turn-over hitter in Leo Durocher. It was Manager Huggins who turned Leo over. Left to himself, Leo would hit right-handed if at all.

Frisch and Bancroft are the foremost National League hitters who switch sides at the plate. In the American League the noteworthy switch hitters are, in addition to the Yankees just mentioned, Wally Schang, Lu Blue, Bill Hunnefield and Pinky Hargrave. That about completes the list except for a few pitchers who indulge in the luxurious gesture of striking out on both sides of the plate.

Not Up to Form.

Speaking of hitters, Rogers Hornsby has been up among the leaders since the weather turned warm in July, but, by comparison, the Royal Rajah isn't up to his real form. If he were, he would be out in front of the batting parade. For a time, at least, the big fellow from Winters, Texas, was easily the best right-hand hitter in baseball and one of the best the game ever saw.

You can find the names of other players grouped around his in the averages now, which means either that Hornsby has slipped a little or the other boys have crept up on him. It's true that the men who have been leading him in the National League are left-handed hitters and they are supposed to have some small advantage over right-hand hitters, but that's a minor detail. On recent returns, four of the five leading hitters in the American League were right-handed hitters.

So it can't be that. It's just that Hornsby, who takes some time to get his big bludgeon working in form, got off to a slower start than usual this year. He won't have time to overhaul Lefty O'Doul now, and any time that Hornsby doesn't win the batting championship of his league it can be chalked up as something of an off-year for him.

ALL PLAYERS GET TRYOUT

BEDFORD, N. Y., Sept. 15.—The entire village of Bedford as well as a large representation of City College alumni from New York turned out to see Captain Bernard Bienstock's eleven defeat Sam Heistein's team, 12 to 0, in an exhibition game at the Bedford Hills Country Club here today.

The teams were very evenly matched, although Bienstock's players seemed to have a slight edge in punting, which aided them to victory.

Coach Harold J. Parker gave every player on the C. C. N. Y. squad a tryout, so the game took the place of a practice scrimmage with more than ordinary interest attached to it. The rivalry between the two elevens was keen, which resulted in a hard-fought game.

Coaching Staff Attends.

The entire coaching staff was on hand for the first time this season. Roy Plaut, Coach Parker's chief assistant, arrived Saturday night, while Joe Tubridy drove here early this morning.

In addition, Coach Parker has the help of his old friend, Roy C. Mills, one of the foremost kicking coachers in the country, who starred at Princeton in 1902. Lester Barekman and Ally Drieband completed the coaching staff.

Captain Bienstock played brilliantly and showed excellent fielding generalship in kicking. Twice on second downs he decided it would be better to have his team on the defensive and punted the ball out of bounds on the three-yard line, forcing his opponents to defensive kicking. He also scored the second touchdown for his team in the last quarter.

Schlessinger Good Gainer.

Whitey Schlessinger, who did most of the punting for Bienstock, was another big ground gainer. The former Brooklyn star's line drives and passes were a feature. Raphael Salwen, who is a newcomer to football, also made a good showing.

On the opponents' team Sam Heistein and George Tzmianasky were the outstanding linemen, while Morty Targum in the back field compared favorably with Bienstock and Schlessinger. Bruce Dodger, the quarterback, played a far better game than had been expected this early in the campaign. Twice the sturdy signal caller was able to skirt the ends for long gains.

Both managers are seniors in the University Heights division of N. Y. U. Cody lives in Jersey City, while Murphy resides in Rutland, Vt.

OXLAND'S RINK VICTOR.

The bowling competition for the Police Commissioner's Trophy, emblematic of the rink championship of the force, held annually among the divisions of the Toronto police, was concluded recently with Sergeant Oxland's rink the victor. The tourney arouses much interest among the members and contests that are close and exciting are usually in order.

The final game was between the rinks from No. 2 and No. 11 divisions. The contest was one of the closest ever witnessed, the score being tied going into the last end. No. 2, Sergeant Oxland's rink, scored three times on the last end to win, 26-23.

BACK FIELD IS UNCERTAIN

FARMINGDALE, L. I., Sept. 15.—Another day of rest was granted the New York University football squad today. While most of the Violet gridiron candidates took advantage of the holiday to visit their families and friends in various parts of the city, the coaching staff mapped out the practice program for the week.

The N. Y. U. squad has already completed two weeks of training on the grounds of the State College of Agriculture and is ready for its third and final week. Coach Meehan and his candidates are scheduled to leave here Sept. 23, spending the week before the opening game with Vermont on Ohio Field.

Coach Meehan has mapped out a program which will be the most difficult of the entire training season. Hard scrimmages are scheduled for Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, the final being the most strenuous. On the other days, Monday, Wednesday and Friday, the Violet coach plans to send his charges through thorough sessions in fundamentals.

He also will devote much time to Beryl Follet, Al Gaudet, Vin Connor and Jinx O'Herin, if the last named is in shape to play, in an effort to definitely decide which athlete will be the triple threat for the Violet team this season.

Follet seems destined to succeed Ken Strong as the N. Y. U. triple threat star because of the fine showing he made as a passer and punter in last week's drills. Al Gaudet also has favorably impressed Meehan with his all-around work, in addition to drawing favorable comment by the fine manner in which he has called signals in the scrimmages.

DURAY FAILS TO FINISH.

Forced Out of Two Races in Italy, Though Driving Car Fastest.

MILAN, Italy, Sept. 15 (AP).—Leon Duray, American race pilot, driving a Packard, failed to finish in either of two events he entered at the Classic Circuit of Monza auto races today after leading each time.

In the first race for machines of from 1,110 to 1,500 cubic centimeters cylinder measurement, Duray achieved the highest single lap speed—119.3 miles per hour. Later, however, he was forced to retire when his machine's gasoline feed was clogged. A break in his car's oiling system forced Duray to retire from the second race.

Women Bowlers Complete Plans.

Two women's bowling clubs have completed arrangements for the season, bowling at the Bracker-Willis alleys. They are the Liberty and Lucky Strike Clubs. The Liberty Club will roll Tuesday afternoons and the Lucky Strike Club on Monday afternoons, beginning next month.

RUTGERS EXPECTS A BANNER SEASON

SOPHOMORES ON THE SQUAD

Powerful Group Comes Up to Try for Varsity Places—Laterals to Play Major Role.

This is the seventh of a series of articles on Eastern football teams and their prospects for the season.

By ARTHUR J. DALEY.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Sept. 15.—Just about the length of a long forward pass from the field where Rutgers and Princeton played the first game of football in the United States, back in 1869, a brawny band of Rutgers athletes is preparing for a new season. For nearly two weeks they have been pounding away at each other, at tackling dummies, at the green turf of Neilson Field and anything else able to take a battering. The net result is a squad of sinewy-muscled youths that has the Rutgers adherents praising them to the skies.

Not so Coach Harry J. Rockafeller, however. "I'm not making predictions," was his reply to a question as to their rating. "You can see how they look. How good they will be will depend on how good the opposition is, I guess. They will be better than last year, though." That last statement was a mighty significant one since Rutgers won six of nine games last season.

Rely on Lateral Passes.

If the scarlet-jerseyed host makes good there will be two factors responsible. One will be the impetus given the squad by the addition of a very powerful batch of sophomores and the other will be use of the lateral pass. The new football ruling on fumbles abolishes the severe penalty of almost certain touchdown for a misdirected lateral. And Rutgers knows how to toss them.

For two years Lionel Conacher, newly appointed manager of the New York Americans hockey team, taught Rutgers players how to throw laterals. Conacher, hailing from Canada, where lateral passing and rugby football are inseparable, gave the local team a thorough schooling in this phase of the game. Conacher is no longer on the coaching staff, but the seed he implanted is sure to bloom this season.

In a regulation game between Team A and Team B yesterday, lateral passing was used sparingly, but when it was employed it worked like a charm. Jack Grossman, former James Madison star, caught one on the dead run and raced 60 yards for a touchdown. That run was one of three that Grossman unreeled. The 190-pound ex-schoolboy ace slid off tackle twice, reversed his field and squirmed past the secondary defense for one run of 35 yards and another of 40.

Team A the Varsity.

In company with most of last year's freshman eleven, Grossman started in the Team B line-up and was shifted to Team A before the game was very old. By the time the contest was over Team A took on varsity calibre and Rockafeller was inclined to believe that its personnel would represent his first team. Six of the eight letter men on the squad were in the line-up; there were three sophomores; one 1928 substitute who just failed to win his monogram, and one 1927 letter man.

Two of the sophomores crashed into the back field, no mean feat when Rutgers is considered to have about the best back field material it has had in years. Grossman is one, a big, hard-running triple-threat man, who will do the kicking and his share of everything else. The other is Jerry Cronin, a 1 ular Hercules behind the line in halting enemy plays. The other sophomore is the 210-pound Tom Smoyer at tackle.

The 1928 substitute is George Cronin, brother of Jerry and another strong-armed youth who tosses sixteen-pound shots in the off season. George was a halfback last year, but he has been shifted to end, and it appears he is going to stay there. He will be paired with Don Coursen.

Captain Cowl a Veteran.

The veteran contingent is headed by Captain Bernard Cowl, an iron man who has played every minute of every game for the past four years, high school and college. He will be flanked by the heavy-set Bert Harris and Clarence Von Glahn, a substitute who saw plenty of service a year ago. Dick Knaust, a short, stocky tackle with a propensity for breaking up plays, has retained his tackle berth.

Whitey Stager, a smart quarterback, will call signals, while Ben Greenberg will do yeoman work in smashing the line. Greenberg gained the most yards and scored the most points of any Rutgers back last year and is a hard man to bring down on account of the terrific drive to his legs.

CONFIDENTIAL POSITIONS.

Through its president, Mr. GEORGE MCANENY, the National Civil Service Reform League has suggested to the Attorney General that he ask the President to modify by Executive Order the Civil Service rule providing in part that positions in the Department of Justice "confidential in their character" be exempt from competitive examination. The correspondence is published this morning. In July Assistant Attorney General SISSON in behalf of Mr. MITCHELL wrote that such modification "would not be in the best interests of the administration of the department." In August, after further representations by Mr. MCANENY, the positive denial was mollified into a promise to consider the views of the league.

The list of "confidential" appointments in the department for the year July 1, 1928, to June 30, 1929, is interesting. Indeed, it is amusing in some respects. Doubtless the latter quality is largely derived from the old-fashioned traditions of Mr. MITCHELL'S predecessor. A laborer is "confidential." So are a translator, typist, printing-and-binding clerk, telephone operator, divers stenographers, file clerk, part-time dentist, messenger, messenger boy and so on. An unfeeling world can't but surmise that "confidential" may have come to mean "political."

The league doesn't seek to abolish or curtail the Attorney General's right to appoint without examination to places where actual confidential service is necessary. Obviously, there are posts in his department where personal and direct appointment, without intermediary, is indispensable. All the league asks is that the present rule be amended from the general to the particular; that employments not subject to competitive examination be listed specifically, as they are in other departments. The request seems reasonable. There is no principle or order in the catalogue of exceptions to which we have referred. It is a mere jumble. It is what Mayor GAYNOR, fresh from reading HUGH LATIMER, loved to call a "mingle-mangle" or a "mishmash."

THE ROOT FORMULA.

On Saturday the Assembly of the League of Nations unanimously voted to adopt the revision of the statute of the World Court, the work chiefly of Mr. ELIHU ROOT. It includes modifications specially devised to meet the objections, or the reservations, made by the United States Senate. That they do this satisfactorily is the opinion expressed by Secretary STIMSON, with whom President HOOVER is understood to agree. When all the nations, members of the World Court, have signed the new protocol, as they are expected to do almost at once, nothing will be required of the American Government but to accept it and thus also become a member.

Previously the reservations made by the Senate when it voted to enter the World Court provided they were met had been accepted by the constituent nations, with only the fifth reservation left in doubt. This is the one which related to advisory opinions by the Court, and which the Root formula was devised to cover. Many felt that the original questions raised by the Senate were strained, not to say querulous. Yet there is no doubt that some sincerely felt a difficulty. What it was has been clearly stated by Mr. PHILIP C. JESSUP of Columbia University, who went with Mr. ROOT to Geneva. There was, in the first place, a fear that advisory opinions might be given in secret. The Senate wanted them all to be published. Then it was not entirely clear what was meant by a nation having "an interest" in some dispute submitted to the Court for an advisory opinion. Nor was it certain whether the assertion of a claim to such an interest was to be made to the Council of the League or the Court. Thus it has to be admitted that those who looked for ambiguities in the old rules of the World Court could find something which resembled them. But they are all cleared away by the Root plan. No advisory opinion of the Court can be given in secret. Whenever one is asked for, all the governments will be immediately informed about it. Should the United States say that it is interested, neither the Court nor the Council could proceed until the matter was cleared up by discussion. At every other point the objections raised by the Senate appear to have been completely removed by the new formula which Mr. ROOT worked out and which the Assembly of the League has now declared to be entirely satisfactory.

It is more than three years since the Senate, by a vote of 76 to 17, agreed to have the United States join the World Court, on condition that certain reservations were accepted. All of them have now virtually been accepted. If they were put forward honestly by the Senate, it is the honest thing to admit that the other nations have come over to our position, and that the case is closed.

THE BOROUGH SYSTEM.

When the boroughs which make up New York City were permitted to retain a form of autonomous government it was perhaps not expected that a fight in one of them over the Borough Presidency would ever provide such interest and importance as the current one in Queens. President HARVEY'S latest move to prevent the Republican leader, Mr. DE BRAGGA, from removing primary election officers favorable to the Harvey candidacy is another demonstration of how tense is the battle. When results are announced to the public on the night of Sept. 17, what has happened in Queens will command the widest interest of the community. For ever since the revelation of the sewer scandals, and the outcome of the trial of former President CONNOLLY, New York City has realized that all the forces which make drama in politics have been engaged from Jamaica to Astoria.

The backwash of the conflict drew even the Presidential race into its tides. For, due obviously to the Democratic factional split over the Connolly case and the firm manner in which ALFRED E. SMITH dealt with that, his normal party vote in Queens receded almost enough to have cost him the electoral vote of New York State. In all his public career it is doubtful that any disappointment was so bitter to the former Governor. It is not true to say that Queens cost him the State, but it played a considerable part in that loss.

During his term of office President HARVEY has shown many faults of speech and action. His hand has been inserted in several mares' nests. He has been the not always determined child of storm. But the nature of the fight he is making against the De Bragga machine is of the sort which helps to assure honest government in cities, and he will probably have the primary support of many in whose opinion he is by no means a wise or especially able administrator. Should he be defeated in tomorrow's primary by the Republican machine, his decision whether to run independently will probably rest on the conduct of the election officials. Should he win the primary, he and not Mr. DE BRAGGA will become the leader of the Republican organization of the borough. It is a straight-out issue between the two men, whereas among the quarreling Queens Democrats all is confusion, and it may be difficult to understand the political meaning of the primary results in their party.

ST. LAWRENCE POWER.

Announcement that the Niagara Hudson Power Company has purchased the Frontier Corporation and thus acquired sites on the St. Lawrence capable of developing electric energy on a vast scale will be received with varying emotions. Those who regard bigness as bad, and see in consolidation and interconnection only the sinister hand of the "Power Trust," will view this latest move with alarm. Those who regard private enterprise as better, however expanded, will see nothing disturbing in the news. There is room between these extremes for the judgment of those who might consider the move natural, even inevitable, and capable of large public benefit, but who would at the same time desire that the machinery of public control be given strength to deal with this new giant.

St. Lawrence power has been debated for a generation, with increasing heat, but unfortunately with less light. It has become a political football at Albany. A great deal of misinformation has been spread abroad about it, much of it by well-intentioned people. Why go to the expense of buying coal to make steam to turn the dynamos when nature will do it free? Only let "giant power" be put at the farmer's elbow or delivered to the citizen's switch, and light and energy will be so cheap that the millennium will be just around the corner. So runs the familiar argument. Those who have fallen under its spell, particularly as applied to this metropolis, should read the chapter on water power in HAROLD MOULTON'S book on the St. Lawrence, just published by the Institute of Economics. He figures the cost of the necessary transmission lines alone at $85,000,000, and calculates that it would cost $9,750,000 a year to generate and deliver in New York current from which the maximum possible revenue would be $8,444,000.

Mr. MOULTON'S capital cost estimates may be too high, particularly for the Federal project which he is discussing, where improvement of navigation would share the burden with the development of power. But they must give pause to the millenniumists hereabouts. For a long time to come they are likely to be served by steam plants. These is, however, another way of marketing St. Lawrence power, which would substitute for the old notion of transmission to a single metropolitan market, distribution to various localities through interconnection with a general power system. That would not have been practicable in the days of isolated plants. In time it may be possible as a result of the consolidations lately consummated. But the political barrier remains. And when St. Lawrence power does flow over the wires the benefit, as Mr. OWEN YOUNG has pointed out, is likely to lie more in dependability and coal conservation than in cut rates for electric current.

TREATING THE WHOLE PATIENT

Valuable not only in itself but as an indication of the increasing recognition of the importance of a patient's mental condition is the two weeks' course of study of nervous factors in disease just announced by the New York Academy of Medicine. Many doctors, leaders in the profession and general practitioners in the ranks as well, realize that their patients are not making the improvement warranted by treatment because of some emotional disturbance. Formerly most doctors felt that it was not their business to interfere in matters closely touching the private life of the patient, particularly when they had no obvious medical interest. Now, as Dr. WILLIAMS, director of the academy, says: "Modern medicine is coming to emphasize the need for the physician to bear constantly in mind that the whole patient is sick; not merely the heart or the liver."

Beginning Oct. 7, the academy will offer without charge to medical students, social workers and physicians a series of lectures by distinguished authorities on the relation of the mind to numerous ailments. Specific instances, such as changing the attitude of the tuberculosis patient, the cardiac neuroses, and treatment of cases of nervous disturbance following accidents, will be discussed. There will also be lectures on the duty of the physician to interpose early in mental disorders, even when the patient is seeking treatment for some other illness. The course should be of wide interest to members of the medical profession, and to the public.

SOBER BRITISH LABOR.

At Belfast the British Trades Union Congress took a short way with the Communist remnant. An earlier congress ejected Communist unions from membership en bloc. Organized labor in Great Britain today is impelled to moderation negatively by the memory of the general strike of three years ago; affirmatively by the wider opportunities opening up through constitutional action. This trend is not peculiar to Great Britain. Virtually everywhere outside of Russia there is manifested the same swing away from the Left. Students of the international labor movement speak of a definite revolt on the part of rank-and-file union members against the leadership of the intellectualist doctrinaires. Even where the trade-union spirit is militant it thinks in terms of working-class betterment rather than of social reconstruction. It is the middle-class British intellectual who is apt to be most insistent on "Socialism in our time." The trade-unionist is not hostile to the Socialist ideal, but is not sufficiently in a hurry to sacrifice or imperil the promise of immediate betterment for his class.

When RAMSAY MACDONALD came into power a cartoon in Punch showed him as the conductor of the Socialist Symphony Orchestra, cautioning his players, "molto moderato—especially at the beginning!" The reasonableness of the MacDonald program and the MacDonald tone has been explained as due primarily to the fact that British Labor is still a minority. When Labor, by studied self-restraint, has won an absolute majority in Parliament there will be quite another tune. The same explanation has been cited for PHILIP SNOWDEN'S curt way with the foreigners at The Hague. A Labor Chancellor of the Exchequer with a tenderer heart for the British taxpayer than WINSTON CHURCHILL, a Socialist negotiator more jealous of nationalist rights and prestige than Sir AUSTEN CHAMBERLAIN—here plainly was a notable stroke in the conquest of that "middle belt" of British opinion needed to secure an absolute majority in the country for the Labor party. Once that is accomplished the Socialist dove will cease to coo.

The trouble with this theory is that it is altogether too subtle for this rough world. One is compelled to think not only of an entire British Labor Cabinet lending itself to an elaborate masquerade, but of something like 5,000,000 sturdy British workers in their trade unions sharing the hoax like a vast army of Hollywood supers. When that bold fire-eater, "Emperor" COOK of the miners, proclaims himself a convert to the doctrine of industrial cooperation, when Communism in the trade unions, a powerful force as late as three years ago, becomes virtually extinct, it is obvious that real forces are operating in the ranks of British labor. German labor reacted in the same fashion when it was in unchallenged power immediately after the war. The restraining force in both cases has been a sense of national responsibility reinforced by a pretty thorough understanding of just what Communism was doing and has done for the well-being of the Russian working classes.

BYRD'S SECOND SUMMER.

With the sun now above the horizon, Little America is busy with preparations to put more of Antarctica on the map and to make a scientific survey of its natural features. The paraphernalia of exploration has been overhauled and everybody is hard at work to get it ready for the great adventures of the coming Summer. Suitable equipment many polar expeditions have lacked. "While Antarctic exploration," says J. GORDON HAYES, "cannot be considered safe, its risks in the future need not be as great as they have been in the last two decades." Commander BYRD has a great advantage in the use of modern airplanes and a staff of expert pilots for geographical discovery. Nothing is more characteristic of him than his thoroughness in preparing for contingencies.

The second Summer, which will begin late in November, promises discoveries far more important than those reported in June, the result of several flights in January and February of this year. Flying beyond the Scott Nunataks, mountains to which the name was given of the Rockefeller Range were sighted. Eastward of it other high mountains were found. Beyond the one hundred and fiftieth meridian an extensive territory was seen and named Maria Byrd Land. It is to be surveyed in the coming Antarctic Summer. An aerial survey was made of the Bay of Whales as far east as Halflood Bay. "A very conservative estimate," said Commander BYRD, "shows that we have seen at least 20,000 square miles of hitherto unknown Antarctic areas."

Geological work with dog-sleds under Professor GOULD is to begin about the middle of October. His first objective will be the Queen Maude Range, on the edge of the polar plateau. In the same month bases will be laid south in support of a flight to the South Pole by the leader of the expedition. This may be made as early as Dec. 1, when the weather should be settled. It will be Commander BYRD'S most daring adventure. The risk of the loss of a plane in landing will have to be provided for. A march back may be necessary in the direction of food supplies laid down for such a possibility, and planes must be held ready to search for the party if missing. Radio will play a part in keeping up communications.

During the leader's absence scientific work on a prearranged plan will continue. To the east of Little America a large area will be explored by plane after the return from the Pole, bases being laid down by dog-team in advance. News of great interest should begin to come from the expedition in the course of a few weeks. Its work will not be done until well into February, when the time will have come for the return to New Zealand.

CITY CHURCH COMITY.

The population of American cities, counting those of 50,000 inhabitants, increased nearly 10,000,000 during the last census decade. This was attended not only by expansion of urban areas but by redistribution of population. In some cases the newcomers crowded out the older dwellers, who in turn pushed still others out into suburban areas. Business took possession of old residential sections. One has but to walk at late evening in some of the streets in the lower part of Manhattan, where once fashion swept with its long skirts and neighborly hospitality lighted the homes, to perceive in what canyoned loneliness a church left in that region now stands.

As a consequence of the gain and shifting of population within the cities, the churches have their city-planning problems. These are difficult enough even for a highly centralized church which maintains a city-wide organization independently of others. But they become exceedingly complicated by reason of the many denominational groups into which the Protestant Church is subdivided. Here "comity" must take the place of competition. Instances of bitter denominational rivalry and overchurching are cited by Dr. H. PAUL DOUGLASS in a recent study of cooperative church extension in American cities. In one case denominational zeal had founded three churches all drawing upon the same general territory, with the result that all stood still or went backward.

Comity, however, is not a process. It is the spirit in which the work of related denominations is to be carried on. It shows itself cooperatively in such matters as surveys of new suburban areas, the location and purchase of sites, the organization of missions and branch churches, the relocation and merging of churches, the provision for foreign-speaking groups. In two or three large cities interdenominational holding corporations have been organized to secure church property in strategic locations against the time of need. The "clustering" of churches with a common institutional equipment and staff for community service, recreation and religious instruction is another form of activity in which comity has begun to express itself.

There still persists, in spots, "a clannishness that takes refuge in the conviction of having a better standing with GOD than others enjoy." But headway is being made both in cities and in the "community churches" of towns and villages. Comity has come with "gentle manners" but with sound business sense into the jostling ecclesiastical world and is assuming its part in trying to provide adequately and yet economically for the spiritual needs of the growing and changing cities.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

An Oratorical Hiatus.

Senator SIMMONS, looking over his tariff speech in the Congressional Record, read it with an author's care and pride. It was natural that he should be "startled" to discover—what other readers probably serenely passed by—that one page of his manuscript had not been published. He took instant steps to insert the missing paragraphs, and now the speech will go down to history in all its full-length splendors.

The suggestion that no one else perhaps would have noticed the omission should not disturb the Senator or wound his literary pride. A few paragraphs missing in the middle of a tariff speech might easily fail of notice. There have been, however, more alarming instances where lack of continuity in Washington speeches produced neither mystification nor complaint. It was the firm belief of the late SUMNER CURTIS that the orations of JAMES HAMILTON LEWIS often would sound as well if read backward, since the music of the Senator's voice provided the charm. A Cabinet Minister not so long ago began reading his address in the middle and, when he came to the end, entered calmly upon his exordium. He had not written the speech and it sounded all right to him that way.

The Little Red Hen in Russia.

"I will," said the Little Red Hen, and she did.

That dutiful small heroine of one of childhood's stories saved the day for all her companions in every emergency. What could be more suitable than that she should be called on by the Soviets to save them from a meatless diet? They called on the rabbits not long ago, but, prolific as they are, not all the conjurers in the world could make them produce enough to take the place of the cattle which the stupid peasants, not being "official planners," killed when there was no more fodder for them. But there was still the faithful Little Red Hen, with her color to recommend her to the little Red Scouts, who are to watch her, not like a hawk, but like a devoted son of Russia.

At present the hens are carelessly allowing three eggs a year to be lost. The Commissariat of Agriculture has called on the Scouts to provide "controlled nests," to count the eggs, and to take every hen laying more than a hundred eggs a year to special "pedigree centres," which will assist the peasants in improving the breed of their chickens. It makes no difference whose hen it is—if it is a good Red Hen, off it goes.

There is more to the scheme than a million extra eggs a day. Their market value is estimated by the official planning department to be about $5,000,000, or "enough to purchase 5,000 tractors." American farm machinery is recognized, but not American chicken fanciers' methods. Here a fancy hen that did not lay more than a hundred eggs a year would go into the pot.

Scotland at the Seawanhaka.

Accustomed to think of Scots and the sea primarily in terms of engineers on merchant liners and trampers, Americans have read with interest of the victory of the Scotch skippers in the six-meter sloop Caryl in the Seawanhaka International Cup race off Oyster Bay on Friday.

This is, as a matter of fact, the fourth time that this cup has been captured by Scotchmen. As in the case of the Germans who won the races off Marblehead in August, the foreign yachtsmen are entitled to special credit for having triumphed in spite of lacking intimate knowledge of local winds and currents. These, as all yachtsmen know, often play a large part in small boat races. A distinct advantage thus lies with the skipper who knows best how to use them.

True, yacht-racing calls for all those qualities of shrewdness and keen calculation for which Scots are famous in tale and jest. In fact, almost as if to confirm their nation's reputation, the victors at Oyster Bay won by a margin of only six seconds. But in this instance these few seconds are the highest tribute to the great skill of the Scotch yachtsmen.

There are no "five hundred who can take his place." Nor is there even one. Sir GILBERT CLAYTON had such personal qualities and such wisdom of experience that his like cannot be found. Yet his sudden taking off was one for which men of his adventuring are always prepared:

A drought of water, or a horse's fright.

It was the way in which a man of his gallant spirit would wish to go. "The punkah stops, and falls the night." But the suddenness of his death accentuates the tragedy of it.

General CLAYTON was of the fine type that Britain breeds for her empire. He knew all the dialects of the peoples with whom he had to deal. He also knew their inmost feelings. And he had their respect and confidence. He was with ALLENBY as his chief political officer in Palestine and as the first administrator of the occupied territory, and still later as secretary to the High Commissioner; he accomplished with success his mission to the Hedjas and the Nejd, and had already made his influence beneficently felt in the Iraq.

Those who know little of the campaign in the Near East except Colonel LAWRENCE'S part in it will think of General CLAYTON as the officer who sent him to the Hedjas and so started him on his romantic career. CLAYTON met him again at the end of that campaign in Damascus. Sir GILBERT had that achievement to add to his own, but for his lasting fame in the Near East he needs not to borrow of another. He will be praised in his own right and missed and mourned from the Nile to the Tigris.

CONCERNING SQUATINIDAE.

Information on Sea Monsters Which May Be Taken Seriously or Not.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

When a shark gets a skate on it becomes identified with the Squatinidae, a family of sea monsters noted for their cherubic appearance if not disposition. It was just one of these angelic creatures that the good Thomas Bowen hauled in yesterday at Beach Haven, N. J., according to THE TIMES dispatch. Squatties are by no means little people of Piscatoria. They are, as THE TIMES dispatch described them, from five to eight feet long, with very large wing-like pectoral fins encroaching forward and with anterior extension separated from branchial region by a notch that divides the extension into what Mr. Bowen terms "two feet with two toes."

Popularly known as the angel fish or the monk fish, the squatty is a link between the shark and the ray. A by-no-means wobegone Australian species of shark, known as the wobbegong or wollibong, has a double pair of wings, the second being situated near the stern, and these give this creature greater ease in rising to the surface or in submerging when occasion requires. This sea monster somewhat resembles the tandem-wing airplane recently tested off Long Island.

The wobbegong is popularly known as the carpet shark, and is beautifully spotted in cream and pink; and, in view of the fact that the tribe is varicolored, being black, brown, blue, yellow, pink, orange or white, and sometimes combines two or three of these colors, a cream-colored shirt front backed up by a royal-purple jacket merely shows that we can get new styles even from the denizens of the deep and do not need to go to Paris for them. Thomas Bowen has done Sartoria a service. FRANK H. VIZETELLY.

FOREST FIRE.

Over the Autumn mountains sere
with drouth,
A redder, more tremendous Autumn blight,
Blown by the wind from heaven's caustic mouth,
Guzzles the earth with rabid appetite,
Consuming trees in blue typhoons of fire,
Tower on tower, spire on howling spire!
Screaming, the chestnut waves its flaming arms,
Maple and spruce and pine shout to the sky.
Buzzards and crows cry terrible alarms
But oaks that cannot flee must stand and die.
Nibbled by rodent blaze to pith and marrow
The turk's cap lily, phlox and jewel-weed,
Laurel and aster, bergamot and yarrow,
Crackle in ashes, writhe and parch and bleed.
Nothing that lives can stay the Vulcan lord
Nor are green things alone the lashed and lost,
But thrush and rabbit, rat and fox and wren
Perish in havoc in the holocaust,
Lit by the callow indolence of men.
This is an Autumn hills will long remember,
Billow on billow, char and spark and fume,
Not fifty Springs can resurrect the ember
That was a golden wood before its doom.—
Where now black trunks in deathly regiments
Accuse the killers of earth's innocents!

ERNEST HARTSOCK.

THE TIED-DOWN TEACHER.

Enforced Living in Small College Town Narrows His Perspective.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

With virtually a million young men and women returning to colleges this week and next, Dr. B. I. Bell's address on the present status of the American college should find a wide and welcome reading. Although the warden of St. Stephen's reminds rather than informs, his reminding is eminently sound. He is quite right when he speaks of the professor who "gets funny" and becomes "querulous" and filled with "arid discontent" because of the way in which he is tied down to a narrow and in time deadening community. What Dr. Bell fails, apparently, to see is the real reason why this unhappy frame of mind comes over the otherwise good teacher. He is not only tied down to a small circle, he is also tied up with it, socially and industrially.

There is an easy solution for the problem. Let the professor go to the college himself precisely as the student does, keeping his interests of an industrial, social and even domestic nature elsewhere, preferably in a city. No college professor should own a house within commuting distance of the campus. He will then return in September with the same zest that characterizes the student, who, however much he may enjoy himself during the various vacations, gets just enough of that sort of thing in a remarkably short while and goes back to the institution full of enthusiasm and with the best of intentions.

But the American system is to have the professor buy a house, become a part of the community, address the Kiwanians on Thursday, subscribe liberally to community causes, fill this or that pulpit during the absence of the regular pastor (he couldn't stand the village an unbroken year, either), act as a mentor at the swimming pool of the country club during the Summer months and then enter the lecture room in September flat, stale and unprofitable.

Suppose Dr. Bell were appointing a new professor. The interview has been delightful, there was probably a luncheon connected with it; everything has passed off splendidly, the candidate has the job, until he finally says something like this: "Now, Doctor, you know, don't you, that I have no thought of bringing my family here? I am keeping them in, say, New York, for many reasons. I shall take an active part in community interests and devote my entire time to the college while it is in session. At other times I plan to be with the family, enjoying all those higher cultural advantages that go with the city, and renewing my body and soul for a vigorous year beginning in September and closing in June." He would not get the job, unless St. Stephen's is different from the other small colleges.

PUBLICITY AND THEATRES.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The opinions of Niles Alfred Bruce concerning the effectiveness of theatrical publicity may or may not be founded on false premises, as Bernard Sobel asserts in his letter published in THE NEW YORK TIMES this morning; but to attempt to refute them by what Mr. Sobel admits are "chance repudiations" neither affects the results of Mr. Bruce's obviously exhaustive study nor assists us in arriving at an approximate truth.

Mr. Sobel propounds as his principal argument against Mr. Bruce's findings the fact that "Juarez and Maximilian" was a Theatre Guild production, and therefore drew part of its receipts from a subscription list which was not affected by publicity. This is quite true. But unfortunately it only strengthens Mr. Bruce's original premise that no amount of publicity can force on the public a play which it does not want. Without its subscription list the play would have failed even more ingloriously, and the lavish publicity it received must therefore appear even more ineffectual than Mr. Bruce noted in his survey.

In adjoining paragraphs Mr. Sobel first denies Mr. Bruce's statement, derived from interviews with prominent New York critics, that the personal opinions of dramatic reviewers affect the amount of space a play receives in their columns, and then cites Alan Dale's "plugging" for "The Gingham Girl" as a factor in its success. If these be categorical denials, make the most of them!

Clearly, the whole question is not one which can be answered conclusively by a single study. Even as serious and well-intentioned a survey as that of Mr. Bruce has in it limitations which we cannot wink at. Five hundred reviews cannot be considered typical of 10,000, and the attitude of the New York press to theatrical publicity or the reactions of the New York public cannot be considered typical of the country or of the world. But within its own boundaries Mr. Bruce's study appears to me a serious and intelligent effort to solve a difficult problem. Mr. Sobel only confuses the issue by interposing enthusiasms as facts and "chance repudiations" as mathematical truths. ANDRE SENNWALD.

Books for Prisoners.

There are at present confined in the disciplinary barracks at Governors Island, N. Y., 587 prisoners.

There is a real need of good reading material for the men confined in the disciplinary barracks. Some of the young men come from good homes and have been accustomed to good reading; others have not been so fortunate, and with these we are trying to cultivate a desire for reading other than the trashy kind.

I am confident that if this need were known by the general public there would be a hearty response.

Donations of books and magazines may be sent by parcel post to the "Chaplain's Office, Governors Island, N. Y.," where they will be distributed wisely.

PLANS TO EXPLORE A FORBIDDEN CITY

Plans for a journey of exploration into the three regions of North Africa which Europeans thus far have been unable to penetrate were outlined here yesterday by Lieutenant Gosta Moberg of the Swedish Army, who is in the United States on a mission from the Swedish State Museum of Natural History to enlist the cooperation of an American museum in the projected exploration.

Lieutenant Moberg, who recently published in book form his studies of the Tuaregs of the Central Sahara, made in the course of a two years' expedition, expects to return to North Africa this Winter to extend his investigations of the customs and the origin of the strange white Berbers, who provide one of the most interesting of ethnological puzzles.

Plans to Study Unexplored Regions

"The three regions which I hope to study," said Lieutenant Moberg, "are Southern Tripoli, the Tibesti Mountain region to the east of the Hoggar massif, home of the Tuaregs, and Southern Morocco, south of the Grand Atlas Mountains.

"All these regions are unknown to the outside world. Southern Tripoli is inhabited by the Senussi, the most savage tribe of Moslems, who are ruled over by the Sultan Ahmud. It contains the forbidden city of Ghat, which we hope to enter. An Italian expedition endeavored to study the region in 1916, but was driven out.

"Far to the south of the Senussi district lie the Tibesti Mountains. They are in what is nominally French territory, but the inhabitants are so hostile that the French would not allow me to enter it in my expedition of 1924-26. No one knows what wealth of ethnographical material may be found there.

"Southern Morocco may be equally interesting, for that, too, is a region over which outside control has never been extended."

In his earlier journey Lieutenant Moberg lived for four months in the encampments of the noble tribe of the Tuaregs, a people whose remoteness, strange customs and mysterious origin have made them the subject of romantic novels as well as of scientific treatises. They maintain a feudal system in which the nobles, living in the most primitive fashion, maintain great dignity, and, until their comparatively recent submission to French authority, were the marauders of the entire Sahara, riding out with shields and spears on their great white war camels and annihilating whole caravans for the sake of the loot.

Once a Superior White People.

Various explanations of the presence of this once superior white people in the centre of the Sahara have been advanced, said Lieutenant Moberg, running from the legend that the Hoggar massif was colonized by the people of the lost Atlantis to the legend of the Tuaregs themselves that they come from Southern Morocco or Libya. One Arab historian has even linked them with the Gerges, who fought the Philistines of biblical fame 4,000 years before Christ.

FORESTRY TOUR SEPT. 27-30

Adirondack Trip, Sponsored by State, Is Open to All Who Desire.

ALBANY, Sept. 15.—The sixth annual Adirondack forestry tour will be conducted by the Conservation Department and the Farm Bureau organization Sept. 27-30, and will cover the entire northern and eastern portion of the Adirondacks.

These tours are conducted each year for the purpose of stimulating interest in reforesting by actual field observation of various State and private plantations scattered through the Adirondack region. Types of soil suitable for certain species can be seen. The many species can be seen growing in plantations ranging from one year to forty-three years old, under various conditions of soil and site. Insect pests and fungus diseases also can be seen.

The tour has been arranged in such a way that the points of historic interest, which are numerous, can be visited, together with developments of several natural resources other than forests. It is open to all persons who wish to attend for the purpose of obtaining first-hand information on the details of the reforesting project.

STANDS BY FIRST FLY BAN.

Alabama Official Refuses to Join Florida's Move for Modification.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Sept. 15 (AP).—Commissioner Set P. Storrs of the State Department of Agriculture has refused to endorse an appeal to the United States Department of Agriculture by the Florida Citrus Growers' Clearing House Association for revision of the Alabama quarantine against Florida fruits.

The petition was presented to the commissioner by A. W. Hawley and L. F. Kirkland of Winter Haven, Fla., officials of the organization, after Governor Graves had declined to make recommendations to Mr. Storrs.

Sale of the fruits in this State is prohibited under the Mediterranean fruit fly regulations. The Florida officials are seeking to have the quarantine modified to allow the shipment from the infested area of fruits subjected to a cold storage treatment which, they say, destroys larvae of the fly.

Commissioner Storrs said he was unaware of such a process for treating the fruits, and until it is sanctioned by Federal authorities he would not approve the proposal.

DIXIE MEMORIAL AGAIN IS HELD UP

Owners of Stone Mountain Refuse to Cede It to Georgia and May Take Over Project.

ASSOCIATION TO MEET

Venable Family Willing to Yield Land to Any Group That Will Agree to Complete Work.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 15.—Only one chance, apparently, now remains that the Stone Mountain memorial to the cause of the Confederacy will ever be completed. The Venable family, owner of the mountain, must finance the project if it is to be finished, it appears.

Hope of completion of the work by the State or by organizations inside or outside of Georgia seemingly came to an end with the blunt announcement published today by Sam H. Venable, spokesman for the family, that it would not cede the property to the State of Georgia.

He suggested that the Stone Mountain Confederate Monumental Association turn over the property to the owners at once and thus insure a completely new deal in the matter.

Mr. Venable pointed out that the Georgia Legislature is not in session and that the Legislature is the only power in the State that can accept the site of the memorial. He further declared that he would not cede the property to any official because this would be tantamount to a political gift. The entire plan of placing the property in the hands of the State he called "impracticable and impossible."

He stated that the Venables were willing for the present association to turn the property over to any other association that would agree to complete the work and fulfill all terms of the present contract, but added that they would not make any new contract. This contract has only about a year and three-quarters to run.

In concluding his statement, he said:

"If the present association cannot comply with the terms and conditions of its contract, I would suggest that it turn the property back at once in order that we may take steps to carve the memorial."

President G. F. Willis of the association said that he would call an early meeting of the board of directors to discuss what action should be taken.

Mr. Venable declined to go into any detail as to the plans of the family for carving the memorial in the event the site should be turned back to them. It is considered likely, however, if they should undertake the project, that Gutzon Borglum, the original sculptor, would be recalled to direct the work.

MRS. ROOSEVELT BACK FROM EUROPEAN TOUR

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, wife of Governor Roosevelt, and her two sons, John and Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., returned yesterday on the Red Star liner Belgenland from a six weeks' motor tour of Europe. Two friends of Mrs. Roosevelt accompanied them, Miss Marian Dickerman and Miss Nancy Cook. Governor Roosevelt met his family at the pier at the foot of West Sixteenth Street with a motorcycle escort and took the two boys to Peekskill to camp, while Mrs. Roosevelt remained to clear their baggage through the customs. She said that so many changes had taken place along the western front since 1919 that she had some difficulty in describing the battle fields to her sons.

Another passenger was Charles R. Bowring, head of Bowring Brothers, ship owners of 17 Battery Place, who returned with his family from his annual visit to Europe. He said that general trade conditions in England had improved but the freight outlook for shipping was not good. The rate for grain from Canada to the United Kingdom was very low, Mr. Bowring said.

Americans returning on the Belgenland from Germany said there were no signs of general poverty there. The people were not saving their money because they said if they did the government would take it from them to pay it to the Allies.

Albert Frazer, 68 years old, a passenger, who had been ill with gastritis during the crossing, was discovered dead in his cabin after the ship docked. The business cards of a Thomas and an Allen Frazer, believed to be his brothers, were found in his effects, but neither could be reached by the police last night.

At 302 West Seventy-ninth Street, Manhattan, the address given by Frazer at the start of the voyage, attendants said that he had formerly lived there but had moved away several months ago. The cards found in his stateroom gave Thomas Frazer's address as 120 Broadway, and that of Allen Frazer as 2,626 Broadway.

HISTORIC QUINCY HOUSE IN BOSTON IS CLOSED

BOSTON, Sept. 15 (AP).—The doors of the Quincy House, famous Boston hostelry, were closed today upon 120 years of mellow history. Only the auctioneer's hammer will now disturb memories of Porfirio Diaz, John L. Sullivan, Jim the Penman and scores of others who frequented it.

Built in a day when money was so scarce that the lease stipulated the rent should be paid in pounds of pig iron, grains of gold or bushels of corn, the Quincy House has seen most of the great and the notorious pass through its doors.

Porfirio Diaz, Dictator-President of Mexico for twenty-five years, occupied the royal suite on each of his three or four visits to Boston, while Jim the Penman, who was "Lord" Ashburton, international crook and forger, once took a room while plying his trade here.

John L. Sullivan used to frequent the Quincy House bar, and its bartender at one time, William Hogarty, was the only man who ever knocked the great John L. clean unconscious, it is said. Sullivan, a little the worse for liquor, insulted Hogarty, who lost his temper and clipped Sullivan a blow on the head with a bottle which sent him flat. He and John L. were better friends thereafter.

John F. Fitzgerald, Boston's former Mayor, of "Sweet Adeline" fame, sang his favorite song at many a political rally in the halls and feted Sir Thomas Lipton there.

Samuel Gompers and John Philip Sousa frequented the Quincy House for years. As a little boy, George M. Cohan stopped there with his father and mother while on tour.

But now its furniture is antique and the building out-moded, so history, which has so long been made there, began today to pass it by.

An Almost Forgotten Persian Proverb Says That Heaven

Is at the feet of our mothers. Sit ye down, by yourself, somewhere and spend a few moments alone with the mother who picked you up when you fell and hurt yourself.

Do you remember how she smoothed away the hurt and made you forget all about it? Can you remember your first schooldays and how she helped you with your lessons? Can you see her sometimes coming to meet you along the road when you were coming home from school?

What dear little hands she had and how good she was to put up a little bit of luncheon, generally bread, butter and preserves! Wasn't it good, though!

DRIVE IN SOUTH PLANNED

Norman Thomas Says Industrial Struggle There Affords a Political Opportunity.

A LABOR PARTY AIMED AT

Morris Hillquit, New York lawyer and for many years a leader of the Socialist party, was elected unanimously yesterday by the executive committee of that organization as the national chairman of the party to succeed the late Victor L. Berger of Milwaukee. The new party chairman was the Socialist candidate in 1917 for Mayor of New York and has been international secretary of his party.

Upon motion of Mr. Hillquit, the executive committee sanctioned the formation of a Pan-America Socialist and Labor Federation. Socialist and labor organizations in Canada, Mexico, Porto Rico, Central and South America will be invited to join this organization. The new group, which would bring together for the first time an enrolled membership of several millions, would have as a primary purpose the co-ordination of activities "to safeguard democracy against the inroads of American imperialism."

Plan an American Labor Party.

In a decision which many members considered one of the most militant steps the Socialist Party has taken in recent years looking to the ultimate formation of an American Labor Party here on the lines of the British organization, the executive committee authorized the cooperation of the national committee with local labor parties in their election campaigns. The executive committee also decided to invade the South for the first time.

After Norman Thomas and special investigators sent to the South had reported that the industrial movement in the South had created a new class of people who are "clamoring" for organization, the executive committee placed David G. George of Richmond, Va., in charge of organizing the Socialist party in the South. Heretofore, there has been no Socialist organization in any Southern State, not even in those pre-war days of the Socialist party's greatest strength. Preliminary organization is already under way in North Carolina, Virginia, Florida and Mississippi.

"The success of the British Labor party and the victories in certain local elections here may well pave the way for a great revival of the Socialist movement of the entire country," Mr. Hillquit told the executive committee at its meeting at the Rand School, 7 East Fifteenth Street. "While keeping a benevolent eye on local developments along the line of labor parties, our main job will be to strengthen the Socialist party."

Thomas Sees Opportunity in South.

Mr. Thomas, speaking before the Institute of Socialist Activities, which met at the Rand School while the executive committee was holding private sessions in an adjoining room, declared that "the situation in the South is a rare opportunity for the American labor movement." He urged the American Federation of Labor to set up a relief committee "to help the weaker unions, to organize the unorganized and help stimulate the more conservative unions to the necessity of labor solidarity."

Julius Hochman, vice president of the International Ladies' Garment Workers Union, explained that antagonizing leaders of the American Federation of Labor "will not get Progressives very far." He said that the federation was "bucking" certain deep set traditions in this country and that if Socialists realized that "they would cooperate more easily and more successfully with labor leaders in the realization of those hopes which both groups desire."

Nathan Fine, director of the research department of the Rand School, Howard Y. Williams, secretary of the recently organized League for Independent Labor Action, and various local labor union leaders spoke hopefully of the formation of an American Labor party in the near future. Mr. Williams said that his league has already begun a drive to educate the farmers of the West to the idea.

EUROPEANS HAIL HILLQUIT.

Philip Snowden and four other members of the British Cabinet, the President of the German Reichstag, the Prime Minister of Denmark and Socialist political and trade union leaders from many parts of the world joined with American members of the Socialist party last night in honoring Morris Hillquit, who was elected yesterday national chairman of the Socialist party in the United States, on his sixtieth birthday.

About 600 Socialists attended a "surprise" dinner in Mr. Hillquit's honor last night at the Park Palace, 110th Street and Fifth Avenue. Norman Thomas and others prominent in the Socialist party here praised Mr. Hillquit's "noble and unselfish devotion to the Socialist party" and voiced the "deep affection" in which Socialist workers hold "their great leader."

"It is a great pleasure to me to greet our comrade, Morris Hillquit, on his sixtieth birthday," Mr. Snowden said in a message read at the gathering.

"His long and valuable services to international socialism has won for him the gratitude and affection of the world movement. I express the fervent hope that he may long be spared to continue his work by voice and pen and that he may live to see the triumph of the ideals to which he has devoted his life and great abilities."

Three Perfect Bridge Hands Dealt in One Chicago Game

CHICAGO, Ill., Sept. 15.—One of the most unusual bridge games on record broke up at 1:20 this morning. During three hours of play Alice Reidy held two perfect hands, thirteen spades at one time and thirteen diamonds shortly after. Later she was dealt a hand containing twelve clubs and one heart.

S. W. Calkins, a house guest, received the 2, 3 and 4 of each of the four suits, and the 5 of clubs. Bridge experts estimate that such hands as these happen about once in a million games, but twenty-five interested onlookers testified to their authenticity.

DILTHEY COMES OUT FOR LA GUARDIA

HIS GROUP FOR BENNETT

William J. Dilthey, member of the Brooklyn branch of the Constitutional Campaign Committee, declared yesterday in a letter to David Barnett, general chairman, that he was supporting Representative F. H. La Guardia for the Republican nomination for Mayor as the candidate most likely to defeat Mayor Walker and Tammany and bring about a municipal house cleaning. Mr. Barnett is one of the leading supporters of William M. Bennett. Mr. La Guardia's opponent for the nomination, and the committee is understood to be committed to Mr. Bennett's candidacy.

"I firmly believe that Major La Guardia will put up a far better campaign than any other candidate and that he is the most representative candidate the Republicans and fusionists could have nominated at this time and stands the best chance of election," Mr. Dilthey wrote.

"You also will observe that, while Mr. Bennett has been confining himself practically to one issue, namely, the closing of the 32,000 speakeasies in New York City, Major La Guardia has pointed out the abuses and graft in all the departments of our city government, including the Board of Education, which we all know is a political adjunct to Tammany Hall."

Mr. La Guardia rested all day at his home in preparation for a busy week. His last public appearance late Saturday night was at a dinner for Benedict Tantillo, labor leader, given by the Italian-American Plasterers' Social Club at the Winter Garden, Tremont and Washington Avenues, the Bronx. Mr. La Guardia was received with enthusiasm. He made a brief non-political speech, praising Mr. Tantillo and thanking those present for the reception to him.

Mr. La Guardia will make three speeches at Republican clubs tonight, two in Brooklyn and one in Manhattan. The Brooklyn clubs are those of the First District at 21 Schermerhorn Street and of the Fourth District at 154 Hughes Street. His Manhattan appearance will be at the First District club at 236 East Broadway.

LAND INQUIRY ENDS TODAY.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Sept. 15.—Samuel Untermyer, appointed by Governor Roosevelt to investigate the purchase by the Westchester County Supervisors of a site for a new county building for $948,000, spent considerable time today at Greystone, his home in Yonkers, going over additional data which he will submit at the final hearing here tomorrow. At the hearing on Monday afternoon it was learned he will seek additional evidence as to the activities of L. Ward Prince in the purchase of land for parks and parkways. He was the broker in the transaction under investigation. Mr. Untermyer today received a record from the Park Commission showing what land deals Mr. Prince figured in. It is expected that the hearing will be short and that the final action of Mr. Untermyer will be to make a statement for the record, telling when he will make his report to Governor Roosevelt, and whether he favors a grand jury inquiry because William L. Ward, the Republican leader, ignored his invitation to testify.

HOWARD ASSAILS BANTON.

Clinton N. Howard, chairman of the National United Committee for Law Enforcement, upheld the Mayoralty candidacy of William M. Bennett as "our only hope," advocated a complete change in the city administration and assailed Police Commissioner Whalen and District Attorney Banton for not closing all New York speakeasies as public nuisances at a meeting last night at the Crawford Memorial Methodist Episcopal Church, 218th Street and White Plains Avenue, the Bronx. The meeting was sponsored by six Protestant churches and six dry organizations. A collection was taken up for Mr. Bennett's campaign fund.

Canon William F. Chase, rector of Christ Episcopal Church, Brooklyn, compared the proprietors of speakeasies to the money-lenders driven from the temple by Christ.

PRIMARY ACTIVITY HOTTEST IN QUEENS

HARVEY AT RIVAL'S OUTING

Intensive political activity immediately preceding the primary election tomorrow seemed yesterday to be confined mostly to Queens, where both major parties have bitter factional contests. The city-wide contest for the Republican nomination for Mayor between Representative F. H. La Guardia, unofficial convention designee, and William M. Bennett lacked anything approaching a spectacular finish, as Mr. La Guardia continued to ignore Mr. Bennett's candidacy and Mr. Bennett continued to make his campaign almost entirely by letters and statements.

In Queens, however, the five candidates for Borough President, George U. Harvey, the incumbent, and former State Senator John L. Karle, Republicans, and County Clerk Edward W. Cox, Representative William F. Brunner and former Borough President Bernard M. Patten, Democrats, will keep up their speaking campaigns until the eve of the primary election tonight.

Polls Open at 3 P. M. Tomorrow.

The polls will open at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon and will close at 9 P. M. The indications were that the candidates in Queens intended to be busy until the closing of the polls.

John Theofel, leader of the regular Democratic organization, which is supporting Mr. Cox, led more than 1,000 men and women of his following to an outing at Whitestone Laneing. Mr. Cox made a brief speech and Mr. Theofel declared that there was a swing to Cox in all parts of the borough, particularly in the Jamaica section.

The Theofel outing had a somewhat unexpected ending. Just before dinner Mr. Harvey appeared, accompanied by Commissioner of Public Works John J. Halleran, who is an independent Democrat. Mr. Harvey was courteously received by Mr. Theofel, Mr. Cox and the other Democratic candidates. Asked the reason for his appearance at the outing, Mr. Harvey said:

"I'm going to be the Republican nominee, but I expect to get many Democratic votes. I just wanted to come here and greet some of my friends among the Democrats."

Mr. Harvey had hardly left when Mr. Patten appeared. He chatted with many of those present and departed, to be succeeded by Municipal Court Justice John M. Cregen, who is an independent candidate for the Democratic nomination for Surrogate. District Attorney Richard Newcombe, designee of the Theofel faction for the nomination for Surrogate, was present at the outing from the beginning.

Mr. Harvey earlier in the day issued a statement denying the report of Mr. Karle's campaign committee that fourteen members of the Queens County Republican Committee, who had been among his supporters, had deserted him.

"Ten of these fourteen persons called me up to say that the statement from the Karle headquarters was entirely wrong," Mr. Harvey said. "Each said he was with me and never had authorized any statement by the Karle faction. The other four mentioned never have been with me."

In reply to the charge that he was not a Republican, Mr. Harvey said that he had been president of the Third Ward Republican Club for three years and always had voted the Republican ticket, but that he was not a Republican who had to take dictation of a party boss.

Patten Denies Butler Support.

Mr. Patten denied a published report that he was being supported by James Butler, chairman of the Queens County Democratic Committee. "The fact is that Butler and all the following he can command is being turned in favor of the alleged Clean Government faction," Mr. Patten said. "We are getting no support from any one who has a lingering favorable feeling for the old Democratic regime in Queens."

Joseph R. De Bragga, the "boss" to whom Mr. Harvey referred, declared that a Harvey victory in the primary election would not cause him to resign as party leader.

"Win, lose or draw, I intend to serve out my term as chairman of the Republican County Committee of Queens until September, 1930, rounding out my thirty years of leadership," he said in reply to a question of what he would do in case of a Harvey victory. "I hope I never will see the day when the Republican party will be turned over to disgruntled Democrats of the type of Halleran, Klein and Mager."

RESUMES AIR-RAIL SERVICE.

T. A. T. Plane Leaves Columbus, O., Today With 10 Passengers.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Sept. 15 (AP).—Train-plane service over the Transcontinental Air Transport line will be resumed tomorrow after a ten-day halt caused by the search for the air liner City of San Francisco, which carried eight persons to their death on Mount Taylor in New Mexico.

Reservations have been made for ten passengers on the westbound plane at 8:15 A. M. tomorrow. This has been a capacity load for the trimotored Ford planes used on the eastern division, but tomorrow the new Curtiss-Condor planes, with a capacity of eighteen passengers, will make their initial passenger trip over the route to Waynoka, Okla.

WARD TO BE RE-ELECTED.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Sept. 15.—The annual convention of the Westchester Republican County Committee will be held in the auditorium of the County Women's Republican Club in Court Street here on the afternoon of Sept. 25. It is expected that William L. Ward of Port Chester will be re-elected chairman for the thirty-third consecutive year, and that this will be done by acclamation.

Other officers who will be re-elected are Miss Jane Todd of Tarrytown, as vice chairman, George W. Hill of White Plains as treasurer and Henry E. Barrett of White Plains as secretary.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Sept. 15.—Prize live stock valued at millions meant little at the Eastern States Exposition so far as attention was concerned when the big crowd learned that John Coolidge and his fiancée, Miss Florence Trumbull, daughter of the Connecticut Governor, were honor guests at the reception for the Governors of several States who attended the opening of the exposition tonight.

In fact, not only was the live stock eclipsed, but former President Coolidge, also a guest at the show, learned what it meant for once to be an attraction less popular than his own son. Governor Trumbull, Governor Allen of Massachusetts and the other State Executives took it as a matter of course that they should be minor lights under the circumstances.

Judging by his satisfied expression, the former President was highly content not to be the central figure in the spotlight. Next to the young couple, who are soon to be married, Mrs. Coolidge seemed to be the most popular figure present.

Previous to the reception at the fair grounds, Mrs. Trumbull gave a dinner to about thirty guests at the Colony Club in this city. Besides former President Coolidge and his wife and John Coolidge and his fiancée, those present included Miss Jean Trumbull, sister of Florence; officials of the Eastern States Fair and a number of social leaders from various parts of the country who have entries in the horse show.

The dinner was originally arranged to be held at a hotel, where the visiting Governors dined, but was transferred at the last minute to the club to give John Coolidge and his fiancée a brief opportunity to avoid the public curiosity.

WOMAN STRANGLED IN HER BRONX HOME

SLAYER CLIMBS IN ANOTHER

Mrs. Julia Quintieri believed she had put herself beyond reach of the death threats of a rejected suitor. She had complained to the police and then moved from Harlem to an isolated section of the upper Bronx.

The young woman had redoubled her caution in going to and from her work as a milliner. She was confident that her annoyer had lost her. One of two windows in the rear of her apartment worried her. It opened on a fire-escape. It would be easy for the man to climb in.

One night after she returned from work she nailed the window tight. Only by smashing the pane, and that would waken her, could the angry suitor get in. The second window she did not nail. It seemed to her that no one could swing from the fire-escape to the window ledge.

Climbs in Unnailed Window.

Some time, however, during Saturday night or early yesterday a man crawled through the unnailed window while Mrs. Quintieri slept. He put four strands of butcher's twine around her neck and tied her hands together.

The woman's son Charles, 5 years old, got up yesterday morning and dressed himself. He saw his mother, but was too young to comprehend why she looked so odd. He went out to play near the house at 2,403 Cambrelling Avenue, the Bronx.

The youngster played for an hour. Then, as though it was a matter of no import—even last night the boy's immature mind failed to grasp what had happened—he told one of his playmates that "something had happened to mama." The second child, whose name the police did not get, was quicker of wit.

He told Patrolman Algie of the Bronx Park station. Algie went to the apartment house in Cambrilling Avenue. He climbed to the top floor and knocked on the rear door. Then he forced it and entered the three-room apartment.

He found Mrs. Quintieri lying on the floor of the living room. Apparently she had been dragged there from the bedroom at the back. She was dead from strangulation. There was no sign of struggle in the apartment.

Murderer Tried to Revive Her.

A bizarre touch in the apartment was the suggestion that the murderer had sought to revive Mrs. Quintieri. A bottle containing spirits of ammonia was beside the body. The cork was out and the label bore crimson fingerprints.

Mrs. Quintieri was 24 years old and had been estranged from her husband for several years. He is believed to be in Colorado. Up to a month ago she lived near Park Avenue and 104th Street. The would-be suitor ran a stationery store in the neighborhood.

Rejected by the woman the man persisted in his attentions. He threatened to kill her. Mrs. Quintieri told the police of the East 104th Street station when she lodged a complaint there. She said the man once before had gained access to her apartment by the fire-escape. She repeated this to the police at the Bronx Park station when, after moving, she took the precaution to lodge a second complaint there.

Early this morning District Attorney John E. McGeehan ordered the arrest of Joseph A. Barbero, 35 years old. The police charged him with homicide, which he denies.

The arrest followed several hours of questioning. Detectives early in the night brought Barbero back to New York from Springdale Farm, Marlboro, near Newburgh, N. Y. He admitted having known Mrs. Quintieri for six years. Barbero has been separated from his wife and two children, who live in Brooklyn.

CAR SALVAGE PLANT IS BEING DESIGNED

Tentative specifications for a reduction plant in which metal parts of abandoned automobiles would be salvaged are being prepared in Queens as the result of a series of conferences between Albert H. Dousman, engineer of the Ford Motor Company plant at Kearny, N. J., and Major Oscar Erlandsen, Chief Engineer of the borough.

The problem of disposing of the large number of cars, particularly old Fords, which are abandoned in Queens caused Borough President Harvey to write several weeks ago to Henry Ford asking his advice regarding the best method for getting rid of these hulks. Mr. Ford requested Mr. Dousman to go to Queens and confer with the Borough President and his engineers.

It was finally decided to draw up plans for a reduction plant which would be equipped with machinery to separate the metal worth salvaging from the waste material. Under this plan the metal would be pressed into bales and sold.

In writing to Mr. Ford to apprise him of the results of the conferences Mr. Harvey said: "Whether the city of New York will set up this plant or whether an independent salvage corporation will be given a franchise to do the work has not been decided. But in either case a certain income should be realized through the disposal of abandoned cars; this income to be used by the city of New York to defray at least part of the expense entailed in the collection of automobile hulks from the streets and highways."

John J. Halleran, Commissioner of Public Works in Queens, said that several salvage corporations have applied for the franchise to salvage the abandoned cars. These proposals are being turned over to Mr. Dousman and Major Erlandsen.

Many individuals have submitted plans for disposing of these cars. Fred Jones of 137-42 228th Street, Laurelton, president of the Laurelton Civic Association, suggested to Mr. Harvey that they be used for "matpressing" the banks of the Sunrise Trail Landslides on this highway, which was laid under the supervision of the State Highway Department, have been a source of great annoyance. Mr. Jones pointed out that the automobiles could be used to reinforce the banks, thereby preventing landslides and at the same time disposing of the cars.

SAYS MILK SUPPLY DROPS.

Dairymen's League Head Tells of Cut in Production Due to Drought.

Prolonged droughts have created the most difficult milk supply problem that has confronted dairy farmers in many years, Fred H. Sexauer, president of the Dairymen's League Cooperative Association, Inc., said yesterday.

The dry weather, Mr. Sexauer pointed out, has practically destroyed pasture as a source of feed for dairy cows weeks before the normal end of the pasture season, and green feeds and corn usually relied upon as helps in Fall feeding have been damaged by the droughts.

"The effect of this," Mr. Sexauer said, "has been a considerable decline in milk production, and just at a time when consumption in New York City and other centres has shown an increase because of the return of thousands from vacations.

"All dairymen should begin at once the use of high protein feeds to prevent further declines in production," Mr. Sexauer added. "Also special care should be taken to protect cows from bad weather. Nothing will cut down milk production more rapidly than leaving cows out in the cold, wet weather."

WANT WAGGONER TO RETURN $500,000

INSANITY PLEA IS HINTED

Counsel Delays Decision on Whether to Fight Removal to New York.

The six New York banks which gave up $500,000 two weeks ago to Charles Delos Waggoner, president of the Bank of Telluride, are awaiting his return here under arrest, it was learned yesterday, in the hope he may be willing to transfer their funds back from his bank in Colorado.

Otherwise, it was explained, the six New York banks will have to undertake complicated and long-drawn-out civil litigation to recover the money, even if Mr. Waggoner should be convicted on the criminal charge of fraud on which he was arrested.

At present the $500,000 is technically to the credit of the Bank of Telluride in Colorado, having passed from bank to bank and through clearing houses in the form of certified cashier's checks by transactions which banks have heretofore regarded as not subject to cancellation and which they admit they are still reluctant to attack.

No Agreement on Responsibility.

The banks further revealed there was no precise agreement as to responsibility for the loss. The transactions began when a credit of $500,000 was set up for the Bank of Telluride at the Chase National Bank on Aug. 30 by the Chemical National, Harriman National, Equitable, Guaranty Trust, First National and National City Banks in obedience to telegraphic orders in correct banking code, apparently from their six correspondent banks in Denver. When routine notices of execution of these orders reached the Denver correspondents, however, the telegrams were repudiated as frauds. Meanwhile, Mr. Waggoner had come and gone, after disbursing the $500,000 in cashier's checks of the Bank of Telluride, which the Chase National Bank certified. Some of these certified cashier's checks had been taken to the Central Hanover Bank and used to pay off $280,000 loans, taking down collateral which was ordered to be mailed back to the Bank of Telluride. The remaining certified cashier's checks were mailed directly to Colorado, for deposit to the credit of the Bank of Telluride.

Still President of Bank.

Since Mr. Waggoner is still president of the Bank of Telluride, it was pointed out yesterday by the New York bankers that he could draw checks with the consent of the Colorado Bank Examiner against the credit and authorize the return of the collateral and thereby immediately restore the proceeds of the fraud.

Such a solution must wait, however, the bankers explained, until it is determined what attitude Mr. Waggoner may take about restitution, and whether the acceptance of such checks might involve the risk of simply putting the New York claimant banks among the other creditors of the Bank of Telluride. Mr. Waggoner is quoted as saying his bank was in bad condition and that the $500,000 was needed to protect his depositors from loss; and that the New York banks would not miss it.

George J. Mintzer, Assistant United States Attorney, is preparing here to complete the presentation of the case to the Federal grand jury next week, in the expectation of proceeding to immediate trial upon the arrival of witnesses from Telluride.

Insanity Defense Indicated.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Sept. 15 (AP).—Indication that an insanity plea may be the defense of C. D. Waggoner, president of the Bank of Telluride, Col., to the Federal charge he is facing in connection with an attempt to obtain $500,000 from six New York banks was given today in conversation between the banker's attorneys and relatives.

A deputy sheriff told The Associated Press correspondent that phase of the defense was discussed in the conversation, but C. D. Crump, one of Waggoner's attorneys, would not discuss it.

According to the deputy sheriff, Mr. Crump announced his intention of having Waggoner examined by an alienist and if the examination disclosed the banker was not mentally sound his plea to the charge would be insanity.

Mr. Crump late today said he still awaited the arrival of A. D. Walton, United States Attorney, with whom he will confer before deciding whether Waggoner will contest the order for his removal to New York. Announcement of his decision by Mr. Crump had, may not be made until tomorrow.

The accused bank head was brought to Cheyenne from Newcastle, Wyo., today heavily shackled and was locked up in the Laramie County jail. He shaved off his mustache in Newcastle yesterday.

E. C. Raymond of New Castle, retained as chief of Waggoner's counsel, is expected here to take charge of the case.

What Will Rogers Thinks About MacDonald's Visit

SANTA MONICA, Cal., Sept. 15.—Philip Snowden, Mr. Ramsey MacDonald's "head" man, went over on the Continent and talked the Allies out of a half billion of Germany's reputation money, and he came back to England a bigger hero than MacDonald.

So Ramsey says to himself, "I will do the going from now on," so he is coming over here. So watch him, Herbert. Englishmen are the only race of people that never travel for just fun.

Personally I think he wants to show us the advantages of England retaining the largest navy. You won't be asked for any monetary consideration, Mr. Hoover; just do a little fancy ship sinking.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

REPUBLICAN FIGHTS LOOM IN 3 STATES

NEBRASKA ALSO A PROBLEM

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—The political situations in Iowa, Nebraska and West Virginia are causing the the Republican leaders and outstanding aspirants for nominations much concern.

Party leaders who were here for the meeting of the National Committee reported to Chairman Huston that in West Virginia there was a disposition on the part of independent elements to oppose the renomination of Senator Goff.

In the other two States there are plenty of candidates, but uncertainty exists as to whether Senator Norris of Nebraska will seek another term, and in Iowa the movement to influence Judge Kenyon to resign from the Federal bench to return to the Senate is holding other candidacies in abeyance.

Former Governor W. L. Harding of Iowa, while here declared there was a spontaneous movement in his State to persuade Judge Kenyon to return to the Senate, from which he retired to go on the bench.

Labor Leaders Urge Kenyon's Return.

Labor and agriculture are united in an appeal which has gained many thousands of signers, Mr. Harding said. The movement is fostered chiefly by the labor leaders, and the progressive elements in the State are urging Judge Kenyon by letters and telegrams to enter the primaries. If he should consent to do so it is said he would have no opposition. Such a move is declared likely to prevent a hard fight in the primaries between Governor Hamill and Representative Dickinson.

Those who have approached Judge Kenyon, who is here serving on the National Law Enforcement Commission, feel that he may heed the appeal. It is well known that while he desired to retire some six years ago for the quieter work of the bench, he has since expressed the opinion that the strife of the political arena still lured him.

Judge Kenyon has declined to make any public statement in reference to his intentions, however, but probably will do so in the next few weeks unless the present movement, lacking any encouragement from him, should end.

Republican leaders say that there has been so much improvement in the farm situation in Iowa that the State will be normally Republican again next year. Senator Steck, Democrat, who gained his seat because of Republican differences, will be the minority nominee. The Democrats do not express any reasonable hope of holding the seat.

Norris Desires to Retire.

It is the personal desire of Senator Norris of Nebraska, now over 70 years old, and for thirty-five years active in politics, to retire at the end of his term on March 4, 1931. He wished to do so six years ago, but was impelled by political considerations and the plea of party leaders to remain in the Senate. About the same situation exists in Nebraska now as then. There are a score of candidates representing the progressive and standpat forces.

Friends of Senator Norris say it is doubtful whether a man of his independent type can be nominated by the party and that if he withdraws the Republican Senator will be a conservative.

Already the Progressives in Nebraska, as well as in other States, are urging Senator Norris to forego his personal inclinations and stand for renomination. He has not indicated whether he will do so, although those who know him feel that he will end his political career voluntarily in March, 1931. His health has not been the best, and he is tired of political life.

Hoover Avoids Interfering.

President Hoover has been urged by politicians to inject his personality into the West Virginia and Massachusetts tangles in the Republican party and counsel his immediate friends to accept leadership in the State.

It is understood that he has declined to interfere, with the result the conditions are showing no improvement. In West Virginia the request is that he ask his friends to drop their opposition to Senator Goff. He has taken the position that it is a healthy thing to have opposing factions, with all elements in the party seeking the best candidates.

The publication of the reported activity of the Hoover leadership has lessened the open opposition to Senator Goff, although the Old Guard is not certain that he will not be opposed in the primaries. It is not the primary fight that is causing the party leaders concern, but the regular election.

Reports from West Virginia, the leaders say, show great opposition to the party, much feeling existing among the younger Republicans against the Senator. Labor organizations as well as some of the corporations are declared to be favorable to ex-Senator Neely, who will be the Democratic nominee.

POLICEMAN FELLS THREE GANGSTERS

PURSUES IN POLICE CAR

SUBDUES TWO WITH CLUB

During the eighteen months that Patrolman William Boyle has been attached to the West 135d Street station he has craved police adventure and a chance to distinguish himself. He got both yesterday morning.

Boyle was driving a department car down Amsterdam Avenue, near 144th Street. It was 2 o'clock of the Sabbath morning, and it seemed as if about the only thing scheduled to happen was dawn in due time. Then Boyle saw a taxicab coming up the thoroughfare.

The oncoming machine was pursuing an erratic course. It would jump ahead in bursts of speed and then idle back to a crawl. As Boyle passed the taxi he noticed that the man at the wheel wore neither cap, coat nor chauffeur's badge, and that he evidently was totally unfamiliar with the navigation of motors.

Crowds Taxi to Curb.

Boyle turned his machine around and speeded up alongside the vagrant taxicab. He saw that two passengers were in the darkness of the rear seat. The patrolman ordered the driver of the taxicab to halt. The man grinned at him and went on. Boyle crowded the machine to the curb.

The three gangsters in the machine, described by detectives as "terrors" of the West side, could scarcely believe their eyes. Tough as they make them, and long accustomed to having their own way, it came as a shock to have their early morning automobiling interfered with in this way.

Charles Ryan, alias Murtagh, 23 years old, of 463 West Fifty-second Street, gazed in amazement at his pal, Joseph Sanchez, 21, of 422 West Fifty-fifth Street, who in turn cast a look of can-this-be-true at Frank McCarthy, 22, of 535 West Forty-ninth Street.

McCarthy evidently thought the whole affair reality and not a dream, for, according to Boyle's story, he reached for his hip pocket. The patrolman, who had waited a year and a half for just that sort of thing, whipped out his revolver and brought the butt down smartly on McCarthy's head.

Knocks Out Gangster.

The "terror" collapsed. Sanchez and Ryan started for Boyle. The policeman put his revolver away and taking a firm grip on his nightstick put the gangsters out of action before they really got started.

Boyle, complete master of the situation, blew on his whistle for help—apparently he thought the three men too heavy for him to lift alone. Later Ryan, Sanchez and McCarthy were arraigned before Magistrate Dodge in West Side Court. McCarthy faced two charges,—violation of the Sullivan law and the complaint made against his companions, suspicion of assault and robbery. A .32 calibre pistol, with three cartridges in it, was found on the man.

When Boyle reached the station house with his prisoners he learned that an alarm had just been flashed from headquarters for the theft of the taxicab which he had halted. Arthur Knight, a driver for Paramount, had reported that he picked up the three men at Broadway and Forty-seventh Street and was told to drive to 522 West Fifty-second Street.

When he got there he was pulled from his seat and forced into a hallway where McCarthy, pressing a pistol against his ribs, ordered him to raise his hands. Knight said that he attempted to fight and that Sanchez struck and stunned him. After finding that the chauffeur had no money the men drove away in his taxi.

Detective Manning of the West Forty-seventh Street station, who looked the three prisoners over, said they were well known on the west side and that they had a reputation for shooting first and asking questions afterward. Magistrate Dodge complimented Boyle on his alertness and courage.

PRINTER KNOXVILLE MAYOR.

Special to The New York Times.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 15.—James A. Trent, aged 48, a linotype operator, is to be Knoxville's next Mayor, by reason of having received the largest vote of any candidate for City Councilman-at-Large in yesterday's primary election. Trent, already a member of the council, is slated under charter rules and precedent to be the choice of his associates for Mayor.

Trent was on every ticket and received 700 votes more than his nearest rival. Two years ago the situation was reversed, Trent then being low man and winning out in the run-off for Councilman. Mayor James A. Fowler, who led two years ago, came fourth yesterday, barely escaping a run-off.

Union Rebukes New Orleans Carmen.

SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 15 (AP).—Labor union leaders of New Orleans were rebuked yesterday by delegates to the International convention of the Amalgamated Street Car and Electric Railway Employes for their "unwarranted criticism" of W. D. Mahon, president of the association. The convention, in a telegram, said it resented the request of J. Foster, president of the District Labor Council in New Orleans, and others in asking the convention to condemn Mahon for his attitude in a suggested compromise in the New Orleans strike.

THE SCREEN

By MORDAUNT HALL.

Find the Murderer.

A voluble murder mystery, with prolonged court-room scenes and leather-lunged lawyers who bellow and sneer at the witnesses, is now on exhibition at the Colony Theatre. It bears the title of "The Drake Case" and is based on a story by Charles Logue, a veteran scenario writer whose work in this instance is not marked by anything strikingly original. As in other such yarns, this talking film defies one to point to the slayer, and when the burden of evidence is against one character, one is sanguine that she is bound to be cleared toward the close of the proceedings. This idea perhaps causes one to suspect a number of innocent persons of the shooting of the reckless Mrs. Drake.

During one interlude the prosecuting attorney taps on a table with his pencil and as this is stressed in the picture, the sound coming forth almost as loudly as the judge's gavel, it seems like a hint that this attorney is signaling to the defendant who is then on the witness stand. Such a notion, however, is quickly dispelled, for this prosecuting attorney eventually carries on his bullying cross-examination in a merciless fashion.

One of the stereotyped ideas that is not omitted in this effusion is that of having the judge threaten to clear the court room when the spectators give vent to their emotions.

A burglar who swears to "tell the whole truth, and nothing but the truth," after admitting his profession, succeeds in clearing Lulu Marks of the crime. The spectators then signal their approval by cheers and applause, which is countenanced by the judge, who himself is so impressed by the chivalrous burglar's testimony that he instructs the jury to acquit the defendant without leaving the box.

This William Bond, the burglar, also serves to furnish what is esteemed to be comedy. No matter where he is, he thinks that the only place to put his hat is on his head. His testimony is told in the form of a flashback, but it is not until after he leaves the witness stand that the dénouement comes.

Lulu Mark's lawyer is so grateful to this burglar for his testimony that he promises to defend him when he comes up for trial for having entered the home of Mrs. Drake. Bond alludes to all lawyers as "mouthpieces."

The police are given voices that are second in volume only to the lawyers and there are moments when a police captain succeeds in rivalling one of the attorneys.

The late Gladys Brockwell impersonates Lulu Marks. Forrest Stanley officiates as the smirking, thundering prosecutor. Barbara Leonard plays Mrs. Drake's step-daughter and Doris Lloyd is the haughty but unfortunate Mrs. Drake. The gallant burglar is impersonated by Tom Dugan.

Scottish Atmosphere at Roxy.

The Roxy Theatre this week is a scene of Scottish burrs and bagpipes, for besides the picture, "The Black Watch," there is Mr. Rothafel's prologue with kilted performers who, among other songs, give a pleasing rendition of "Loch Lomond."

But the talking film, with Victor McLaglen, and the stage contribution are not the only Scottish features of the program, for there is a movietone subject in which Ramsay MacDonald tells of his hopes to come to this country and discuss the world armament question with President Hoover. In his utterance Premier MacDonald leaves no doubt in one's mind of his Scottish birth, especially when he pronounces "world." In his address he says:

"Both President Hoover and myself would like very much, if it were possible, to lead in a very substantial reduction of the world's armaments. Not that we want to leave you insecure. Not at all. As a matter of fact, we both believe that national security depends far more upon the conditions of peace than upon any equipment of armaments. Still, my friends, you have got your fears and your nerves and you are open to being made victims of stunts and both President Hoover and I must keep that in our minds when we are negotiating. But still I hope that the result will be that I shall be able to go to America later on in the Autumn and that I shall have the great pleasure and honor of meeting President Hoover, talking things over with him, and I hope in the end making a real substantial and final contribution to the problem of armament."

General Dawes is also seen and heard on the screen in part of a speech he made several weeks ago.

'WHY LEAVE HOME?' DIVERTS

Blues-singing, adolescent romance and Sue Carol compose the sound picture on the screen of the Hippodrome, where the musical comedy version of "Cradle Snatchers" is being shown under the nom de cinema of "Why Leave Home?"

The basic idea is the same as that of the play and of the silent motion picture that was made some time ago. The interpretation, including the sumptuous night club setting, with its orchestra platform that spirals into the air and its banks of tables that pile concentrically upward in what resembles the interior of "le cirque," is new and diverting.

The story is about three husbands who have dates with three chorus girls but use duck hunting as an excuse to get away from home. Their wives, believing themselves neglected, engage three college boys to take them out. Much to everyone's surprise, except possibly the audience's, they all go to the same road house. All ensuing complications are happily resolved.

Sue Carol and David Rollins, as a chorus girl and collegiate youth, easily run away with all honors. Miss Carol, a naive youngster in appearance, manages to superimpose her own personality, a very charming one, upon the rôle. Mr. Rollins, as the backward youth who is earning $200 by being an escort for one of the wives, is what several women in the audience called "cute," usually a deadly description, but in this instance an apt compliment.

Miss Carol sings the theme songs of the film very winningly. Her girl friends execute gyrations labeled "Doing the Boom Boom," and there are a lot of college boys that a casting director must have dug up out of a correspondence school, who are just dandy fellows. Most screen collegians seem prototypes of the Rover Boys (afloat), and those in "Why Leave Home?" are no exceptions.

Walter Catlett, who was comedian of many stage musical pieces, is the comic husband. He is also credited with the dialogue, which is usually banal but not bad enough to spoil an amusing photoplay.

Other Photoplays.

What is described as the motion picture of the future will be presented at the Gaiety Theatre tomorrow evening when the Grandeur version of the "Fox Movietone Follies" is projected from an extra-width film on an enlarged screen. The photography in this talking and singing production is said to possess the illusion of depth.

"Living Russia or the Man With the Camera" is the film attraction at the Film Guild Cinema.

"Our Modern Maidens," with Joan Crawford and Douglas Fairbanks Jr., is continuing at the Capitol.

Samuel Goldwyn, motion picture producer, arrived here yesterday from the Pacific Coast and went immediately to the Hastings home of Florenz Ziegfeld, who had just returned from his Canadian camp, to confer about the first Goldwyn-Ziegfeld talking picture, which is expected to go into production in February.

Mr. Goldwyn said the picture had not been definitely selected. Rudolph Friml is writing an original score for him, and he has Evelyn Laye under contract. Miss Laye, an English musical comedy actress, will also appear on the New York stage in Noel Coward's "Bitter Sweet."

Mr. Goldwyn is planning the creation of a yearly award, similar to the Pulitzer Prize in the theatre, to be given to the best motion picture prepared from original material. He said that he had conceived the idea of such a prize some time ago, but that the details of its establishment had not been worked out. Columbia University, which handles the Pulitzer awards, has been approached about the Goldwyn prize.

Mr. Ziegfeld said he would place "Ming Toy," a musical version of "East is West," in rehearsal immediately. Oscar Shaw is the only one so far definitely engaged for it. The producer also has Mr. Friml under contract to write the music of a show for him. Mr. Ziegfeld had planned to present a musical version of "Smilin' Through," but may change his schedule because the motion picture rights of that play are controlled by another producer, which would make it impossible for him to present it later as a picture in association with Mr. Goldwyn.

NIGHT CLUB HILARITY AT PALACE THEATRE

It could be funnier but not much louder this week at the Palace, where is a mélange of almost everything that ordinarily occurs on a vaudeville stage, dominated this time by the noises commonly reckoned to emanate from night clubs and college house parties. The night club industry is represented by Anatole Friedland's revue, including Mr. Friedland, who was once a night club performer himself. The house-party atmosphere is summoned up again, for the third consecutive week, by Horace Heidt and his versatile young men from California. It is all very energetic. It even threatens, in spots, to become something of a strain.

If Charlie Murray, the week's headliner, is not stressed in the bulletin as recorded breathlessly above, it is because Mr. Murray is somewhat less than uproarious in his monologue called "The Brew Breath of Hollywood." As the type of comedians in a naïve day when custard pies went to Hollywood head and were cherished as an art, his act is introduced on the Palace screen by a series of reminiscent poses from his more successful comedies. They suggest, however, a good deal more hilarity than Mr. Murray himself, in the flesh, is able to convey a few moments later in some chatter about life in Hollywood, in the event that any one cares. And whatever amusement was in his act yesterday was evoked, one suspects, largely by certain sentimental memories of "The Life of Riley" and "Lost at the Front."

Dominating the first half of the new bill is the Friedland revue, whose presence in vaudeville is explained by Mr. Friedland in a little song about a recent controversy between his night club and the government. The government, it seems, won the decision, and so here are a number of young women doing specialty numbers and, accordingly, most of the work. Adagio dancers, a singing waiter and others account for the rest, all of which is encouraged from the sidelines by Mr. Friedland. Between this act and Mr. Murray's is Junior Durkin in a one-act play designed to set off the talent which, in last season's "Courage," made him one of the more bearable of the child actors. The play is entitled "The Little Vagabond," and in it Master Durkin is provided with opportunities to be pleasing and sad and coy as occasion admits and to the best of his ability.

In his début on the American vaudeville stage, George Clarke of the London music halls justifies his reputation as a comedian. Perhaps because his act is without the sheer noise which surrounds it, its quiet humor scored decisively with an audience which yesterday had waited until then to laugh. After an interval of one other act he is succeeded, however, by the Horace Heidt band, and the program works toward a conclusion in a collegiate uproar. Faced by a battery of musical instruments, the Heidt orchestra becomes as adept as you could wish with imitations of the California crew, Rudy Vallée, Paul Ash and a broken phonograph. It utters college yells, sings college songs, wears blue sweaters and in this and other phases of the campus madness is undoubtedly an exuberant hit.

Elsewhere on the new program are Rogers and Wynne, a dancing team which introduces two old timers—"mother and dad," they are affectionately called—and is promptly outdone by them. Walter (Dare) Wahl and a partner indulge in some burlesque acrobatics. The Alexander Brothers and Evelyn make a game of tossing rubber balls at each other, and the three Swifts accomplish something of a feat in being funny with Indian clubs. The show is opened by the Seven Nelsons who, clad all in gray, toss each other about with a considerable show of nonchalance.

"The Criminal Code" is now announced to open at the National Theatre on Wednesday, Oct. 2. This play by Martin Flavin will be seen next week at the Broad Street Theatre, Newark, with Arthur Byron heading the cast. The producer, William Harris Jr., will next week begin rehearsals for his revival of "Abraham Lincoln."

The cast of "Escapade," opening at the Fox Boulevard Theatre a week from tonight, includes Erik Barbour, Beverley Bayne, Mary Morris, Frances Dade and France Bendtsen.

Joseph E. Shea, according to announcement, expects to present three plays in New York by Nov. 1. One of them, "The Patriarch," by Boyd Smith, is now being cast for presentation about Oct. 14. Mr. Shea also plans to open a permanent stock company here for the purpose of trying out new plays.

Walter Abel and Beatrice Hendricks have been added to the cast of Louis Weitzenkorn's play, "First Mortgage," which Farnsworth and Hayman are producing.

"Town Boy" is announced for Broadway production the week of Sept. 30. It begins a three days' engagement in New Haven next Monday, playing New Rochelle the latter half of the week.

John Meehan is staging the Robert McLaughlin play, "The Fires of Spring," opening soon in Cleveland. George Nash has been added to the cast.

"The Silver Swan," an operetta tried out in Boston last Spring by Herman Gantvoort, will again be placed in rehearsal next Monday.

"Button, Button," which goes in rehearsal today, is expected to open in New York about the middle of October. Lyans Overman, Alison Skipworth and Frederick Truesdell will head the cast.

Jack Linder, who produced "Diamond Lil," is sponsoring a minstrel show, "The Legionaires," which is booked to open in East Hampton, L. I., on Wednesday. The cast will consist, in the main, of World War veterans.

"Odds and Ends," a vaudeville act using George Gershwin melodies, will be seen at the RKO Hamilton Theatre on Wednesday. Frances Gershwin, sister of the composer, will appear in it.

GRANDEUR PICTURES

TAKE YOU INTO THE FUTURE

TO REVEAL A NEW ERA IN GREATER MOTION PICTURES

For the first time, motion pictures will come to you embracing the infinite detail of Human Vision—equalling the Human Eye in range of width, range of distance and effect of stereoscopic photography, more commonly known as the "Third Dimension."

GRANDEUR does not enlarge motion picture film of ordinary size. It goes far beyond that. Using film twice the width of the present standard, it is the only successful method for photographing scenes of extraordinary dimensions and then projecting them with proportionate scope.

Imagine the treat that awaits you when you see GRANDEUR PICTURES together with FOX MOVIETONE projected on a screen the full width of a theatre stage.

The 20th Century Limited long since ceased to be a "train." It is a daily fleet of trains. In the past year this famous standard bearer of New York Central passenger service has been operated as 2153 trains and has carried 240,000 passengers.

In order that the Century fleet may be of still greater service, it will be operated, on and after September 29, in two divisions—the Advance Century and the Century. This will give two arrival and two departure hours of this famous train in both New York and Chicago.

A new 20-hour train, with complete Century equipment and service, will supplement the Centuries. This de luxe limited, following the Century fleet out of both New York and Chicago, will be named The Commodore Vanderbilt, in honor of the founder of the New York Central Lines.

The popular Wolverine (via Michigan Central), with de luxe equipment, will also be made a 20-hour train in both directions. In addition there will be the early morning 20-hour Fast Mail from Chicago to New York.

This great fleet of nine 20-hour trains will be supplemented by seven trains making the run in 21 hours or less—four from Chicago to New York—Fifth Avenue Special, the Mohawk, Lake Shore Limited, and North Shore Limited (via Michigan Central); and three westbound—North Shore Limited (via Michigan Central), Cleveland Limited, and the Iroquois.

With the inauguration of this additional fast service, the New York Central Lines Great Steel Fleet between New York and Chicago will comprise 34 through Pullman trains—including 16 limiteds making the run in from 20 to 21 hours—greatest fleet of fast long-distance trains operated on any railroad in the world.

W. A. BRADY TO GIVE BERNSTEIN'S 'MELO'

As Equity Member He Will Try to Adjust Disagreements Between English and American Theatres.

William A. Brady, who returned on Friday from a trip to London and Paris, where he went to see about foreign productions of "Street Scene" and to make arrangements for importing St. John Ervine's comedy, "The First Mrs. Fraser," which Grace George will act here, yesterday announced that he had contracted with Henry Bernstein and his company to come to New York to present M. Bernstein's latest play, "Melo," now running in Paris. Mr. Brady said that the play, with a cast including Gaby Morlay, Charles Boyer and Pierre Blanchar, would be shown here on next April 21 under the personal stage direction of the dramatist, who would also appear on the lecture platform in the larger cities. In this venture Mr. Brady will be associated with C. F. Wyn. Charles L. Wagner has already announced his intention of presenting "Melo" here in English.

A Paris production of "Street Scene" is scheduled for the Apollo Theatre on Oct. 30. The play will be acted in French, and its author, Elmer Rice, may go abroad to stage it. Mr. Brady said that "Street Scene" and "Journey's End" would be presented in every European capital this Winter. He claimed that there was at present more interest abroad in the American legitimate theatre than in the American motion picture and that with the advent of audible films the picture people were losing their hold on the foreign market. French producers particularly, he said, were watching the New York stage and eagerly bidding for Broadway successes.

Despite this tendency toward things American, Mr. Brady said that there were serious disagreements existing between the English and American theatres, which should be settled for the good of both.

"At present it is the prevailing notion that the English artist is being barred from the American stage, and one hears talk of retaliatory action on all sides," Mr. Brady said, referring to rules about alien actors which the Actors' Equity Association adopted some time ago.

"I explained to prominent English producers and actors that no such desire existed—that they themselves had brought about the friction that now exists. They answered by admitting the truth of my statement and blaming it on their immigration authorities, who did interfere with our people in some instances. These actions, they claim, were bitterly resented, and combated by the British theatrical associations, and the great majority of the English theatrical profession is anxious that an amicable understading shall be arrived at. As a member of Equity, I volunteered to lay the matter before the association at its next meeting and bring about, if possible, a solution of the international differences."

IRISH THEATRE PLANS TO OPEN IN OCTOBER

Group Seeks Rights to "The Silver Tassie," by Sean O'Casey, For Greenwich Village Theatre.

The Irish Theatre, Inc., which has maintained headquarters at the Cherry Lane Playhouse, has obtained the Greenwich Village Theatre for its activities this season, which are expected to begin about the middle of October. The first production may be "The Silver Tassie," for rights to which the group is now negotiating. The American rights to the Sean O'Casey play are controlled by Arch Selwyn and C. B. Cochran, who have announced it for presentation here.

Other productions contemplated by the Irish Theatre are "Deidre of the Sorrows" and two plays of unannounced authorship dealing with the "Irish-American scene." Micéal Breathnach is director of the group, which has been in existence for about two years and has made productions at the Provincetown Playhouse and American Laboratory Theatre.

Among those announced as patrons and founder members for the forthcoming season are Otto H. Kahn, Mrs. Thomas Lamont, Mrs. John Henry Hammond, Mrs. Ernest Boyd, William Rose Benét, Mrs. Donn Byrne, Mrs. Owen D. Young, Dudley Digges and Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey Olcott.

TELLS BOWERY MEN TO SHUN FREUD

ASSAILS YALE CONFERENCE

Lieut. Col. Wallace Winchell of the Salvation Army delivered a warning yesterday to the men of the Bowery against Freud and the "new psychologists." Speaking at services in the Salvation Army Memorial Hotel at 235 Bowery, he said:

"Beware of the group called 'new psychologists.' They would discard the Bible and discredit a hope of heaven. They would crucify Christ again as did the Pharisees of old Jerusalem. The wrath of the Saviour of the world is well depicted on this class in the twenty-third chapter of the gospel according to St. Matthew. We have just had an international congress of representatives of these cults at Yale during last week.

"To the men of the Bowery—here assembled today—and to the inferiority complex everywhere: The psychiatrists are coming. They are after you. If they are not big men, they are on your trail with big words. They are the intelligentsia—beware of them. Keep out of jail and avoid their hospital treatment.

"Now, my friends on the Bowery, what is going to happen to you when you reach jail or the hospital? You will be taken into a room and be put through various treatments by the psychiatrists. Your first course will be inside and outside baths. This we recommend. Next you will be treated by occupational therapy. If this does not work, you will go through a treatment of psychotherapy. After this, if you are not well, you will come to the favorite whim of the discoverer from Vienna. His specialist will tell you in a superior tone of voice that you are a victim of symptomatology, of psychoneurosis. That this condition must be met with pathological treatment or psychoanalysis. If you have not gone daffy by this time, you will submit to the following:

"You will be interviewed and questioned daily until your complex is discovered. You will be asked in various conversations covering the manifestations of your disorder. You must remember you are to uncover your every event since babyhood. You will be alone with the psychiatrists, away from all distractions noises and bright lights and the lodging houses of the Bowery. In questioning you the drift of your life and personality will be discovered. A chart will be made and you will be tabulated with exhibits. The main work will be to gather your dreams and slurs of language. Then you will be requestioned until the specialist has discovered your repression. Then the next job is to let the caged animals or conflicts loose. There is the difficult thing to be accomplished."

Jeanne Eagels Leaves Hospital.

Jeanne Eagels, stage and screen actress, left St. Luke's Hospital, Amsterdam Avenue and 113th Street, late yesterday afternoon and went to her home on upper Park Avenue. Miss Eagels had been in the hospital several days recuperating from ulcers of the eyes caused by sinus infection.

According to her physician, Dr. Sigmund Manheim of 865 West End Avenue, Mis Eagels was recovering satisfactorily yesterday. If she does not strain her eyes she will be very much improved in a week, he said.

Two Youths Killed in Ohio Flying a Home-Made Plane

FOSTORIA, Ohio, Sept. 15 (AP).—Two Fostoria youths died today of injuries received late yesterday when a home-made monoplane in which they were flying crashed to the ground.

The dead are Melvie Hawkins, aged 17, a senior at the Fostoria High School, and Michael Kimes, 23, an apprentice bricklayer. Kimes died of internal injuries and Hawkins of a fractured skull and internal injuries.

Harold Hickerson, owner and builder of the plane, is reported near a nervous collapse as a result of the accident. He told police that Hawkins, a student aviator, had promised not to take the newly built plane off the ground, but, with Kimes as a passenger, had done so.

The crash came when the plane slipped while making too steep a bank and struck a tree.

HOOVER AND GUESTS AT VIRGINIA RETREAT

MADISON, Va., Sept. 15 (AP).—Cool Autumn weather prevailed today when President Hoover and a party of guests enjoyed what may be the Chief Executive's final visit until next Spring to his fishing retreat at the headwaters of the Rapidan River.

After a quiet night in the sharp coolness of the mountains, the guests and their hosts spent the day in a variety of diversions—with hiking, horseback riding and horseshoe pitching occupying a large part of the time.

Mr. Hoover, however, has not given relaxation full sway on the trip, and the party was not far on its way yesterday when he began a series of conferences that continued into today. Mrs. Hoover left the Presidential car soon after Washington was left behind and Chairman McNary of the Senate Agriculture Committee and Colonel William J. Donovan, former Assistant Attorney General, joined Mr. Hoover.

Senator McNary's committee has summoned members of the Federal Farm Board for hearings Friday to consider their confirmation, and rumblings of opposition to several, particularly Chairman Legge, have been heard in the Senate. It was expected that this situation would be discussed by the President with Mr. McNary during the week-end.

The Chief Executive, as usual, plans to leave his camp early tomorrow morning in time to arrive at the White House soon after the business day begins.

L. Lawrence Weber has taken over the management of "Her Friend the King," the play by A. E. Thomas and Harrison Rhodes, in which William Faversham will star. The play was first announced for production by C. William Morgenstern and Antrim Short, but was withdrawn because of financial difficulties.

Mr. Weber will retain the original cast, which has been rehearsing under the direction of F. Gatenby Bell. Besides the star, it includes Helen Freeman, Hugh Sinclair, Charles Esdale and Robert Noble. "Her Friend the King" is booked to open in Washington on Sept. 30.

RIGA CHIEF RABBI COMING.

Rabbi Joseph Isaac Schnayerson, chief rabbi of the dynasty of Lebawitzer Rabbis, the rabbinical centre of which is in Riga, Latvia, is due to arrive tomorrow on the steamship France.

The Union of Orthodox Rabbis of the United States and Canada has issued, under the caption of "A Hearty Welcome to One of the Greatest Jews of the Ages," a call to its members to extend all courtesies to the visitor.

Permission has been received from Washington for Rabbi Schnayerson and his suite to leave the liner at Quarantine and proceed by private boat to Pier A, in Battery Park, where he will be met by the committee of welcome.

The visit of Rabbi Schnayerson is understood to be designed to consolidate the several hundred Chasidic synagogues and Chasidic groups of Jewry in this country and Canada and also to confer with leaders of Jewry concerning orthodox Jewish institutions of learning in Europe.

SAN PEDRO, Cal., Sept. 15 (AP).—The Norwegian whaling ships, C. A. Larson and Sir James Clark Ross, arrived here today to load provisions for Commander Byrd's Antarctic expedition prior to sailing for South Island, New Zealand, and thence 3,000 miles to the ice barrier.

Lieutenant Harry Adams, a navigation officer of the expedition, arrived here yesterday and will sail with the provision ships.

The vessels also will carry motion picture films, books, phonograph records and letters to the men stationed on the fringe of the unexplored polar region. Thirty days will be required for the trip to South Island, and another forty days for the last part of the journey, Lieutenant Adams said.

ELMIRA, N. Y., Sept. 15 (AP).—One man was killed and three others injured in two airplane crashes in the vicinity of Elmira today.

William Schieffen, a passenger in a ship flown from Hungerford Field, lost his life and the pilot, Lawrence B. Schieve, suffered a fractured arm and other injuries when the plane fell.

Another airplane, piloted by Malcolm G. Dunlop of Rochester, operating out of the Elmira airport, bumped the trees in an orchard here and crashed. Dunlop was only slightly hurt, and two passengers escaped with minor bruises.

CITY LAW IS ASKED TO CURB LOUD RADIOS

Fifty Persons Sign Petition to Wynne to Alter Sanitary Code to Deal With "Radio Rowdies."

About fifty persons residing in the five boroughs have petitioned Health Commissioner Wynne to have incorporated in the city's sanitary code a provision for the prosecution of those who keep their radio loud-speakers going late at night. The petitioners assert that their nerves have been shattered and their health impaired because of the insistent sounds of neighbors' radio loud-speakers.

The resolution which the Board of Health is asked to adopt and incorporate in the sanitary code reads as follows:

"Noise from radio loud-speakers or any mechanical device, machine, apparatus or instrument for the reproduction, the intensification or the amplification of the human voice or other sound.—No person owning, occupying or having charge of any building or premises shall keep or allow thereon or therein any radio loud-speaker * * * which shall disturb the quiet or repose of any person therein or in the vicinity, to the detriment of the life or health of such person."

According to the petition, many nervous break-downs have been caused by the radio during the last few years. The continuation of the loud-speaker nuisance in this city, the petition continues, where there are a large number of "radio rowdies," makes it imperative for the Board of Health to enact and enforce legislation which will deal with this nuisance specifically.

Those signing the petition are described as individuals "who are not only annoyed and disturbed by the loud-speaker but who are kept in continuous turmoil and excitement and whose health is undermined" because of the nuisance they seek to eliminate.

According to Robert Grimshaw, attorney for the petitioners, the cooperation of Commissioner Whalen and Chief Magistrate McAdoo will be sought to insure prompt arrest and prosecution of offenders.

FRANKLIN MEDALS ARE ACQUIRED HERE

Dr. A. S. W. Rosenbach, rare book collector and dealer here and in Philadelphia, has purchased from Thomas L. Elder a collection of 126 medals commemorative of Benjamin Franklin and various events in his life, it was announced yesterday.

According to Mr. Elder, it is the largest and finest collection of Franklin medals ever brought together. Mr. Elder spent more than twenty years assembling the collection and for several of the rarer pieces, which were struck during Franklin's life, a hunt of several years was necessary.

One of the rarer medals was made by the engraver Mossop in England about the time that Oxford University conferred the degree of LL. D. upon Franklin in honor of his scientific and philosophical studies in 1762. The medal shows a fine profile of Franklin facing to the left, wearing an ample wig.

Another rarity is the Nini plaque in pottery, dated 1777, and made in France while Franklin was there as a commissioner from this country during the Revolution. Franklin is portrayed wearing his large fur cap, characteristic of many early portraits. Several fine medals were engraved by Dupré and Duvivier, who became close friends of Franklin during the time he was in Paris.

An English medal shows a full-face portrait, wearing a cloth cap, with the titles LL. D. and O. F. R. S. after his name. This evidently was struck in honor of his election as a Fellow of the Royal Society soon after Oxford conferred its honorary degree. The reverse shows a tree being struck by lightning, an illustrative reference to his electrical experiments, followed by the Latin inscription, "Non Irrita Fulmina Curat." The medal bears the date 1774. It is one of the earliest Franklin medals.

Another early medal bears the date 1776 and depicts Franklin wearing a scarf around his neck, while on the reverse is a beaver gnawing a tree, with the inscription "Tyranny Repell'd. Lightning Averted."

Another medal of the Revolutionary period has the double portraits of Franklin and Washington on the obverse, while the reverse shows a portion of the globe on which the United States, as it existed at that time, is outlined.

In addition to the medals the collection includes an interesting variety of old tokens issued by many local merchants. Several were made by the early firm of Wright & Bale, which engraved a large number of American medals including some of the earliest of Henry Clay and Daniel Webster.

Several trade tokens which passed for currency during the Civil War show the head of Benjamin Franklin, with some of his maxims encouraging thrift, one carrying the phrase "A Penny Saved Is a Penny Earned." In many cases portraits of Civil War generals appear on the medals, with a Franklin maxim on the reverse.

MAYOR TO SEE WEST POINT.

Accepts Invitation for Visit and Review of Corps Wednesday.

Mayor Walker has accepted the invitation of Major Gen. William R. Smith, superintendent of the West Point Military Academy, to visit that institution Wednesday. The tour of inspection will be completed by a review of the cadet corps.

The visit will be the first a Mayor of New York ever has paid officially to the Academy, Mayor Walker said in announcing his acceptance. It will also be Mayor Walker's first visit there.

The trip to the academy will be made up the Hudson on William Todd's yacht, the Salemo. The party will arrive about 2 P. M., and will be met by General Smith, Colonel W. K. Wilson, executive officer, and Colonel Sherburne Whipple, adjutant.

After the review of the corps cadets whose home are in New York will be presented to the Mayor.

DOCTORS TO STUDY NERVOUS PROBLEMS

SOCIAL WORKERS INVITED

Lectures by Leading Physicians and Clinical Demonstrations to Be Held Oct. 7 to 19.

The importance of mental factors in modern medical practice was stressed yesterday by Dr. Linsly R. Williams, director of the New York Academy of Medicine, in an analysis of the work the academy hopes to accomplish through its fortnight of study and discussion, to be held from Oct. 7 to 19.

These sessions, open to all physicians, medical students and social workers, without charge, will be devoted to lectures and clinical demonstrations which come under the subject, "Functional and Nervous Problems in Medicine and Surgery."

As previously announced, many of the foremost physicians and neurologists will contribute to the meetings, lecturing on their specialties, with particular emphasis on the mental aspect of the treatment of disease.

"Modern medicine is coming to embrace constantly in mind that the whole patient is sick; not merely the heart or the liver," Dr. Williams said.

"In many instances, particularly in such diseases as tuberculosis, the emotional factors of the case are quite as important as the physical. Often the ability to change the mental attitude of the patient toward himself and the world is more necessary than a knowledge of how to treat him for his ailment."

He illustrated the increased interest of physicians in this aspect of treatment with the statement that in 1928 more patients entered American hospitals for treatment of mental and nervous disorders than for all other ills combined. He grouped those treated as follows:

"The large number of nervous and mental cases," he continued, "may not be due to an increase in these disorders, but perhaps rather to the growing knowledge that they respond well to early treatment, and more persons are seeking hospital care for prevention as well as cure. As a result, those variations from the normal which formerly were allowed to progress to the point of positive diseases are brought earlier to the attention of the physician."

JACK NOONAN SEIZED HERE ON THEFT CHARGE

Jack Noonan, former junior lightweight champion of the Marine Corps, and brother of Sally O'Neill and Mollie O'Day, motion picture stars, was arrested yesterday at the telegraphed request of Sheriff William Traeger of Los Angeles, informing the police here of two indictments charging burglary and receiving stolen goods recently returned against him in that city.

Noonan, who described himself as a son of the late New Jersey Supreme Court Justice Thomas F. Noonan, emphatically denied the charges, and said his difficulties to an unnamed Hollywood actor and a studio attaché, who, he said, asked him to keep the property he is charged with stealing, and which was found in his room. He said he had learned that they had used his name in selling other property.

The property, which consisted of fur coats and costumes, was owned by Ted Lewis, the orchestra leader, who was the complainant. Noonan was the technical director of "The Patent Leather Kid," in which his sister, Mollie O'Day appeared with Richard Barthelmess. He is very much upset, he says, at the possible effect on his sisters' careers of the publicity attending his arrest.

When arrested, Noonan threatened to do some "loud talking" when he returns to California. He did not explain what he meant.

DR. BECK DECLARES CHURCH IS DECLINING

"Ghosts of the Past Are All That Keep Christianity Together Today," He Asserts.

HE SEES A NEW IDEALISM

The Creative Minds That Formerly Were Within the Fold Now Are Outside It, He Says.

"Ghosts of the past are all that keep Christianity together today," said Dr. Gustav F. Beck, director of the Labor Temple School, in his sermon, "The Decline of Christianity," yesterday morning at the West Side Unitarian Church, 110th Street, near Broadway. The address was the first of a series of four.

"What has given the Catholic Church its enormous hold through the ages?" Dr. Beck asked, and then answered, "The Church has understood the one great secret; it has seen that its religious teachings should accompany the whole of human life from the moment of birth to death. Catholicism is an attempt to humanize religion entirely. The Catholic Church has always known how to remain in touch with unchanging human psychology.

"Organization keeps no church together," continued Dr. Beck. "Organization is the enemy of religion. A movement set in after the fifteenth century on the crest of which we are living today, marking the decline of the Church. The Catholic Church no longer produces art. Where are the Catholic scientists and humanists of today? Where are the people who appreciated these deep human factors? Why are they no longer in the Church? Today the creative minds are outside the Church. The world has been made to believe that Jesus was a Jewish agitator. All the idealism has been taken out of it."

In conclusion, Dr. Beck pointed out that that idealism is not dead. It has changed hands, but is still very much alive, he said.

The Rev. J. R. Langstaff Urges an Attitude of Moderation.

An attitude of moderation in consideration of the current labor disturbances in the South was urged yesterday by the Rev. John Brett Langstaff in his sermon at the Grace Episcopal Church, Broadway and Tenth Street, on the topic "Gastonia."

"Among the conglomerate congregation that gathered around the outdoor pulpit of Grace Church this Summer there were always some who showed a restlessness when loyalty to the State was urged in prayer or sermon," he said. "The Church must answer this restlessness with a clear note that God is working through the governments of this world toward the establishment of a Kingdom of God which will in due time cease to be a restraining influence from without and by a process of assimilation become a strengthening power from within.

"The efficiency of our American Government, as James Bryce pointed out, rests on its system of checks and balances. Let the established power, therefore, welcome with patience even such a check as has come in recent months from North Carolina, and, on the other hand, let the minority opposition accept as God's will the balancing of its rights with the rights of the brotherhood. The Church does not suggest the compromise of justice on either side, but the Church boldly declares that sacrifice is the basic note of freedom."

PASTOR INSTALLED BY SCARSDALE CHURCH

Newly Formed Congregation Gets $20,000 Gift to Buy Site for Lutheran Edifice.

SCARSDALE, N. Y., Sept. 15.—The Rev. Russell F. Auman was installed as pastor of the newly organized Lutheran Church of the Redeemer here this morning by the Rev. Dr. Samuel Trexler, president of the United Synod of New York, who also announced the gift of $20,000 by Dr. and Mrs. Frank A. Schmidt for the purchase of a site for the church building at Murray Hill and Port Hill roads. Dr. and Mrs. Schmidt, who moved to Scarsdale from New York a year and a half ago, are members of this congregation, which at present worships in the Masonic Hall. Dr. Trexler was assisted in the service by the Rev. James Berg, synodical mission superintendent.

"We are living," said Dr. Trexler, "in an age of increasing specialization. In all vocations men are hewing to the line so closely that they are in danger of losing further perspective.

"Curiously enough, in the work of the Christian ministry the tendency lies in the opposite direction. Everywhere spiritual leaders are leaving the pulpit and the confessional in order to embrace a wider and more extensive ministry.

MGR. O'KEEFE TRANSFERRED

Makes Farewell Address in Church Where He Was Pastor 40 Years.

Monsignor Thomas M. O'Keefe, for forty years pastor of the Roman Catholic Church of St. Benedict the Moor in West Fifty-third Street, made his last appearance as pastor of that church for a short address of farewell after the 11 o'clock mass yesterday morning. He will assume the pastorate of St. Patrick of Bordeaux in West 141st Street this week.

Father O'Keefe told the congregation that the change was not of his asking, but that he had been ordered to St. Charles by Cardinal Hayes. He sketched briefly the changes that have taken place during his years in the parish, and asked that the work of the little church, the congregation of which is now a mixture of negroes and whites, be continued. Many of its old parishioners still attend regularly although they have left the neighborhood for other less thickly tenemented districts in the city, he said.

Says Better World Will Come Through Better Men, Not Laws

"Personalities are everything; policies and principles explain nothing without personalities," the Rev. Dr. Lewis S. Mudge of Philadelphia said in a sermon yesterday morning at the West End Presbyterian Church, 105th Street and Amsterdam Avenue.

"We need Hague tribunals, international covenants, disarmament conferences, Kellogg pacts and Leagues of Nations, but above all we need men and women with personalities," he continued. "We can't make the world better by better laws, but by better men and women."

He gave as the prime requisites of men goodness, beauty and truth and said that "it is one thing to possess truth and another thing to be possessed by truth."

"Some of our most orthodox people are the most useless," Dr. Mudge said. "In addition to being loyal to the tenets of our church, the creeds of the church must hold us."

HOLDS GAY PARTIES UNDERMINE CHURCH

Also Declares Children Do Not Get Proper Religious Training—Dr. Ribourg Assails Materialism.

The development of the social custom of the "week-end" was cited as one of the chief causes of a modern disintegration of Protestantism by the Rev. Dr. Selden P. Delaney, rector of the Episcopal Church of St. Mary the Virgin, in a sermon yesterday at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine.

"Protestantism," he said, "is disintegrating before our eyes. Any one who knows intimately the religious situation in this country cannot escape the conclusion that the future of Protestantism is very precarious.

"One of the most potent causes is the striking development during the past decade or so of the institution known as the week-end. It has become a commonly accepted axiom with millions of Protestants that the week-end is to be spent in some sort of outing or pleasure.

"As they have never been taught that there was any sort of obligation binding upon them to attend church on Sunday, church-going has simply ceased to have a place in their lives. The religious havoc wrought by the week-end has been greatly accelerated by the radio. If the only reason for going to church is to listen to a sermon, as most Protestants have always believed, then why take the trouble to go to church if you can hear a sermon over the radio while sitting in a comfortable chair at home or lying in bed?

"Another cause of the growing weakness of Protestantism is the fact that the children of most Protestant parents are receiving an entirely secular education.

"The third cause that is undermining the strength of Protestantism is that it is becoming honeycombed by skeptical modernism."

In a sermon at the cathedral during the afternoon the Rev. Dr. Albert E. Ribourg, rector of St. Andrew's Episcopal Church, asserted that the wider range of modern life required a stronger religious motive.

"This larger life," he said, "requires a stronger religious motive and purpose to control it if it is not to become very worldly, even mean and sordid. With advancing facilities desire enlarges. We want to live faster, to see more, to possess and enjoy more. There is no limit to desire. It is very evident that the enlarged facilities of modern life have raised in a new and acute form the problem of care for the morrow."

URGES SELF-APPRAISAL.

Comparing the return of his congregation to church after the Summer vacation with the return of the Jews to Jerusalem after their years of exile, the Rev. Dr. Walter Duncan Buchanan, pastor of the Broadway Presbyterian Church, 114th Street and Broadway, said in his sermon yesterday:

"This should be a time of new stocktaking, of new plans, of renewed enthusiasm and zeal on behalf of the Church. We are thankful to the Divine Providence for guiding us back to our Jerusalem, this church of God, as it guided the Jews back to their holy city after their years of wandering in the wilderness."

DEPLORES "COLD" RELIGION

"Religion should not be approached in a too cold intellectual manner, but should be served by the emotions as well as the mind," declared the Rev. Paul L. Buffa in his sermon yesterday morning at the Church of St. John the Baptist, Lorillard Place and East 151th Street. The sermon was in Italian.

"Men do not act solely by reason," the Rev. Mr. Buffa said, "and the impelling force of emotion is needed to fulfill the brain God has given them. But beyond emotion and reason lies a third quality, variously termed: vitality, life-force, spirituality, which the Church calls the soul."

Finds Rote Makes Church Inert.

Church membership is held too cheaply and acquired too easily, the Rev. C. B. Nordland, secretary of the National Bible Institute, asserted yesterday in a sermon delivered in the auditorium of the Institute at 240 West Fifty-fifth Street. "As a result weeds of indifference and inertia have grown up within the church garden," he said. "The times call for a free and hearty wielding of the hoe of righteousness that they may no longer stifle the growth of the spiritual body of Christ."

CHURCH DEDICATED BY CARDINAL HAYES

He Blesses St. Elizabeth's and Praises Father Stewart for Achievement of Building It.

PRESIDES AT HIGH MASS

Cardinal Hayes dedicated the new Norman Gothic granite edifice, cloister and rectory of the Church of St. Elizabeth, at the southwest corner of Wadsworth Avenue and 187th Street, yesterday morning and praised the Rev. William J. Stewart, the pastor, for his achievement in erecting the structures. The church and other buildings irrespective of the site, cost $750,000. The old red brick St. Elizabeth's edifice, which has served sixty years, is just a block away, at Broadway and 187th Street.

The Cardinal, as several thousand looked on, blessed the exterior of the buildings, sprinkling holy water on their foundations, and he also blessed the interior. A solemn high mass of thanksgiving followed at which Cardinal Hayes presided and at the close of which he imparted the Apostolic benediction. The big church was filled, many standing.

Father Stewart himself was the celebrant of the mass and Mgr. John F. Brady, pastor of the Church of St. Francis de Sales, preached the sermon. The Rev. Charles J. Finnegan, pastor of St. James Church, was the deacon and the Rev. Charlton J. H. Burns of the Church of the Holy Spirit, the Bronx, was subdeacon of the mass. Both were formerly assistants at St. Elizabeth's. The Rev. Cornelius V. Hayes, first assistant to Father Stewart, was master of ceremonies.

"Before imparting to you the final benediction I rise for a moment to express to you in some small, poor way the sentiments that fill my soul at this time," said Cardinal Hayes. "I have been more than inspired this morning as I beheld this majestic temple. It ranks with the very best we have in the archdiocese of New York.

"Therefore I accept this Church of St. Elizabeth and welcome it as a new part of the chain which links together all the churches that form the archdiocese of New York, all our Catholic churches in America, and all the basilicas throughout the world under the supreme shepherd, the Holy Father in the Holy City.

"I am sure you are not a wealthy people as wealth goes today. So this new church is not built by the gifts of a few but by a multitude who have a wealth of faith.

"Here in this age, frenzied in its desire for the sensual, at a time when evil forces are beleaguring the very battlements of the church and stoning the rock of St. Peter, instead of your being led away your face is turned toward the eternal hills. You are not going the way of the flesh and the devil. This church is your argument. Through it your voice will ring out here in our imperial city in this great nation that you believe in God, that you believe in Christ."

DR. POOLE SEES NEED OF AMERICAN PROPHETS

America's greatest need today is prophets with creative imagination, according to the Rev. Dr. William C. Poole of Christ Church, London, who occupied the pulpit yesterday morning of the Marble Collegiate Church, Fifth Avenue and Twenty-ninth Street.

In a sermon entitled "The Rapture of the Forward View" Dr. Poole scored cynicism as the worst evil of the day and stated that the world must learn to have the same faith in spiritual things that it has in material.

"During the next sixty days," he said, "many great things may take place. The leaders of two great nations are to meet to discuss naval reduction and there will be many in the world who will pass the meeting up cynically as just so much more talk. Let us who are here today try to take another attitude; let us try to believe. For only in belief can the world progress.

"Nations and individuals mut learn to have faith in the ability of God to successfully run the world. We must learn that every undertaking that He enters upon He has the ability to consummate. There is belief today that the Lord could take care of the world in every century except the present one; but that no spiritual being, no matter how omnipotent, can control a world that has become so complex as the present one. It is this belief in the material, and the cynicism which is our greatest evil, that we must overcome.

"There is nothing that is done in science today that we cannot believe, yet in the realm of spiritual efforts we are skeptical. We must learn to believe, as the Bible teaches, that behind every mirage, whether it be physical or spiritual, there is a real lake. America's greatest need today is for prophets with creative imagination; leaders who can see not only the material sordidness of the day, but also the spiritual light and can bring the rapture of the forward view."

GRATITUDE HELD BASIC.

The Rev. H. M. J. Klein Calls It Fundamental in Christian.

"Civilization is the building of certain dikes against the forces of primitive instinct. These dikes are the home, the school, church and State," said the Rev. H. M. J. Klein, preaching yesterday morning at the Middle Collegiate Reformed Church, Second Avenue at Seventh Street. Dr. Klein discussed gratitude as a fundamental Christian trait.

"When you speak of an ungrateful Christian," he said, "you have an impossible combination. It is just a bit disappointing to find how little gratitude there is in the Old Testament outside of the Psalms. They were grateful for victory in war and for other physical things, but seldom for spiritual gifts. In the New Testament this major note is struck more forcibly."

Self-Centred Love Is Called Most Hopeless of Mockeries

Self-centred love is the "most heartless and hopeless of all mockeries," the Rev. Thomas H. Wheipley, pastor of the Chelsea Presbyterian Church, 214 West Twenty-third Street, asserted in his sermon there yesterday.

"A man who is deeply in love with a woman thinks of her every hour of the day, and there is no more certain sign of love's decay than the dying out of gentle and sweet thoughtfulness," he said. "It is not long before a woman detects that sign, and it is the unuttered tragedy of countless lives. It is the mainspring that keeps the divorce court in motion. A home whose thoughts are governed by love is enabled to withstand unuttered tragedy and deepened sorrow."

ADVISES SOLITUDE TO ATTAIN RELIGION

CITES STORY OF ZACHEUS

Meetings With Jesus Were Very Casual, Not by Appointment, He Points Out.

"The man in the crowd" will seek solitude to find religion, and having found it will return to the crowd to aid those who have not experienced the benefits of religious faith, according to the Rev. Dr. Charles R. Brown, Dean Emeritus of Yale Divinity School, who preached yesterday morning at the Collegiate Reformed Church of St. Nicholas, Fifth Avenue and Forty-eighth Street.

"The man who seeks religion will get away from the subway crowds, the moving-picture theatres, the floor of the Stock Exchange, and the society reception where each one is talking at the top of his lungs to be heard above the din of others talking at the tops of their lungs," Dr. Brown said.

"The meetings of men and women with Jesus were very casual. They were not made on appointment. When Jesus was once passing through Jericho on his way from Galilee to Jerusalem he found crowds gathered along the road to see the great prophet. In the crowd was a small man who was striving to look at Jesus, but none would make way for him because he was a much loathed and despised person in Jericho. He was a tax collector, a publican, a wealthy man. This man, whose name was Zacheus, climbed a tree and peering out through the foliage was able to have a view of the Master.

"But Jesus saw him and told him to come down. Together they went to Zacheus's house to eat. The people sneered to see Jesus accept an invitation to dine with one whom they did not respect. They were bigoted, just as those were who criticized Theodore Roosevelt for breaking bread with Booker T. Washington and Mrs. Hoover for entertaining at tea some time ago the wife of the only negro in Congress.

"What did Jesus and Zacheus talk about? Not the weather or the business conditions in Jericho, but religion. And after they had talked Zacheus saw the truth of Jesus's words and he promised to make restitution fourfold to all from whom he had taken wrongfully and to give half his wealth to charity. Then he went back to the crowd to help those in need."

SEES UNBELIEF AS A HELL.

Dr. Aldrich Says Nothing Can Cause Greater Suffering.

There can be no physical or mental hell equal to the remorse and emptiness which a person feels when he has shut God out of his life and when he realizes that he has only his own feet to stand on, the Rev. Donald B. Aldrich declared yesterday in his sermon at the Protestant Episcopal Church of the Ascension, Fifth Avenue, between Tenth and Eleventh Streets. Dr. Aldrich, who is rector of the church, preached his first sermon yesterday since returning from his summer vacation at Cape Cod, Mass.

"Our times have changed, but not our needs," he continued, "and Jesus still answers our every problem today, just as he did thousands of years ago. What we need today is to realize that Jesus is not some impersonal figure but a man who can be our friend in every undertaking we may make. True understanding of Jesus will make us all a better people because if we want and strive for what He strove for we will be in tune with the will of life and with the will of God."

The person who is dogmatic, Dr. Aldrich said, forgets that Jesus does not need to be defended; he has to be presented. Without Jesus life would make no sense at all, for persons who do not know him are merely chasing up blind alleys and are on a "spiritual wild-goose chase." Without him we are as the ancient world was.

DEPLORES 'URBANIZED' LIFE

Urbanized civilization has increased the complexity of the task of religious workers, the Rev. John Walter Houck, pastor of the Pilgrim Congregational Church, Grand Concourse and 176th Street, the Bronx, said yesterday in his sermon there.

"The older objectives of a more rustic religious days became less and less vital in our high-pitched urban life," said Dr. Houck. "The newer objectives of our machinal age are heightening man's possessive rather than creative powers—a glorifying of things and a toning down of personality. Indeed, in America we do not know our own minds religiously. We waste precious energies on the things we think we want, and when we get them we discover that we do not want them. Our increased powers of achieving and earning seem to impoverish our inner craving for an enlarged selfhood. When things become paramount the inner sources of self-improvement must shrivel and die."

ASSERTS ARABS FAIL TO UNDERSTAND JEW

Dr. Fraser Says They Think Wrongly That Zionists Are Agents of England.

FINDS STRIFE INEVITABLE

"Can Jews Be Happy in Palestine," was the subject of the sermon delivered by the Rev. Dr. John Falconer Fraser at the Central Baptist Church, Amsterdam Avenue and Ninety-second Street, yesterday.

"The Zionist movement is one of the strangest in history," said Dr. Fraser. "The present situation is but a recurrence of what has been going on through centuries when armies have marched through the land. It is the most anomalous land in all the world: the most barren and the most fertile; the land of wars and the land of the Prince of Peace.

"The Jews will never be happy without Palestine, for it is a spiritual ideal with them. Israel has never given up. Its fulfillment of the sayings of its prophets, the Jews were driven from their land. They lost their nationality but never their identity, and now is it any wonder they look to the final fulfillment.

"The Arab sees in the Jew, not the descendant of Abraham, but a foreigner who, by reason of capital and political design of Great Britain, is tapping resources he never tapped and reaping the benefits of modern agriculture and education. The Arab sees 500 years of possession greater than 4,000 of history and tradition, and he has the sympathy of all Islam.

"How is it with the rest of the world? Christian concern and sympathy is with the Jew, for the simple reason that the world owes much to the Jew and little to Islam.

"Can the Jews be happy economically in Palestine? If you leave opinion to the impression of the untutored mind, the answer is 'no.' There are at present not more than 170,000 Jews in Palestine. They make up 78 per cent of the population. I traveled with a family of upper-class Jews from New York on their way to Jerusalem from Port Said. They conversed continually on the poor appearance of the land. On the other hand, I have seen grape vines and olive trees in the monastery near the Church of the Nativity, at Bethlehem, that argued for the old belief in the fertility of the soil."

FINDS RELIGIOUS LIFE IS BASED ON THOUGHT

"Is any one the better for the way you lived the past week?" asked the Rev. A. T. Bennett-Haines, of St. Paul's, Knightsbridge, London, in his sermon at the Church of St. Mary the Virgin, 139 West Forty-sixth Street, yesterday morning.

"The Church is Christ's body, and you as a part of the Church are incorporated into that body and have just as much responsibility for your neighbor as the priest at the altar.

"You and I are the means by which the Lord's Prayer is to be carried out. It isn't enough to say a prayer. Prayer is not a labor-saving device. After we have done our very best God makes up to us what we are lacking. Some people seem to expect Christianity to present to them a cut and dried solution of every personal, domestic, social, business, civic or national problem.

"God gives us the principles to resolve these problems. He expects us to use the brains he has given us to apply His eternal principles to the emergency of the moment."

DR. JEFFERSON BEGINS 32D YEAR IN CHURCH

Broadway Tabernacle, Which He Leaves Next Year, Hears His Sermon on Basis of Christianity.

The Rev. Dr. Charles E. Jefferson began his thirty-second year as pastor of the Broadway Tabernacle Congregational Church, Broadway at Fifty-sixth Street, when he preached there yesterday morning. Dr. Jefferson resigned his pastorate last May to take effect on his seventieth birthday, Aug. 29, 1930. He came to the Broadway Tabernacle from the Central Congregational Church of Chelsea, Mass., in 1898.

"Religion—has it a solid basis, or is it only philosophy or science that has a rock foundation?" Dr. Jefferson said. "The first problem of the builder of skyscrapers is the question of an adequate foundation. Everything depends on that foundation, and what is true in the physical world is true in the spiritual world. It has been said that Christianity is founded on a book. That idea is false; Christianity is founded on a person, not on the New Testament or any other book.

"Religion has just as solid a foundation as philosophy, science and art, for the mind of Jesus is impressed upon the human race and will be there forever."

SCORES FORMS OF PIETY.

Mgr. Lavelle Urges Greater Stress on Nearness to God.

Mgr. Michael J. Lavelle asked his congregation yesterday at St. Patrick's Cathedral at the 10 A. M. service not to be merely pious but to take God into their hearts as they would their mothers and fathers.

"We naturally and spontaneously love everything which is beautiful, everything which is good, and everything which is true," Mgr. Lavelle said. "We love those who love us. And all the gifts of our existence are evidences of His love."

We too often go through mere forms of piety, he asserted, when we could attain a love of God which would ease every misfortune and make every event of our lives something for which to be grateful.

BRINGING CATSKILL WATER TO GROWING NEW YORK

Over 20 miles of new water tunnel are now being constructed by the Department of Water Supply of New York City. The Tunnel will extend from Hillside Reservoir in Yonkers to Hamilton Avenue and Hicks Street in Brooklyn, carrying augmented water supply to fast growing Queens and Brooklyn boroughs.

Passing under the Bronx and Queens, the tunnel will burrow twice under the Bronx River, and once under the East River—at Riker's Island—under Newtown Creek, and under Wallabout Canal.

To excavate this tunnel, which will lie 500 feet below water level, 17 construction shafts will be sunk. Some of the shafts will be nearly 800 feet deep.

Over 20,000 horse power of electricity (the equivalent of an army of 180,000 men) is being used for operating air-compressing machines, for excavating rock, for sinking shafts, raising and lowering material, and for mixing and pouring the concrete with which the tunnel will be lined.

Owing to electricity's aid, less than three years will be required for completion of this great project.

WHEAT IS SOLD ON WEATHER NEWS

OPEN INTEREST IS HIGHER

CHICAGO, Sept. 14.—Rains in Argentina were taken as of sufficient importance by the trade to start a general selling movement in wheat. The selling was credited to Eastern large local holders and in the last few days it lowered prices 4 cents from the high point of Thursday and made a close ¼ cent higher to ¼ cent lower for the week. September finished at $1.34⅜, December $1.42¾ to $1.42⅝, March $1.47¼ to $1.47¾ and May $1.51⅞ to $1.51½.

Marketing in Canada has been rapid in the last month with 48,510,000 bushels sold by farmers in the three Western Provinces, compared with 33,400,000 bushels for the same period last year.

Although the cash basis on wheat has improved in all markets, owing to decreased receipts the congestion at storage points, with continued absence of a good milling and export demand, has placed the market in a position where constant support is needed on every break, and there is more bearishness among the trade.

The indisposition on the part of the majority of the speculators to sell wheat short and stand on their lines and the absence of a bear leader are causing many traders to lose faith in the immediate prospects for an advance. This keeps prices within a range of around 5 to 6 cents.

The Federal Farm Board is to make an investigation as to why Canadian wheat is selling higher than American. Many explanations are offered. One is that the quality of Manitoba or Canadian hard Spring wheat is considered better, and a small crop this year enabled it to command higher premiums. Pool operations and non-interference on the part of speculative traders in Winnipeg are also offered as contributing to put Canadian wheat at a higher level than American. The close of December wheat in Winnipeg on Saturday was $1.54⅞ and May $1.60¼, compared with $1.42¼ and $1.51½ for the same deliveries in Chicago.

Primary receipts this week, 11,397,000 bushels; previous week 12,040,000 bushels; last year, 18,087,000 bushels. Shipments for the week, 7,744,000 bushels; previous week, 9,041,000 bushels; last year, 11,004,000 bushels.

HIGHER CORN PRICES OFFSET SMALL YIELD

CHICAGO, Sept. 14.—Corn prices are 25 to 26 cents higher than last year, which partly offsets the loss of nearly 400,000 bushels in production. A large percentage of traders, however, consider the corn statistical situation as extremely bullish, as prospects for total supply for the season, with a carry-over of about 145,000,000 bushels including the visible supply, will make 2,600,000,000 bushels available.

The total available in 1924-25 was 2,426,000,000 bushels and cash corn in Chicago between July 1, 1924, and March 31, 1925, sold at 98½ cents to $1.36½, declining to 75 cents in November, 1925, on prospects of a good crop. The 1924-25 season had the smallest available supply of grain in about twenty years.

Outsiders have not taken the crop losses as serious enough to become heavy buyers. At the close, prices were ¼ cent to 1¼ cents lower for the week, with September $1.03¼ to $1.03⅝, December 99⅞ cents to $1, the lowest of the week, and March $1.04 to $1.04¼ and May $1.06⅞ to $1.07.

Primary receipts for the week were 3,920,000 bushels; previous week, 3,614,000 bushels; last year, 4,112,000 bushels. Shipments for the week, 2,785,000 bushels; previous week, 2,505,000 bushels; last year, 3,901,000 bushels.

Oats and feedstuff supplies promise to be shortest in recent years and about 700,000,000 bushels less than the 1928 season. This has brought speculative buying of oats by the country as well as by industries, on the view that present values are reasonable. Hedging pressure has decreased and profit taking carried prices down after an early advance. The close was ¾ cent higher to ¼ cent lower for the week, with September 52 cents, December 54⅞, March 57⅞ and May 59¼ cents.

New developments in the rye situation were scarce, the market being influenced by action of wheat. Although advances were sharp early, they were lost and net declines of ¼ cent to 1¼ cents established, as compared with a week ago. September finished at $1.03¼, December $1.10¼, March $1.16 and May $1.18¼. At times the buying of December and the selling of May was a feature of the trade.

CATTLE PRICES ADVANCE.

CHICAGO, Sept. 14.—Cattle prices are fluctuating more rapidly than the corn market. In the first two days of the week prices were off 50 cents to $1 on beef steers. At the close they were 50 to 75 cents higher than a week ago. Offerings are light. Fancy yearlings brought $17, and the bulk of sales on beef steers ranged at $12.25 to $15.25, the latter being 40 cents higher than the bulk of the previous week. Average for the week of $13.75 was 20 cents above the previous week, while last year it was $16.35. Receipts were 54,000, the largest since last January, and increased 8,000 over the previous week, but were 5,000 less than a year ago.

Cows and heifers finished the week with a 25 to 50 cents gain, and feeders were up 15 to 25 cents, with Westerns at 25 to 40 cents over. Light hogs declined, so that the spread between the top and average was reduced to 70 cents at the close, compared with $1.50 a week ago. Hogs were off 50 to 75 cents on lights, and 10 to 35 cents on others.

The week's receipts were about 17,000 more than the previous week's and 39,000 in excess of last year. Average for the week of $9.65 was the lowest since Feb. 2, being $9.85, a drop of 35 cents from the previous week and compared with $12.85 last year.

	Cattle.	Hogs.	Sheep.
Last week	54,000	130,000	114,000

BERLIN, Sept. 13.—Commenting on the present uncertainty of the various foreign exchange and money markets, Berlin bankers now insist that huge French foreign balances are one main unsettling factor. They point out that the Berlin and London money markets, and to an extent New York, are being fed with French funds, and that the position arising from the practice is radically unsound.

According to current reports, existing French credits extended to Berlin banks aggregate around 1,000,000,000 marks, and that $500,000,000 in French cash balances is outstanding in the New York call-money market. Uncertainty as to the future movement of these credits, which might involve extensive shifting of gold, is considered an obstacle to stability of exchange and to equalization of international money rates.

FEDERAL FORECAST OF COTTON DOUBTED

EARLY GINNINGS ARE HEAVY

NEW ORLEANS, La., Sept. 15.—The main feature in last week's cotton market was the government's forecast of the cotton yield this season, based on conditions prevailing on Sept. 1. The Agricultural Department's revised estimate of 14,825,000 bales was a radical decrease from the forecast of 15,343,000 bales of just a month previous, but the breaking of the drought has given the doubting Thomases some excuse for believing that the second estimate of the government will fall short of the actual crop outcome.

This problem hinges on the amount of benefit to the crop which the breaking of the drought will be. Many assert that Texas will not benefit by the rains to any appreciable extent as the crop is virtually made in that State. However, it is held by many that the crops of Oklahoma and portions of Arkansas will benefit as there is considerable late cotton in both these States.

The breaking of the drought in the West was general, and it seems incredible that the crop should not be in some measure benefited. Whether frost will come early or late, it is impossible to foresee, but it is not now evident that the date of the first killing frost has become a matter of paramount importance.

Larger Yield Expected.

Despite the government's low estimate, there are many traders here who persist in entertaining bearish views in the belief that the crop will ultimately be considerably larger than the government's estimate. These point to the large ginning total issued by the Census Bureau. Ginnings were larger than expected in practically all the States, with the exception of Texas. Large early ginnings are no guide to the size of the crop. Thus year before last the ginnings to Sept. 1 were practically as large as they are this year, yet the crop was a comparatively small one. It is more than probable that the large ginnings this year have been due to the early maturity of the crop in the southern half of the portion of the belt east of the Mississippi River. Cotton from that section is coming to market freely and producers show no signs of holding back, being evidently satisfied with the prevailing prices.

Spot sales in Southern markets have been quite heavy during the last two weeks. The demand calls for one-inch staple or better. The lower grades are not in much demand and ⅞-inch cotton is being offered on a tenderable basis, which has been one of the influences felt in the contract market.

With large transactions in the interior and the heavy movement of cotton to market, there has been a marked increase in hedge selling and this has been one of the factors in holding prices down, although a good part of the hedges had been absorbed by trade buying.

Improvement in Exports.

Exports have shown an improvement and have exceeded the clearances of last year for the second consecutive week. Shipments to foreign countries, which for the first weeks of the season lagged behind last season, are now rapidly catching up and will in all probability forge ahead of last season's shipments abroad at an early date.

According to all reports, there has been a decided pick-up in the demand for cotton goods and mills are insisting upon firmer prices. Manchester also reports a better trade both with India and Egypt as well as with South America.

RESIDENT OFFICES REPORT ON TRADE

DELIVERIES FALL BEHIND

Enthusiastic acceptance of the new styles in dresses and coats by buyers was the outstanding feature of the wholesale markets during the past week. Orders were liberally placed, with buyers neglecting models previously shown. Reports indicate that consumers are now regarding the new vogue with steadily increasing favor. Retailers are being urged to clear out previous purchases in order to feature properly the new silhouette. Quick deliveries on the new dresses are hard to obtain, producers requiring from two to three weeks' delivery. Makers of low-priced dresses also are now showing the new silhouette. The strength of the call for three-piece knitted ensembles is notable in sportswear. Producers are much behind on deliveries. Nets and chiffon have gained in afternoon and dinner styles. Calls for men's and boys' merchandise have increased, both for immediate and holiday selling. Double-breasted suits for men are in demand.

KIRBY, BLOCK & FISCHER—"New presentations of Fall coats consist of copies of imports introducing many new features. Outstanding are slight semi-princess flare types with wrap-around front, also straightline effects with wrap-around all the way to the side, giving the coat a cut away effect. Also included are models having low, slight flares much below the knee and the high waist princess type. Quite a number of coats are longer in the back. Incoming dress buyers are enthusiastic about the new silhouette. Tweed ensembles are selling very well. Beltsplay an important part on sports dresses. In millinery imports the use of fur as a trim is frequently noted, particularly galyak and ermine tails. Orders for three-piece knitted suits have been tremendous, with the knitted blouse replacing silk types. All silk tweed printed crepes are in consistent demand."

McGREEVEY, WERRING & HOWELL, INC.—"The new styles have taken such a strong hold that it is difficult to find numbers previously shown that appeal from a style standpoint. A beautiful and soft shade of blue has been noticeable in the new afternoon dresses, especially in satin. Smart chiffon dresses at $29.50 up are shown in the new lines. Dahlia and the darker blackberry shade are shown on chiffon, Canton and satin. Net in coarse or silky fishnet quality is exploited everywhere in afternoon and dinner styles. The $10.75 dress manufacturers are beginning to show the new silhouette. Because of the new styles the market is exceptionally short in stocks for this time of the year. Suits continue to sell very well, the tuck-in style being exceptionally good. In the junior lines the high waistline is often indicated by little inverted tucks."

FELIX LILIENTHAL & CO., INC.—"Three-piece knitted ensembles are in strong call and the delivery situation is fast becoming serious. Deliveries are promised for from four to six weeks and manufacturers are booking orders for more than they can handle. Blouses continue to be reordered in the eggshell, tan and aquamarine shades to be combined with the ensemble. Reorders on leather jackets have been a little slower than in previous weeks. Millinery manufacturers are busy on soleils and soft felt hats in the off-the-forehead effects, snug backs and some brimless backs filled in by a chic satin bow. While leatherettes are the leading items in raincoats, rubberized jerseys and tweeds are well represented in reorders. Many large curtain and drapery orders have been placed for dollar sales."

CHARLES E. MAY COMPANY, INC.—"Activity in the coat market has been general this week. Orders for lower end merchandise have been just as numerous as for better coats. Honors are divided between the modified flare and the straight-line figure. The half-shawl is prominent for use on both the regular coat and the three-piece ensemble. Calls for better dresses have favored this newer silhouette. Dresses to retail at $29.50 and up, ordered in the dressmaker model, are being bought mostly in Canton crêpes. These dresses are for future delivery. For immediate use velvet dresses and Canton suits are being ordered. The three-piece silk ensemble and one-piece princess model are both being purchased in lower end dresses. Slight flares in orders for better fur merchandise are emphasized in caracul fur coats. Lapins are still sought in the swagger styles."

HART, FLANAGAN COMPANY, INC.—"Following on the heels of the new and almost dramatic change in dress silhouette, it is disconcerting to find a shortage of desirable merchandise in all lines. Manufacturers are not cutting ahead, and while there is not one line in the New York market that is showing anything but the high waistline and consequently shorter frocks they are figuratively standing on the threshold and taking all orders for two to three weeks' delivery. Women in the larger cities are beginning to go in for the new vogue with vim. Merchants should clean out their present stocks as quickly as possible and feature the new silhouette."

Liberal Orders on Clothing.

CONSOLIDATED CLOTHIERS, INC.—"There has been a very large number of buyers in the office and liberal orders were placed. Purchases covered practically all types of men's and boys' apparel and holiday novelties. There has been a marked demand for students' and young men's suits of light-colored tweeds in the better grade fabrics for immediate delivery. These feature three-button coats, high cut seven-button vests and braced trousers. There have also been many requests for full-dress and tuxedo coats, trousers and vests, due to the near opening of the social season. Merchants are optimistic regarding the Fall and Winter outlook."

MERCHANDISE REPORTING COMPANY, INC.—"Evening dresses have been in much demand during the past week. Velvets continue in favor. There have also been many requests for dressy afternoon types in a wide range of materials. Canton and flat crêpe lead in the demand, with brown and its various shadings predominating. Velvet coats have been favorably accepted by visiting buyers. These garments are being generally shown in flare and novelty effects. Lapin and raccoon coats have been reordered and the fox scarf is still proving a good seller."

JOHN M. BIGGINS, INC.—"In the glove market we find the six-button slipon gaining favor daily, the seasonable chocolate brown shade being most popular. The suede gloves and the antelope handbags now becoming so popular make a most pleasing combination, whereas the glacé and cape gloves correspondingly blend to advantage with shoe calf handbags. In silks, eggshell has been the outstanding color during the week, particularly in satin crêpes. Satins as a whole are being sold in a good way in spite of the recent pessimism in connection with price reductions prevalent in both wholesale and retail markets. Cantons continue strong."

BEN F. LEVIS—"In inexpensive furs we are still buying pony, silver muskrat, seal dyed coney and mendoza beaver. Many special calls for racoons and caraculs were received. Activity in fur scarfs stresses all types of foxes to retail from $25 to $100. Toward the end of the week business improved in millinery. Velvets are in demand in the better price hats. Nose veil effects with long back styles are selling. Soleil felts are in demand in close-fitting styles. In basement dresses flat crêpes are selling best at $3.75. Novelty cloth numbers are also very strong, with jersey being asked for mostly."

JACK HARTBLAY, INC.—"The demand for men's clothing continues active, especially in the popular-price lines, the calls being for worsteds. There is growing interest in double-breasted models, indicating a heavy run on these types for Fall. Deliveries, however, are slow, resulting in a paucity of stocks. In boys' clothing, many calls are being received for leather and leatherette coats. Horsehide and leatherette types are being bought heavily. Numerous requests have been received for boys' black leatherette trench coats. In the smaller sizes, hats to match are also being called for."

TRADE OUTLOOK BRIGHT IN CHICAGO DISTRICT

CHICAGO, Sept. 14.—Prospects for business in the Middle West and in all sections of the West and Northwest are considered good. While crops are smaller than in recent years, prices are better and farmers are said to be obtaining more from the short crop than they did from a large one.

There has been a seasonal reduction in steel buying, with operating capacity of mills in the Chicago district off 10 per cent from the recent record level. In some lines of semi-finished steel there is no reduction, the main loss being in structural buying.

The trade regards the buying by automobile and implement makers as only temporarily curtailed. The railroads give evidence of coming into the market soon and are expected to require more than 3,000,000 tons of rails for the coming year, while purchases so far this year are said to be for 2,900,000 tons.

In the face of reduced buying the steel industry is in excellent shape. A few fair-sized orders for freight cars have been placed with orders for the first eight months this year more than double the same period in 1928. Pig iron production is reduced by two furnaces stopping operations.

The peculiar aspect of the periodical reports on Stock Exchange borrowings is that while professional Wall Street, strongly supported by more than one economist of repute, continues to insist that the immensely rapid increase of these "brokers' loans" is a perfectly normal economic incident, which ought to cause no misgivings, the stock market itself is repeatedly frightened at the movement. This has happened from the very beginning of the great loan expansion. At times when the stock market was in a mood of unusual speculative excitement, reports of particularly large increase in brokers' borrowings would apparently be dismissed with indifference; but this was always a prelude to renewed expression of uneasiness.

Recent weekly reports, showing increase of $2,000,000,000 in a year, of $1,000,000,000 in three months and of $500,000,000 in four weeks, have apparently affected speculative sentiment and the market's action. Reckoning the decline in stocks by percentages and not by points (which are sometimes misleading, when applied to stocks with a very high valuation) such shares as United States Steel and General Motors, and with them numerous other high grade issues, had fallen last week 10 to 20 per cent from the year's high figures, most of the fall occurring since the first days of September. This would have been described as severe reaction, even in older days. But last week's low prices were still 20 to 70 per cent above the prices of a few months ago. The various "selected averages" show a smaller decline; but, although they indicate a loss of 4 to 5 per cent, even they show the present average to be 40 to 50 per cent above that of a year ago.

One of the characteristics of the present era in Wall Street speculation is the effort to substitute euphemistic terms for others once familiar, but whose implication was unpleasant. Other people than Bishops refuse to talk of "speculating on a margin," preferring to describe their ventures as "instalment purchases." Similarly, the question of "inflation" is nowadays involved in dispute over definitions. There was once a reasonably broad distinction drawn between inflated prices and inflated credit, exactly as credit inflation and currency inflation were considered separately. The fact that some stocks have not advanced as much as others, and that some are selling for less than they brought at the end of 1928, are repeatedly emphasized as proof that the general market has not risen at an abnormal pace. But Wall Street itself knows that this is special pleading, and so does the "outside public."

The situation is in many ways so peculiar as to make generalization or prediction exceptionally difficult. Nobody fully understands the scope of the novel economic influences at work on the present market, or is sure of their ultimate result. The economists are floundering along with professional Wall Street, and are occasionally as rash in their published prophecies. The entry of industrial corporations into the Stock Exchange call-loan market, when it was found that demand for such accommodation was greater than the banks were likely to provide for, created a different situation than had ever before existed. But it did not account for the course of money. Mr. Simmons's argument, that the prolonged rise of stocks is due to excessive capital accumulation rather than excessive use of credit, is plausible on its face; but why, then, the abnormally high Wall Street money rates?

It might be supposed that an excess of free capital over the market's need for it should logically result in easy money—certainly not less so when the accumulated capital is poured directly into Stock Exchange loans. We know, however, what has actually happened to money rates. The answer is not unfamiliar, that rates on collateral loans have tightened because of the Reserve Board's attitude and because of withdrawal by the banks as lenders. Yet last Thursday's "brokers' loan report" showed banks to be lending $394,000,000 more than a year ago, whereas the increase in their loans during the preceding two twelvemonth periods was $128,000,000 and $200,000,000 respectively. Perhaps the true economic meaning of these seeming anomalies will not be recognized by the community as a whole until the longer consequences of the whole remarkable episode shall have come in sight. As to when that will be, even Mr. Babson does not venture to assign a date.

BRITISH DIVIDED ON BANK RATE RISE

MARKETS ARE IN SUSPENSE

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 13.—The suspense existing in financial London regarding the Bank of England rate has been only slightly lessened by the absence of any change last Thursday. No doubt is entertained that many large business interests are strongly opposed to higher money rates, and that the bank is taking account of their attitude in keeping its rate at the present level. In most of the responsible banking quarters, however, the opinion prevails that retention of the present rate is certainly not justified by the state of the bank's gold reserve, or by the relation of our bank rate to money rates ruling in other countries.

It was commonly remarked this week that the demonstration which the bank is giving of its apparent wish to avoid increasing the rate at almost any cost is reassuring so far as it goes. Nevertheless, many practical bankers take the view that action by the bank is long overdue, and that a higher bank rate would in all respects be preferable to the state of uncertainty which is at present hindering financial business.

In these quarters it is openly declared that the only remedy for the present unsatisfactory state of the foreign exchanges is an advance in the bank rate. There is therefore still a possibility that the step will be taken, notwithstanding widespread opposition which has been expressed to it.

One comment made last week was that, although it would be greatly to Wall Street's advantage that the bank should not put up its rate, American bankers are considerably increasing the chance of such a change by their withdrawals of gold from London. It is admitted, however, that so long as any profit exists in thus withdrawing gold New York financial houses will continue to take it.

It is also recognized in some quarters that, in so far as they avoid taking gold directly from the bank's reserves and confine their purchases to gold arriving in the open bullion market they will be minimizing the danger of a higher bank rate.

BRITISH PRICES LOWER.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 13.—The British Board of Trade's index number of average wholesale prices in Great Britain during August works out at 135.8, as compared with 137.4 in July and 139.8 a year ago. The comparison of prices of 150 articles for August with those of July shows 56 increases and 52 decreases, the rest being unchanged.

July, 1929	137.4	Aug., 1927	140.9

The board's monthly average for 1921 was 197.2; in 1920 it was 307.3. The average for last year was 140.3, and the lowest annual average since the war, until the resumption of gold payments in 1925, was 158.5 in 1921.

BRITISH FOREIGN TRADE CALLED SATISFACTORY

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 13.—The report on British foreign trade in August is regarded as satisfactory, especially in the matter of exports—all the more so in view of the holidays, the cotton dispute and the difficult money situation. The month's excess of imports was £3,195,000 greater than in the preceding August, but the adverse balance for the eight completed months was £2,552,000 less than in 1928 and £5,178,000 below 1927.

The feature of the £823,000 increase in British exports was the steady and substantial increase of coal shipments, their expansion for August being 702,000 tons, valued at £648,000, making the total increase in eight months 5,903,000, valued at £5,173,000. Iron and steel exports were below last year, but for the eight months there is still an increase of £1,065,000 over 1928. Owing to the cotton stoppage, exports of cotton goods declined £1,000,000 from August of last year, and the decline will probably continue for some time, owing to orders lost during the trade dispute.

NEW LOANS STILL FEW IN LONDON MARKET

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 13.—New capital issues on the London market continue very small and consist mainly of private placings. The Melbourne Board of Works has offered £400,000 in 5 per cents at 94 and the New Zealand Government will offer in the coming week to convert into new 5 per cent stock, at the price of 96 plus cash payment of 2 per cent, £5,000,000 out of £9,703,000 4 per cents due to mature on Nov. 1.

Impending industrial issues include £6,000,000 by the British-American Tobacco Company in 6 per cent second preference shares at par, 750,000 ordinary shares by the newly formed Imperial Smelting Company, and several other important industrial offerings are being prepared.

Announcing

Reliance International Corporation

Managed by Reliance Management Corporation

Reliance Management Corporation announces the formation of Reliance International Corporation—an investment trust, international in scope, of the general management type, having an authorized capital which contemplates an ultimate investment fund in excess of $100,000,000.

The world-wide investment of capital through the medium of investment trusts has taken place on a large scale in Great Britain for more than 50 years. During the past 10 years, the increasing surplus of capital available for investment has given rise to the formation in the United States of a large number of investment trusts with capital aggregating many hundreds of millions of dollars.

In the present era of high prices for common stocks and a rapidly mounting and confusing number of new security issues, the investor finds it increasingly difficult to select and supervise domestic investments giving him an adequate return on his capital, and having a satisfactory margin of safety and reasonable possibility for further appreciation in value. Furthermore, the average size of investment accounts and lack of time and adequate facilities, render it a practical impossibility for the individual to secure proper diversification of risk or to avail himself of the many favorable opportunities for investment in foreign markets.

Reliance International Corporation offers the investor an opportunity to participate in a world-wide investment undertaking in association with an experienced group of representative bankers, business executives and economists comprising the management, board of directors and national advisory committee.

• • •

The widespread affiliations of the Reliance group, having available the information supplied by trained economists and financial research experts, will tend to produce for the investor that selective, constantly supervised and diversified employment of funds which comprises scientific investment.

AUTUMN OUTLOOK BRIGHT IN FRANCE

Unusually Fortunate Harvests Expected to Bring New Wealth to the Country.

PEASANTS AS INVESTORS

Paris Has Suspended Gold Imports From London, but May Resume Them Later On.

PARIS, Sept. 13.—The Autumn business outlook of France is exceedingly bright. Harvests of grain and wine are unusually large and the sugar output very satisfactory. The season will therefore demand considerable fresh capital for crop-moving purposes, and the expected larger Autumn business, with the necessary purchases of raw material, will call for easier credit. It is believed, however, that the Bank of France will grant all credit applications and that there will be no higher bank rate.

One result of the season's fortunate harvests is that French farmers will have acquired especially great purchasing power as a result of the country's bumper wheat crop sold at higher prices. This should contribute to the country's industrial prosperity, though the surplus wealth thus acquired will probably be saved, not spent, for the French peasant is extremely thrifty.

Bourse professionals have even been predicting that these conditions will directly favor higher prices for investment securities. The predominating judgment is that the situation on the Paris Bourse is technically favorable to a rise. The only weak point foreseen is the situation of foreign markets, especially London and New York, regarding both of which there is still some fear either of higher money or of a fall in Stock Exchange prices. Since tendencies on the foreign markets have a strong psychological influence in Paris, speculators are chary of venturing too far.

Gold imports from London to this market have ceased owing to the improvement of sterling at Paris. They may, however, be resumed later on, for two reasons—first, the abundant French grain harvest will considerably reduce Autumn importations, thus helping to reduce the adverse foreign trade balance, and, second, the French banks will try to meet the expected large home demands for credit by realizing a portion of their foreign balances in order to avoid borrowing from the Bank of France. This might easily cause such a rise in franc exchange as would bring sterling back to the import point.

FRENCH PRICE AVERAGE AT LOWEST OF YEAR

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Sept. 13.—The index number of wholesale French prices at the end of August, prepared by the Statistique Générale, works out at 600, against 626 at the end of July. The decline was chiefly due to a marked drop in prices of grain and vegetable products, particularly wheat. The foodstuffs index alone was reduced from 596 to 559.

The separate price index for industrial materials remained unchanged at 653, a considerable fall in textiles being offset by the recovery in other products. The index of retail prices works out at 606, compared with 624 in July; these retail prices also being influenced by the seasonally cheaper foodstuffs.

July, 1929	626	August, 1927	631
June, 1929	623	August, 1926	745
May, 1929	626	August, 1925	570
April, 1929	640	August, 1924	457
March, 1929	634	August, 1923	477
February, 1929	602	August, 1922	384

The highest point ever reached was 804, at the end of July, 1926, when the franc touched its lowest point in the collapse of that year. In 1918 the average for the year was 339.

PARIS MONEY MARKET KEPT DOWN BY BANK

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Sept. 13.—Conditions on the Paris money market are unchanged, though the general volume of supplies has slightly increased. The outside discount rate remained at 3⅛ per cent this week, with call money at 3. This ease is an obvious result of the Bank of France's discount policy.

How readily it has granted such credits was apparent in last Thursday's return as of September 6, showing that month-end collection of maturing trade bills had caused the bank's own discounts to decrease from 9,415,000,000 francs to 8,157,000,000, yet that even with this reduction the amount still outstanding compares with only 2,914,000,000 a year ago and is higher than has been reached in any previous month. Banking circles predict that September and October will witness a further sharp rise in trade-bill discounts by the bank.

FRENCH EXCESS OF IMPORTS

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Sept. 13.—The statement of July foreign trade shows that in the twelve months ending July 31 imports into France were valued at 58,340,000,000 francs, while exports were 51,153,000,000. The import excess for the period therefore was 7,187,000,000.

In the calendar year 1928 imports were 53,445,000,000 and exports 51,347,900,000, the import surplus being 2,101,600,000.

LONDON, Sept. 13.—Gold output in the Transvaal during August was 889,610 ounces, valued at £3,780,814. It compares with 889,480 ounces valued at £3,780,390 in July and with 891,863 ounces valued at £3,790,443 in August, 1928. Last October still holds the record for monthly production with an output of 897,720 ounces, valued at £3,815,310. Except for that month, for last August and for the 897,598 produced last May, August of this year has been matched by no other month.

Production in the eight completed months has far surpassed as a whole any previous achievement for the corresponding period. Total output was 6,963,096 ounces, which compares with 6,871,080 in the same eight months of 1928, with 5,733,485 of 1927 and with 6,343,043 as lately as 1924. The rate of Transvaal output has increased uninterruptedly in every year since the Transvaal labor troubles in 1922. The value of last year's output, £44,000,000, was greater by £6,600,000 than in the year before the war and exceeded by £4,500,000 the maximum war-time output, that of 1916, which was high record until 1924.

POLITICS NO DAMPER ON AUSTRIAN FINANCE

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, Sept. 13.—Thus far the political strife in Austria has apparently had little influence on the economic and financial situation. This seems to be shown by the fact that the national bank's holdings of foreign exchange rose between the middle of June and the end of August by 90,000,000 schillings to 613 millions.

This increase was only in part a result of tourist traffic; a great part proceeded from newly granted short-term foreign credits, mostly in dollars borrowed from French firms. The development is the more remarkable, in that the bank rate has not been raised and that the ratio of cover to the circulation is again nearly 70 per cent.

The Neue Freie Presse states that, even since the last increase of its discount rate by the Federal Reserve Bank at New York, the rate on first-class Vienna bills has dropped and leading Vienna firms have been able to obtain three months' extension of credit at 6% per cent.

AUSTRIA'S IMPORT SURPLUS

Adverse Balance Increased for July and the Seven Months.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, Sept. 13.—Compared with July, 1928, Austrian foreign trade, as reported for July, shows a rise in imports of 13,000,000 schillings to 258,000,000, against increase of exports amounting to 16,000,000, making the month's total exports 181,000,000.

During the first seven months of 1929 imports have been 5,000,000 schillings greater than in 1928, while exports have decreased by 18,000,000. The seven months' surplus of imports is 591,000,000. Imports from the United States have decreased in the period from 129,000,000 to 119,000,000.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, Sept. 13.—The Vienna Stock Exchange continues dull, reflecting similar inactivity of boerses in the neighboring countries. Prague is weak because of a shortage of funds on its money market, and the weakness at Budapest has been caused by cessation of foreign orders which lately came into the Boerse.

Since the beginning of Autumn, the Austrian metal industry has shown a slight downward movement and the textile industry as a whole is still unsatisfactory. Austrian unemployment is now a little over 100,000.

MONEY EASIER AT BERLIN.

Monthly Loans, However, Still Bring 9 to 10½ Per Cent.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Sept. 13.—The Berlin money market was in most respects easier the past week. It is true that, owing to continued fear of a rise in the London bank rate, rates as high as 9 to 10½ per cent are still commanded for loans for a month or longer. But day money is plentiful, with rates 6@8½ per cent today.

The banks had as usual laid in a supply of funds well in advance of the time for financing the mid-month settlement. During this week, therefore, they had on hand a large available supply.

LIMIT GERMAN PRODUCTION.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Sept. 13.—Efforts to limit industrial production to the market's actual demands continue in Germany. The porcelain manufacturers have formed an association with the express purpose of limiting output and lowering production costs.

All German sugar refineries have also established an association which will maintain home prices by rationing the quantity of sugar which each refining firm may put into the market at any given time.

Control a German Industry.

BERLIN, Sept. 13.—As a result of a new fusion by the Swedo-German Norma Company, 80 per cent of Germany's production of ball bearings passes under control of the Swedish ball bearing trust.

MARKETS SKEPTICAL OF BRIAND'S PLAN

CITE "BANKERS' MANIFESTO"

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 13.—On the London market Briand's proposal for a European economic union has thus far aroused very little discussion. It is regarded as an ideal worth trying for but unlikely of attainment for a long time to come. The British suggestion at Geneva, for a "tariff holiday" of two years, seems to the City more practicable. Nevertheless, business men were recalling last week that some years ago, when the world's leading bankers issued a manifesto denouncing the continuous raising of tariff walls and appealing for closer economic cooperation, their suggestions were cold-shouldered or completely ignored by nearly every country in the world.

Sentiment and the necessities of the situation may have changed since then, it is admitted; but our business men are not hopeful of anything being done yet a while by statesmen to make international trade any easier. They will therefore continue to rely on their own efforts in that direction.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Sept. 13.—Briand's plan for an economic "United States of Europe" has been received with skepticism in Paris financial circles. Their comment is that the project would be difficult to realize under present conditions on account of the divergent interests of different nations involved.

The obstacles to such an agreement, it was commonly remarked last week, would be the confusing influence on numerous industries which might be exerted by removal of the tariff frontiers.

BRITISH MARKET HOPES RATE WILL NOT RISE

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 13.—The stock markets have been inclined this week to shake off the stagnation which has been so much in evidence during the late Summer, especially since the money situation changed for the worse. Some relief was expressed on the market that an advance in the Bank rate has thus far been avoided and speculators, with their customary optimism, were beginning to talk this week of the probability of no advance in the discount rate this year.

That view is not yet shared by the money market. It has imparted a better tone to stocks, but the public still fails to put in an appearance and larger capitalists, both private and public, are sitting on the fence awaiting some definite lead from the money situation. Notwithstanding substantial outflow of capital which has occurred in response to the high money rates on other foreign markets, it is still believed that considerable funds are awaiting investment at home.

HARVESTS BELOW 1928 IN CENTRAL EUROPE

BERLIN, Sept. 13.—The German cereal crops for 1929 will not be bad in comparison with the average, but they will fall below 1928. The Agricultural Council's estimate puts the figure even lower that that of the Federal Statistical Bureau. The sugar beet crop has materially deteriorated in August and is below last year.

Austria's official report puts all Winter cereals and Spring barley considerably below 1928. Poland, on the other hand, officially estimates a wheat yield of 1,640,000 tons, against 1,610,000 in 1928, and rye crops of 6,260,000, against 6,110,000. Rumanian crops are reported excellent, corn in particular, and crops in Yugoslavia and Czechoslavakia are in general good. Hungary estimates its wheat crop at 19,240,000 quintals, against 27,000,000 in 1928, and its rye crop at 8,160,000, against 8,270,000.

GOLD ON WAY TO LONDON.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 14.—Gold due to arrive in the open London market during the coming week from South Africa amounts to £875,000. The week following, £510,000 more will arrive, nearly all in sovereigns, which will be sent direct into the Bank of England.

During the past calendar week the Bank of England took in £305,643 gold, practically all bought in the open market. Withdrawals were £353,841, of which £177,000 were consigned to Germany and £142,000 to the United States.

BRITISH STEEL PRODUCTION.

August Output Smallest of Year, but Above 1928.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 13.—Steel output in Great Britain during August was 783,500 tons, or considerably less than the 804,300 of July, but still largely in excess of the 648,300 tons produced in August a year ago. Last month's production was the lowest of any month for 1929 to date, but compares with a monthly average of 710,400 tons in 1928.

Iron produced was 632,000 tons, against 671,900 in July, 519,000 a year ago and a monthly average of 550,900 last year. Furnaces working at the end of August were 170, being an increase of three for the month.

State of Minas Geraes

Secured External Gold Loan of 1929, Series A, 6½% Bonds

Dated September 1, 1929 Due September 1, 1959

The Bonds of this Loan will be specifically secured by a first lien upon the Coffee Export Tax of the State.

Interest payable March 1 and September 1. Coupon bonds in denominations of $1,000 and $500, registerable as to principal only. Principal and interest payable in New York City in United States gold coin of the present standard of weight and fineness, at the Head Office of The National City Bank of New York, Fiscal Agent, without deductions for any present or future taxes of the State of Minas Geraes or of the United States of Brazil. Principal and interest also payable in London, England, in sterling, at the option of the holder, either at the City Office of The National City Bank of New York, or at the Counting House of J. Henry Schröder & Co., at the fixed rate of exchange of 4.8665; and collectible at the office of Mendelssohn & Co. in Amsterdam, Netherlands, in guilders, at the then current buying rate of the said Mendelssohn & Co. for sight exchange on New York City.

These bonds, authorized by State Law No. 1061, dated August 16, 1929, and issued pursuant to Presidential Decree No. 9142, dated September 6, 1929, will be the direct obligations of the State of Minas Geraes. The Contract provides for a semi-annual cumulative sinking fund, sufficient to redeem the entire issue by maturity, which will begin operating March 1, 1930, and will be applied to redeem bonds through drawings by lot only at 100. The Bonds are callable as a whole but not in part, on September 1, 1934, or any interest date thereafter, on thirty days notice, at 100.

The following summary is based upon the prospectus letter signed by His Excellency, Antonio Carlos Ribeiro de Andrada, President of the State of Minas Geraes, to which reference is made for detailed information.

The State of Minas Geraes is a self-governing member of the Brazilian Federation, its relation to the Central government being similar, in many respects, to that of the sovereign states of the United States of America to the Federal Government. It is situated in the approximate geographical center of Brazil, in a temperate climate and at a relatively high elevation above sea level. The most important agricultural products are coffee, corn, rice, beans, potatoes, wheat, cotton, sugar cane and tobacco. The State has an area of 221,861 square miles, slightly smaller than that of the State of Texas, and is the largest Brazilian state in point of population with 7,308,853 inhabitants, according to the latest estimate. While the State has no sea coast, it is connected with the ports of Santos, Rio de Janeiro, Victoria and Bahia by railroads, having over 4,915 miles of track within its own boundaries.

State Law No. 1061 of August 16, 1929, authorizes a total issue of Bonds limited to an amount not to exceed £5,000,000 sterling, or its equivalent in gold coin of the United States of America at the fixed rate of exchange of $4.8665 per pound sterling, and provides that all the Bonds issued thereunder, of which these Series A Bonds form a part, will be specifically secured by a first lien upon the Coffee Export Tax, the largest single item of revenue of the State of Minas Geraes. This tax during the last five years has yielded an average return equivalent to $4,579,342, as compared with $1,853,647, required for service upon the entire authorized amount, computed on the basis of the terms of this issue. Should the proceeds of the Coffee Export Tax in any fiscal year produce less than an amount of one and one-half times the annual service of all the bonds of the loan, the State undertakes to pledge another tax or other taxes sufficient to make up the deficiency.

The proceeds of this Loan will be utilized for purposes designed to increase the economic productivity of the State.

Prudent and careful management of the State's finances has been characteristic of successive administrations in Minas Geraes. Since 1915 there has been a surplus of revenues over expenditures in every year except two. The income of the State has increased from $4,600,800 in 1915 to a high point of $21,624,054 in 1928. The debt service of the State is comparatively light, being less than 12% of ordinary revenues in 1928.

Application will be made to list these Bonds on the New York Stock Exchange

We offer these Bonds, if, as and when issued to and received by us, subject to the approval of our counsel, Messrs. Shearman & Sterling, New York City, and Dr. Richard P. Momsen, Rio de Janeiro, Brazil. Delivery in the form of interim certificates of The National City Company is expected on or about September 24, 1929.

Price 87 and interest, to yield 7.60% to maturity

BERLIN EXPECTING LOWER MONEY RATES

DOUBT HELP FROM AMERICA

BERLIN, Sept. 13.—Offers of foreign funds on the Berlin money market have increased. The prospective lenders failed to take account, however, of the cheapening tendency of Germany's home interest rates, and the conditions were not sufficiently favorable for general acceptance. Berlin bankers consider that, after the crop-financing period has ended, money will become distinctly cheaper, though only on condition that the London bank rate remains unchanged.

The Reichsbank has no present desire to buy gold in London, since it fears that further gold export from that market would ultimately force the Bank of England to raise its rate. Schacht realizes, however, that renewal of the so-called embargo on gold purchases would antagonize exports.

The home capital market is still dead. Home loans in August footed up only 56,000,000 marks, foreign loans only 6,000,000. The Handelszeitung expresses the judgment that there is small chance of revival in the New York market for European bond issues, owing to the persistent and increasing preference of American investors for dividend securities. In August the yield of German fixed-revenue securities again went higher, reflecting continued increase in cost of capital. First mortgages now bring a clear 10 per cent net yield, and second mortgages 13 per cent.

Prussian Prime Minister Hoepker Aschoff has expressed pessimistic judgment over the immediate effect of the Young plan on German Federal finances. He points out that the supposedly balanced ordinary budget of 1929 will really show a deficit of 260 million marks, and further that there is an uncovered deficit of 154 millions from the budget year 1928. In addition, he points out, a Federal loan of 350 millions made to the Unemployment Insurance Board, which the latter cannot repay, and finally the deficit of 600 millions in the extraordinary budget has to be allowed for. The reduction in annuity payments through the Young plan will, at most, he concludes, cover the deficit of the years 1928 and 1929.

GERMANY'S INDUSTRY SHOWS IRREGULARITY

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Sept. 13.—The German steel market is dull, but production continues high. In the eight complete months of 1929 output of pig iron was 8,940,123 tons, against 8,652,971 in the same months of 1928.

Wire export is active, especially for South America. The steel ingot syndicate has increased its price rebates to manufacturers on materials bought from it for production of export goods. The Netherlands railroads have ordered 1,700 freight cars from three German firms and the Deutsche Werftyard at Hamburg has received a Yugoslavian order for a 70,000-pound pontoon dock as reparation delivery in kind.

Export of machinery from Germany in July reached a new monthly high level at 55,601 tons. Export of basic chemicals also shows a rapid rise, although shipment of dyes has declined slightly. The cotton spinners' association reports that a fresh decline in activity has followed the brief revival in July.

BERLIN IS PERPLEXED OVER RAYON INDUSTRY

Market Somewhat Improved, but Plans to Stabilize Prices Are Doubted.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Sept. 13.—The outlook of the rayon market for the Winter is reported to be improved; at any rate, there is a fresh increase in demand for cheaper qualities which had lately been neglected. As against this the demand for dearer sorts has declined, as a result of which the Bemberg Corporation has shortened working hours.

The new and sharp decline of rayon stocks on the Boerse is ascribed to disappointment at denial that the Vereinigte Glanzstoffe and Farbenindustrie, which were in sharp competition, had negotiated a price convention. Negotiations with that purpose have continued, but the opinion is growing that no agreement can maintain home prices in the face of foreign imports.

GERMAN BANKRUPTCIES RISE

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Sept. 13.—Bankruptcies in Germany during August numbered 737, as against 549 in August of last year. The numerous insolvencies in the textile and clothing branches were mainly due to large manufacturing for stock without sufficient credit. At the same time, unemployment is still slowly increasing.

Nevertheless, the quarterly report of the official Institute for the Study of Trade Fluctuations is relatively hopeful about the industrial outlook. The Dresdner Bank also predicts speedy and general trade revival.

German Potash Sales Maintained.

BERLIN, Sept. 13.—Home and foreign sales by the German potash syndicate, as reported for the first eight months of the year, were 1,014,400 tons of pure potash, as against 1,013,397 tons in the same months of 1928.

German Living Costs Above 1928.

BERLIN, Sept. 13.—The official index of cost of living in Germany during August works out at 154, against 154.4 in July, 153.5 in August, 1928, and 136.5 in 1927.

NEW LEHMAN ISSUE ON MARKET TODAY

Investment Corporation Will Offer 1,000,000 Shares of Capital Stock.

STARTS WITH $100,000,000

Provision for Expansion to $500,000,000—Financing by Reliance International.

A formal offering of 1,000,000 shares of the no-par capital stock of the newly organized Lehman Corporation will be made today at $104 a share by Lehman Brothers, who are sponsoring the corporation and will manage its affairs. Only a portion of this stock will be available to the public, since the partners of Lehman Brothers and Lazard Frères and the General American Investors Company, Inc., are taking a large part of the issue. The amount of stock available for this public subscription has already been heavily oversubscribed.

The Lehman Corporation will start operations with capital funds of $100,000,000 net and with provision in its existing capital structure for expansion of this amount to $500,000,000, making the corporation one of the largest investment trusts in the world. The capital stock is all of one class, with all shares identical as to voting, dividend and other rights and carrying no pre-emptive rights.

The General American Investors Company, Inc., which will have large holdings of the new corporation's stock, is the investment company which resulted from a consolidation of the original company of the same name and the Second General American Investors Company, Inc., which were both formed several years ago under the joint sponsorship of Lehman Brothers and Lazard Frères. This consolidation brought together assets of approximately $40,000,000, and two companies distinguished by their high rate of earnings on invested capital.

The management contract under which the corporation will be managed by Lehman Brothers established an entirely new basis for agreements of this character. Subject to a 6 per cent protection on invested capital, the firm of Lehman Brothers is to receive semi-annually for its services 12½ per cent of the net realized profits of the corporation, which compensation the firm agrees to use, upon receipt, for purchase from the corporation of common stock taken at its book value per share. By this plan the company pays only 12½ per cent of its profits for its management, any additional value of compensation arising only from the premium put upon the shares by the public, as expressed through the market price.

BID SIX TIMES OVER FOR STATE'S NOTES

TREMAINE MAKES AWARDS

Offering Divided Among 38 Banks Throughout the State, 23 of Them in This City.

The issue of $28,000,000 State of New York 4 per cent notes, due May 15, 1930, announced last Monday, has been oversubscribed about six times, according to an announcement made by State Controller Morris S. Tremaine. The issue has been allotted to thirty-eight banks throughout New York State, of which twenty-three are located in New York City. Several of the banks offered subscriptions ranging from $10,000,000 to the entire amount of $28,000,000.

Proceeds from the sale of this issue will be used to provide for State buildings, general State improvements and for State banks. The notes are issued in lieu of long-term financing because of the high interest rate now prevailing in the municipal bond market. It has been the practice of the Controller to purchase New York State securities for the account of the sinking fund, so that a portion of the new issue may eventually find its way into this fund.

"Of course, I am highly pleased at the success of this financing," Comptroller Tremaine said. "It demonstrates the faith investors have in the financial position of the State of New York at the present time. This faith is fully warranted, as the figures will show. In the last fiscal year the State's net debt was decreased nearly $4,000,000. On June 30, 1928, the net debt was $258,661,164, on June 30, 1929, the net debt was $254,841,476. In proportion to the assessed valuation, this is the lowest net debt the State has had in ten years. The assessed valuations for the year 1929 is over $27,000,000,000. Hence, the net debt is less than 1 per cent of the assessed valuation.

"Very few people realize what this means. Actually, the State could pay its entire net indebtedness with its income for one year; that is, the taxes which the State collects in any year are sufficient to wipe out the entire net debt of the State."

THE NEW YORK CLEARING HOUSE ASSOCIATION

ORGANIZED 1853

"The Maintenance of Conservative Banking through Wise and Intelligent Coöperation"

An excerpt from the Constitution of the New York Clearing House Association:

"The objects of the Association shall be the effecting at one place of the daily exchanges between the members thereof and the payment of the balances resulting from such exchanges, the promotion of the interests of the members and the maintenance of conservative banking through wise and intelligent coöperation."

A Safeguard for Six Billions of Bank Deposits

Total Capital	$611,625,300
Average Net Deposits	6,362,883,000

Realizing the responsibilities involved in the care of these funds, the Clearing House members have voluntarily imposed upon themselves rigid standards of practice for the protection of their own interests and the interests of their depositors.

The Association requires weekly reports from the members and makes periodical examinations of the condition of each bank. These examinations give particular attention to the soundness of the assets of each member, and are made in the light of intimate knowledge of the affairs of the New York banks and of general conditions.

If you are a depositor of a Clearing House bank you can feel that, in addition to the safeguards provided through Federal and State supervision, your funds have the protection afforded by membership in an organization whose fundamental purpose is to assure sound banking.

STEEL BUYING LAGS AS OUTPUT DROPS

September Production Rate Is About 9 Per Cent Under That for May.

RAIL BUYING INCREASES

Trade Shows Some Concern as to Prices, but There Is No Sign of Weakness.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 14.—There has been no noticeable increase in the general volume of steel buying since the ending of the conventional vacation season. The annual rail buying movement was opened by the Reading Railroad ordering 30,000 tons. A large volume of inquiry is expected before the end of the month, but there is little trade significance in this rail buying, which is for replacement purposes and occurs every year. It would require approximately a 20 per cent variation in the volume to represent 1 per cent of the total amount of steel made in a year.

In the matter of steel demand, a negative item is that a Milwaukee maker of electrically welded pipe has temporarily stopped production against several line pipe orders, whereby Chicago plate mills are relieved of some deliveries and can offer earlier shipment on new orders.

Steadily and yet slowly the rate of steel production is decreasing. May was the high month and August as a whole showed 6.7 per cent decrease. Assuming that the rate was uniform throughout May and was decreasing steadily during August, there was 6.7 per cent decrease in the rate in two and a half months, to the middle of August, or 2.7 per cent per month. A continuance of that pace would make the rate at the middle of September 9 per cent under May, which is just about what is now estimated.

In the first eight months of this year production acquired a lead of 6,000,000 tons, or 18 per cent, over last year, but there is no reason for expecting the percentage lead to be continued, because a year ago steel production was increasing while now it is decreasing. It is a matter of question whether the 6,000,000 ton gain will be held or added to. September may bring an unfilled tonnage increase depending on whether there is much contracting for fourth quarter, with the possible assistance of early entering of rail orders in the annual buying movement. Thus far in the month there is little evidence that consumers are disposed to place contracts.

Throughout the trade there is no little concern about prices, for each mill is exposed to the temptation of trying to maintain production for the benefit of costs by making slight price concessions. To date there is no news whatever of price weakness. The only price news now is that of a distinct stiffening in galvanized sheets. Mills are disappointed at the decline that occurred some three months ago and have hopes of repairing the situation. Black sheets and automobile sheets did not decline.

For months past the scrap market has been scrutinized in vain for warnings of a change in the volume of steel production, but there has been virtually no change. Now perhaps, scrap is resuming the barometric place it often occupied in past years. At any rate, after a steady price level for weeks, there is now a decline of fully 50 cents in heavy melting steel scrap, delivered Pittsburgh district, the market being quotable at $17.75 to $18.25.

Mills have been very light buyers, and dealers predict that if mills do not buy within a week or two there will be a further decline. The reason the scrap market is sometimes a sensitive indicator is that when steel production is decreasing the mills still have their works scrap, remaining from a period of heavier operation, whereas when production is increasing the mills need extra quantities of scrap from the outside, because it takes time for their own supplies of works scrap to increase.

On the whole the trend in steel consumption is downward. Automobile production began decreasing after April, the peak month, and it is now below its average seasonal relation to first half production. There is a little freight car buying now but not enough to prevent a large decrease in the steel requirements of car shops by the end of next month. The agricultural implement industry seems to have a lighter operation than was commonly understood a few weeks ago.

LACKAWANNA RECORD SEEN.

J. M. Davis, president of the Lackawanna Railroad, says the locomotives of the road established a record in July by traveling 1,539,631 miles, about sixty-one and a half times around the world, and in only nine instances fell short of getting their trains to destination points. He is of the opinion that this average, 171,070 miles to each failure, is a world's record.

"It is such performances as this," said Mr. Davis, "that have made possible the handling of the greatest gross business in history, with very substantial savings to shippers, tremendous reductions in inventories by manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers, and a billion or more dollars of capital and credit released and made available for other uses."

The Equitable Trust Company and The Seaboard National Bank announce today their consolidation as The Equitable Trust Company OF NEW YORK

WHEN the mammoth ships of our generation began to move their unprecedented cargoes, channels had to be broadened and deepened to make arrival and departure safe and sure. So, with the growth in trade and industry today, tending toward larger single units of manufacture and distribution, the financial channels also must broaden and deepen.

The consolidation of two well-rounded banking institutions — The Equitable Trust Company and the Seaboard National Bank, reflects this trend. It creates a bank large enough to satisfy the financial needs of our great modern corporations, yet flexible enough to meet every banking requirement of the individual. The new Equitable Trust Company takes its place as one of the outstanding financial institutions of the country. Thousands of important banking affiliations abroad and large offices in London and Paris place it in the front rank of international banks. A great trust organization gives it supremacy in fiduciary fields. Men of established leadership in commerce, finance and law will serve as trustees for the company, lending their judgment and authority to the management of its affairs.

Through the broad experience of trained executive officers from both organizations, an uninterrupted usefulness is assured. Every customer will find in the atmosphere of all Equitable offices the same spirit of personal cordiality and friendly helpfulness which have characterized both organizations in the past.

HENDERSON HEADS INVESTMENT TRUST

F. R. Henderson, president of the Rubber Exchange of New York and member of the boards of governors of the National Raw Silk, National Metal and New York Hide exchanges, has accepted the presidency of the New York and Republic Corporation, a new investment trust, it was announced yesterday. Beyond the fact that the capitalization of the new company is $5,000,000 and that it has recently been incorporated in Delaware, no details have been announced. It is understood, however, that the company's charter gives it broad powers, permitting it to engage in virtually any financial operation, and that Mr. Henderson will be in sole charge, subject only to the directors, of the investments and other financial activities of the trust.

Mr. Henderson is widely known because of his successful organization of commodity exchanges. He was active in organizing each of the four exchanges with which he is now connected, and most recently devoted his attention to erect a central housing building for them. He intends to remain president of the Rubber Exchange, at least, until the expiration of his present term, according to the announcement.

Jersey City Depot Opens Today.

EXCESS BUYING IN BUILDING TRADES

CREDIT CONDITION SERIOUS

Heavy Pressure to Buy Materials, Says Secretary of Piping Contractors.

One result of the troublesome conditions existing in the building industry, announces Allen E. Beals in the current Dow Service Daily Building Reports, will be a mass meeting of the New York City heating and piping and allied trades to be held late this month or early in October, for the purpose of taking necessary action to establish public confidence in that part of the building construction industry.

Mr. Beals also calls attention to the fact that, at the October meeting of the directors of the Heating and Piping Contractors' National Association in Louisville, methods will be discussed toward mitigating some of the evils from which the heating and piping contractors are suffering, to a greater or less extent, all over the United States.

William E. Taylor, executive secretary of the Heating and Piping Contractors' New York City Association at 50 Union Square, in commenting on the recent statement by District Attorney John E. McGeehan of the Bronx that the men harassing the building construction industry in that borough are not underworld characters, but business men who have turned from legitimate methods to illegal practice, said that the reason why many of these contractors now find themselves in the toils of the law is because they have been forced into such a situation as the result of the abuse of credit over so long a period that such practices seemed to be the only way out of their industrial dilemmas.

Pressure to Buy Material.

"During recent years there has been great production at manufacturing centres," said Mr. Taylor. "It has resulted in great pressure being applied to distributers to find a market for the material produced, causing great numbers of buyers to take the product of the mills whether they had money with which to pay for it, credit or not, trusting to luck, diversion of borrowed building funds and other devices to avoid the inevitable day of reckoning.

"This has raised up not only in this city, but in all parts of the country a great many irresponsible heating and piping contractors. Today there are 2,500 such contractors alone in the city of New York, most of whom every business day in the year are placing orders for the delivery of heating and piping material that they cannot see their way clear to pay for because their inexperience and irresponsibility have caused them to bid on and accept installation jobs that cannot possibly be completed for the amount named in their contract.

"The Heating and Piping Contractors' New York City Association set up machinery through the operation of certified heating based upon a national code of heating standards, with the cooperation of the National Surety Company, which guarantees the accuracy of this code and operation of the heating contractors under it.

Forming Board of Trade.

"In addition to this method of operation we have decided to organize a Heating Board of Trade, through which it is expected that all elements, consisting of manufacturers, jobbers and contractors, may have common point of contact and through such contact be, actually, the voice of the industry.

"Credit control will be the framework about which this structure of public confidence will be reared. It will involve investigation into the finances of listed contractors and when we ascertain how much they owe, we will lay out a plan of amortization whereby the contractor can pay off his indebtedness to the dealer, jobber or manufacturer, and he will then be in a position more completely to live up to the standard set by the Jobbers' Credit Association.

"There is no occasion for policies and practices that lead to 'racketeering' or worse, and the best part of it is that the bonded certification of heating and piping in New York has won the endorsement of loaning institutions and real estate boards.

"The plan is capable of expansion into other trades and I believe it offers a way out of the difficulties which at present appear to have a strangle hold on the building industry."

STEEL FOR NEW WALDORF.

The Thompson, Starrett Company, builders of the new Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, announces that the structural steel contract for the building has been awarded to the McClintic-Marshall Company of this city. It calls for a total tonnage of 27,100 tons of steel. This is one of the largest orders for structural steel which has been placed in recent years, the total tonnage exceeding that used in the Woolworth Building by 4,750 tons. The cost will be in excess of $2,250,000.

The new Waldorf will be forty-six stories in height, covering the block bounded by Park and Lexington Avenues, Forty-ninth and Fiftieth Streets.

Big Union City Lease by Loft.

Loft, Inc., has leased the three buildings in Union City, N. J., fronting 75 feet on Bergenline Avenue and 98 feet on Thirty-eighth Street for the expansion of its restaurant and candy business there. On expiration of existing leases a new building will be erected. The lease just taken covers a 20-year term at an aggregate rental exceeding $1,000,000. Max Bernfield was the broker.

CIVIC ASSOCIATION FOR SHERIDAN SQUARE

Property owners and business interests in and around Sheridan Square have just organized the Sheridan Square Association. The locality is in the heart of Greenwich Village, and within recent years a very desirable apartment house community has been developed in its neighborhood. Facing the square at the corner of Grove Street a fourteen-story apartment building is now nearing completion. It is the tallest residential structure in the Greenwich Village precincts west of Sixth Avenue.

A preliminary meeting was held last week at which Maurice Deutsch, the realty operator, presided. The aims of the organization were outlined and the following were named as temporary officers: President, George H. Hallanan; vice presidents, Maurice Deutsch, Vincent C. Peppe and Alexander Hammerslough; secretary, H. S. Hillyer; treasurer, J. D. Robilotto.

The first general meeting of the association has been called for next Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Greenwich Village Inn, 5 Sheridan Square. Invitations have been extended to several hundred residents and others interested in obtaining proper improvements for the locality between Sixth Avenue and the North River, bounded by Eleventh Street on the north and Clarkson Street on the south.

"The main object of the association," explained Mr. Hallanan, whose father, the late Michael Hallanan, was instrumental in giving the present name to Sheridan Square, "is to promote the interests of the owners and tenants living in and around the square and to cooperate with the Washington Square and other neighboring association in obtaining civic and other improvements of value to the locality."

With the extensive apartment house developments on and around Sheridan Square, the association proposes to work for better lighting facilities, the maintenance of existing zoning restrictions and naming the Seventh Avenue subway station there, now known as Christopher Street, as the Sheridan Square station.

REAL

New Freight and Office Building Also to Be Constructed at Foot of Wall Street.

WORK TO BE DONE BY JAN. 1

Space to Be Provided for Vessels Which Will Be Added to Cuban and Porto Rican Services.

Plans for extension and alteration of the Ward Line's terminal on the East River at the foot of Wall Street were announced yesterday by Franklin D. Mooney, president of the Atlantic, Gulf & West Indies Steamship Company of 25 Broadway, of which the Ward Line is a subsidiary. A contract for the work has been given to John C. Guise, Inc., of 50 Church Street, and the work will be started immediately. It is believed it will be completed about Jan. 1.

The program includes the construction of a two-story building in South Street between Piers 12-14, East River, fifty feet wide, from the marginal bulkhead line. This building will correspond to the present shorefront property in that neighborhood. The plan includes also the extension of Pier 12 from its present 552 feet to 606 feet and that of Pier 14 from 546 feet to 606 feet.

The street level of the new building will be used for trucks and the second floor will be devoted to offices of the Ward Line. The piers will be lengthened, Mr. Mooney explained, to provide ample berthing space for two liners which the Ward Line is building for its New York-Havana service. The new ships will be 506 feet long and capable of a speed of twenty knots. They will be ready for use in the Winter of 1930-31.

The Ward Line will spend $10,000,000 for these two ships, which will be built by the Newport News Shipbuilding Company, and will invest an additional $2,500,000 through the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Company in a new passenger vessel for its Porto Rico service. The contract for this steamship was awarded last week.

The Atlantic, Gulf & West Indies group, of which the Ward Line is an important part, has been one of the most active American shipping concerns in recent months. The competition of the Cunard Line in the Havana service last Winter and the announcement made by Cunard officials that Cunard ships will be in that trade again next Winter were responsible for the activity of the Ward Line, although the improvement of facilities and service had been considered by the line several years.

'DEAD' SAILOR GREETS SHIP

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 15.—Docking at the South Boston fish pier with flag at half mast for a member of the crew believed drowned at sea, the fishing schooner Philip R. Manta was promptly boarded yesterday by the supposed victim, alive and well, and anxious to get back to work.

He is Joseph Cutrow of Halifax. He left the ship in a dory Tuesday, setting trawls in the South Channel. A heavy fog descended and Cutrow could not be found.

For two days and two nights the schooner, although laden with a full cargo of cod and haddock, cruised back and forth, seeking the missing fisherman. Hope for Cutrow was at last abandoned and Captain Irving Atkinson gave orders for the ship to make port.

The missing man's shipmates tied up at the fish pier, the lowered ensign informing other fishermen that the sea had again taken toll of human life.

The "dead man" explained that he had been picked up by another schooner Tuesday night and landed in Boston.

MAKE HAMBURG THEIR PORT

United States Lines to Dock Ships There Instead of at Bremerhaven.

Announcement was made yesterday by the United States Lines, Inc., of 45 Broadway that, commencing late in December, the eastern terminal of the five cabin steamships, George Washington, America, Republic, President Roosevelt, and President Harding, will be changed from Bremerhaven to Hamburg. The first vessel to leave New York under the new schedule will be named soon.

No reason was assigned by the management for the change, but it was assumed yesterday in shipping circles that Hamburg was chosen because it is nearer than Bremerhaven to Berlin and because of its facilities for handling freight.

INSURANCE COMPANIES INVEST $11,000,000,000

Life insurance companies represented in New York State at the beginning of this year had combined assets of $11,722,663,099, according to a compilation made by Albert Conway, superintendent of insurance. This was an increase during 1928 of more than $250,000,000.

More than $11,000,000,000 of these assets are invested in mortgage loans and in securities consisting of bonds and stocks, the same authority reports. The mortgage loans at the end of 1928 exceeded the amount invested in stocks and bonds by about $317,000,000. The excess in 1927 was $380,000,000.

The number of policies in force on Jan 1, 1929, was as follows: Ordinary, 22,454,893; industrial, 71,971,497. The total amount of insurance in force was: Ordinary, $84,267,443,827; industrial, $14,206,989,776. Including $6,500,000,000 of fraternal and assessment insurance, the total amount of life insurance carried by all organizations reporting to New York State was close to $85,000,000,000 at the beginning of this year.

BRITISH SHIP LINES TO REPLY TO SUIT

Service of Papers in Action Charging Unfair Methods Will Be Accepted Today.

Service in the suit of the United States Navigation Company, 17 Battery Place, against thirteen British steamship lines and James Sinclair, chairman of the North Atlantic-United Kingdom Freight Conference, and Franklin A. Ryan of the International Mercantile Marine Company, will be accepted today by Roscoe Hupper, lawyer, of 27 William Street, acting for all defendants. He will file a reply at a later date.

The action was brought last Tuesday in the Federal court, the contention being that the defendants used discriminatory methods to hurt the business of the plaintiff in the North Atlantic trade. Mr. Sinclair, as spokesman for the defendants, said he did not think the court had jurisdiction in the case and said he hoped the matter would be acted on quickly.

The United States Navigation Company, he said, "is not an owner of tonnage, either American or foreign, but operates exclusively by means of foreign steamers, principally of Scandinavian and Japanese registry, which it charters from time to time." Robert W. Boissevain, president of the navigation company, said yesterday that he, too, hoped the suit would be hastened. He admitted the company owned no ships, but said it had done much to aid shippers of odd cargoes and owners of valuable tramp steamers by bringing them together. He charged that the defendant companies declined to enter this field until his company developed it.

CHINESE KILL MISSIONARIES

Belgian Bishop and Two Franciscans Are Victims of Bandits.

ICHANG, China, Sept. 16 (AP).—Bishop Trudo Jans, a Belgian who has lived in China twenty-two years, and two Franciscan fathers, Bruno and Rupertus, have been killed in the village of Lwotang, Hupeh Province, supposedly by bandits who became incensed at finding their victims possessed no money.

WILL PASS ON PLAYS

Also Aims to Encourage Little Theatre Movement—Combined Membership Is Put at 20,800.

A consolidation of three prominent organizations of playgoers and students of the theatre into a national organization to be known as the Church and Drama League of America, with Dr. S. Parkes Cadman as president, was announced yesterday. The combined membership of the groups involved was said to total 20,800 persons.

While paying particular attention to encouraging the work of the 12,000 Little Theatres and other amateur groups, the announcement stated, the new league plans to lend every encouragement to the professional theatre and to motion pictures.

The three organizations which merged formerly were the Drama League of America, organized in Chicago in 1910; the American Theatre Association, organized in New York in 1926, and the Church and Drama Association, also organized in New York in 1928.

The Church and Drama League plans to stimulate "an extensive and intelligent interest in the drama both as a social force and as an educational influence," according to its certificate of incorporation, "by developing a wider appreciation of the drama as a creative force, by establishing its employment in the pursuit of social and spiritual culture, by supporting and encouraging such plays as may be deemed worthy and by coordinating and assisting the work of all individuals and associations that are now or may become interested in developing an appreciation of drama of worth, especially through the Little Theatre and amateur groups in community centres, schools and churches."

It also plans to establish a clearing house of advice on dramatic production matters and "to work to secure the active cooperation of all groups—religious, professional, civic and educational—in the support of the wholesome drama, its art, its literature and its affairs."

Play-writing contests will be sponsored, as well as foreign tours of dramatic study, the announcement continued, and the organization hopes to establish subscription audiences in the larger towns and cities that will enable the better professional productions to be shown generally.

FRIGIDAIRE has a surplus of power. Even when the thermometer climbs high in the nineties there is power to spare for emergencies. By its position in the cabinet the powerful Frigidaire mechanism is made still more efficient. It is enclosed in a special compartment at the bottom . . . where surrounding air is the coolest. It is out of sight and out of the way with nothing to catch dust or dirt.

Frigidaire maintains low, uniform temperatures in the food compartment without attention. You never have to think about it. The dessert and ice-making compartment is also regulated automatically. But if you want extra-quick freezing temperatures you can have them . . . whenever you wish . . . by simply turning the lever of the Frigidaire "Cold Control."

The "Cold Control" gives you your choice of six different freezing speeds. It enables you to freeze an abundance of ice cubes easily and quickly. It permits you to make a wide variety of unusual desserts that require extreme cold. The Frigidaire "Cold Control" is found on no other electric refrigerator.

See the Frigidaires now on display. Examine the smooth exterior and interior surfaces; the rounded corners; the waist-high shelves. Note the quietness of operation. The new Frigidaires are so incredibly quiet that you don't hear them start, stop, or run. Visit our showroom at your first opportunity. Ask us about the easy monthly terms.
